EDITORIAL

I have worked in the motor industry, or tyre industry to be exact, for most of my career. Over the years I have been fortunate to attend numerous tyre test sessions, driving a variety of cars around race tracks in the UK and overseas. I remember being at the Goodyear test circuit in Luxembourg when Jackie Stewart flew in by helicopter, and at Donnington when Niki Lauda spun in a Ford saloon demonstrating the use of early ABS braking systems.

As a result I have always had an interest in cars, and admit that I enjoy driving to this day. To me the most important part of a vehicle is its engine (and its tyres!). I get frustrated now when salesmen expound the benefits of in-car entertainment, sat nav and other, to my mind, pretty pointless electronic gadgets, and barely mention the performance aspect of the car.

Technology is fast-changing. We are told that in the not-too-distant future we will all just be passengers in self-driving cars. We won't own a car in the future, but instead we will order one, as if it was a take-away pizza, for the time we want to go somewhere. Even now my eldest son lives in London and does not have a car. If he needs one for the weekend, he can order one on his mobile, walk to where it is parked locally, use it for the time booked, and return it at the end of the period, leaving it where he found it. All done via a smart phone without any personal interaction.

Is all this technology really what we want, though? Will the described process work in Smannell or Little London when we need to pop to Enham Stores for a pint of milk? If your car now has keyless ignition - what really is the point of it? The "key" fits nowhere and either wears a hole in your pocket, or rattles around in the central tray. What was wrong with the old slot it went into to start the engine, and where you knew where it was?

Recent events demonstrate the continuing vulnerability of computer systems. I am not sure I would trust a car to get me safely from A to B, with me sitting in the back seat reading the newspaper. The younger members of our family think of me as a technical dinosaur at the best of times, but I do wonder whether public acceptance of such new ideas will progress as quickly as the designers and manufacturers imagine.

I must now submit the editorial to our editor, by email of course, and will then get on my mobile to turn the oven on at home for supper, and ensure the fridge is cold enough for that welcome beer. Oh, and it's getting late, so I'll turn the lights on at the same time.

Maybe, but not for me I'm afraid. The supper will be cooked already, the beer is waiting, and the lights will be turned on using an old-fashioned switch!

CHURCH IN SMANNEL & ENHAM

Ramblings from the Rectory ...

I have been thinking recently about peace and about sharing peace in a troubled world.

Even if the world around us feels very dark and chaotic at times, we can hold on to the peace which Jesus gives us. In accepting Jesus into our hearts through his Holy Spirit, we gain a peace that enables us to endure whatever the world throws at us.

The recent terrorist attacks in both Manchester and London, as well as the uncertainty about our hung Parliament and then the fire in West Kensington can leave us feeling frightened and afraid. But in dark times when there is fear and anger around us and darkness seems to be winning, there is a resounding response of 'love not hate.' Instead of holding on to hate, instead of cowering in the darkness, we can be light-bearers, the bearers of hope, full of the Spirit of Jesus.

If we pray, 'Come Holy Spirit' we can accept the Spirit of Jesus into our hearts, and the peace that passes all understanding ...

I came across this prayer about the Holy Spirit the other day and thought I'd share it with you.

Come Holy Spirit, give me happiness and contentment with my life,
And the Holy Spirit said No. Your life is full of opportunities. Happiness is your choice.

Come Holy Spirit, free me of pain and suffering.
And the Holy Spirit said No. There are some things that only pain can teach you.

Come Holy Spirit, make me grow.
And the Holy Spirit said No. I will prune you. I will cut you back to make you more fruitful.

Come Holy Spirit, give me patience.

And the Holy Spirit said No. You learn patience in the midst of trials and troubles that come your way.

Come Holy Spirit, take away my pride.

And the Holy Spirit said No. Pride is part of you. It may even prod you to excellence. Just you control and direct it.

Come Holy Spirit ...

And the Holy Spirit said, we wouldn't be having this conversation if I wasn't already here!

