“

We engaged reinteractive because of our shared understanding of iterative, agile development. Initially we worked with their team on discrete development projects, but over time our relationship has grown, such that they attend our daily stand-ups and have become a part of our collaborative cross-functional teams.

“

The support from the operations team at reinteractive has been outstanding and they have been a pleasure to work with. I would have no hesitation in recommending reinteractive for the standard OpsCare® and CodeCare® packages.
