Block Party is a program of Center Theatre Group

Please read this guidelines document in its entirety before beginning your application.

Block Party is an initiative focused on supporting and highlighting Los Angeles area theatres through the sharing of audiences, ideas, and resources.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

BLOCK PARTY
Celebrating Los Angeles Theatre

Block Party will provide two previously produced Los Angeles area productions with a re-mount production on the Kirk Douglas Theatre stage. Each of the two productions will run in a two-week slot with fifteen performances each (including two previews).

Center Theatre Group will support each show with a modest production budget and two weeks of paid rehearsal time. Depending on the needs of the actors, director, and team, rehearsals can take place during work hours or in the evenings. However, for the 3 days of tech and preview performances on each show, the actors, director, and design team will need to be fully available (day and night). Rehearsal space will be provided at either the Kirk Douglas Theatre, at the Center Theatre Group offices in Downtown L.A., or off-site.

Center Theatre Group will provide salaries for the actors, stage manager, and key creative team.

Examples of what can be included under creative team on the application include: director, costume designer, set designer, lighting designer, projection designer, sound designer, hair/make-up designer*, prop designer*, composer, choreographer, fight choreographer, assistant director*, etc.

All actors will be placed on Actors’ Equity Association LORT D contracts.
Under Center Theatre Group’s Equity agreement there is not an option to add understudies or alternating casts as every cast member must be placed on a minimum two-week agreement.

Each of the two visiting companies will receive a $2,000 company fee. This stipend is given to assist in covering travel costs, additional employee time, etc. Please see the Distribution of Funds section in these guidelines for more information.

Participants will work alongside Center Theatre Group’s in-house marketing and communications teams to promote the productions.

*CTG will be utilizing our in-house hair, wardrobe and prop support for Block Party productions, however, please note in your application if you had specialty designs in these areas. Assistant directors are determined on a case-by-case basis.

ELIGIBILITY

Please email BlockParty@CTGLA.org if you have any questions regarding your production’s eligibility or if you would like to request an eligibility exception.

- Visiting Companies from the previous cycles of Block Party can reapply after 5 cycles have passed from when they were participants in the program.

- Theatre must be located and producing in the greater Los Angeles area including the following counties: Los Angeles County, Orange County, San Bernardino County, Riverside County, and Ventura County.

- There is a cast size cap of 15 total.

- Cast must be located in a 50-mile radius of the Kirk Douglas Theatre in Downtown Culver City.

- Theatre must have a track record of at least two fully produced productions, each with nine performances over three weeks or longer. “Fully produced” is defined as utilizing a full production team (i.e. director, designers, stage manager, etc.) and receiving review coverage.

- Submitted production must have opened between January 1, 2018 and May 23, 2019.

- The director, design team, and cast must be available for the remount. Theatres can note on their application if there is an issue and exceptions will be considered.

- Theatres must be 99-seat houses or lower regardless of budget size.
• Companies can only apply with one production. Please feel free to reach out to us to discuss if you are making decisions between multiple productions in your season.

• Due to tech time and budget constraints, traditional musicals will not be considered. We will consider shows with music accompanied by a small band of three musicians or fewer.

• We will consider theatres whose staff/Board of Directors have a Center Theatre Group connection, and we will ensure that the review process avoids conflicts of interest.

SELECTION PROCESS AND CRITERIA

• For this year of Block Party, we will have one round of applications. More information will be requested and feedback will be available for those companies invited as finalists.

• Budget size is not a selection criterion. Don’t worry about the size of the budget; it’s how you use it.

• It is important to Center Theatre Group that we maintain the integrity of the production. We want to make sure your show will play well on the Kirk Douglas Theatre stage and that the remounted production stays faithful to the initial design and concept.

• Our criteria include:

  o The company. Given where the company is in its history, is this the right timing to highlight this company now? Are the leaders on the project committed, organized, and well-equipped to make this move, and would they work well with our staff (based upon their application materials)?

  o The play (as in, what is written on the page). Is there a reason to bring it to our audiences? Is this a playwright we would like to present and subject matter we think is important to explore?

  o Diversity. Do the play and the players represent the diverse landscape of Los Angeles? Diversity can mean (and is not limited to): ethnicity, age, gender, ability, theatrical style, etc.

  o The team. Are the designers and actors artists we want to get to know better or continue a relationship with?
- Strength of marketing & press capabilities. How strong was your theatre’s marketing plan? How did the production fare with the press? Was there any traction outside of reviews?

- Technical compatibility. Will the production elements transfer well to the Kirk Douglas Theatre stage?

- Overall fit for Block Party. Given the goals of the program, would this production be a good fit—taking all things into consideration?
