Statement on Safe Schools at the World Conference on DRR

March 14, 2015

Delivered by Assistant Secretary Reynaldo Laguda for the Working Session on Safe Schools at the World Conference on Disaster Risk Reduction in Sendai, Japan | March 14, 2015

On behalf of the Filipino people, I would like to express our sincerest gratitude to the different nations and partners who have extended their support after Typhoon Haiyan and continue to do so until today. Your compassion and solidarity with our people during that very challenging period has contributed much to our resilience and taught us that we are not alone—that we belong to a bigger community that values safety and security as much as we do.

The Philippines, through the Department of Education, recognizes that schools are at the heart of our communities, therefore we commit to keep our schools safe from threats, be they human-induced or natural. As an organization with around 47,000 schools under our belt, we are mandated to provide conditions where “students learn in a child-friendly, gender-sensitive, safe and motivating environment.”

We have adopted a unified national framework that incorporates the Comprehensive School Safety framework with the four themes of prevention, preparedness, response, & rehabilitation and recovery (see slide). This framework guides education planning and completion of our public schools and offices.

2. Partnerships, engagement and linkages are critical to our success. Groups like World Vision, Save the Children, Unicef, Red Cross, Plan International, to name a few, act locally in supporting our school development plans. The agility of private sector in responding is important as we rebuild schools. Our 11 year-old Brigada Eskwela (School Brigade) campaign draws out thousands of partners and volunteers nationwide in preparing our schools and thereby making it safer for children prior to the start of every school year. An inter-agency policy on camp management that stresses the importance of immediately restoring education services as a necessary element to recovery.
