

Omega Laboratories Ranks #1 for Most Recognized Hair Testing Brand for the 5th year

We are thrilled to announce that Omega Laboratories has been ranked #1 for most recognized brand for hair testing for the fifth consecutive year!

Each year, Current Consulting Group announces the results of their annual survey of the employee screening industry at the National Drug and Alcohol Screening Association (NDASA) annual conference.

The survey includes questions on a variety of industry products and services such as laboratory analysis, collection site management, instant products and Medical Review Services. Industry experts rate providers on a variety of factors that determine which companies have the best brand recognition and quality.

It is a great honor to be recognized by our wonderful clients and partners in the industry. The positive feedback received highlights the quality of our testing services, and other important areas that matter most to our clients, such as

- fast turnaround times
- an easy sales process
- quality project management
- reliable client services
- our full suite of technology offerings and data integration capabilities that help simplify your day-to-day business operations

Omega Laboratories is committed to delivering excellence in hair testing, as well as in our complete line of testing services. We strive to exceed your expectations in quality and ease of use for everyone who does business with us for years to come. Thank you for trusting us with your testing needs.

If you would like to learn more about Omega Laboratories' hair testing services and why we continue to be recognized as a leader in the industry, call us at 330-628-5748 or visit hair testing services.

Hair Testing