I wish you all a wonderful and peaceful month, and may the Spirit of Jesus guide you in all you do.

God bless,

Val

SMANNELL & ENHAM CHURCH OF ENGLAND PRIMARY SCHOOL

Now that the sun is shining brightly it seems appropriate to fill you in with summery news, in particular cathedrals and maypoles.

As our Year 6 children prepare to move onto their secondary schools there are many traditional highlights in which they participate. One of them is the annual Winchester Cathedral Leavers' Service. Children from all across the diocese pack into the cathedral to take part in activities before joining together in a service. The service starts with all schools parading banners down through the nave. I thought you might like to see our Year 6 children with the school banner.

Our country dancing club really enjoyed having the opportunity to show off their maypole dancing skills on a very hot Saturday before the beginning of the Bishop's Walk. They had worked really hard to learn the skills involved and to make sure that they all went in the right direction at the right time. As someone who was barred from maypole dancing at primary school I am always in awe of the patterns that appear at the top of the pole from the dancers down below. Maypole dancing is of course very traditional and was apparently very much in fashion when the church was originally consecrated.

I wonder what our counterparts looked like 160 years ago when the church was consecrated.

SMANNELL PARISH COUNCIL

Test Valley Local Plan 2011 to 2029

The Adopted Plan has now been published. It shows the discussed Local Gap between Augusta Park and Smannell/Woodhouse. The gap runs from Finkley Road diagonally across the field to Smannell Road, following the footpath, then along the road to Ashley Copse and up the Cinder Track.

Test Valley Borough Warding Review

The Boundaries Commission has published its draft proposals for our ward. The proposal is for our ward, Alamein, to be split such that the part including the Roman Way and Augusta Park area become the "Romans" Ward and the rural areas covering our church parish will become part of the current Bourne Valley Ward to our north. The change has been occasioned by the large increase in population in Augusta Park.

Broadband

Little London is now attached to BT high speed broadband. However, Smannell is on a different circuit from the exchange in Andover and is not scheduled to receive the BT system for a little while. Delivery later this year is mentioned but not promised. Our borough and county councillors are in discussion with Hampshire County Council, who pays for the system, to see what can be done.

Three options are under discussion:

- 1) use satellite system
- 2) pay for current provider to continue with current system
- 3) bring forward the date of BT system.

Option 1- would be expensive for user and would probably not be of good enough quality.

Option 2- would require a large subsidy for the very small number of users and would be difficult to justify as a use of public funds.

Option 3- would appear the most viable option and the council is pressing for an earlier implementation date.

Little London Playing Fields:

Enham Trust, who manages the grounds, have been contacted to agree a basis on which the fields can be better maintained.

Pot Holes:

Pot holes on the main road through the parish have been filled. Please do use the Hampshire County Council web site to report any holes you see which do need doing.

Augusta Park Community Centre:

A request has been received for further dog bins on the west side of Augusta Park. The matter will be reviewed with the Augusta Park Community Association when the land becomes adopted.

Hello everybody,

As June comes to an end, and the warm summer weather takes hold we hope, I'd like to share a couple of highlights from the array of things happening at Enham Trust.

Firstly, I'd like to thank Friends of Move Hampshire for hosting a unique event in Lower Wield on the 13th June to raise valuable funds for The Move Programme from Enham Trust; their continued support is really appreciated.

Looking back over the last month, I'm delighted to share with you the news that our onsite Social Enterprise, Enham 3PL, recently took delivery of 2 new machines – a cardboard-box-making machine and a shrink-wrapping machine – allowing the Enterprise to expand their offerings to businesses in the area, which Mike Batchelor will be taking forward.

I'd also like to take this opportunity to congratulate one of our residents, Jo, on realising his ambition to walk – aided – with the support of our wonderful Occupational Therapy & Physiotherapy partners, Hobbs. This is a massive feat for Jo who uses a wheelchair, and something he and the team have worked incredibly hard to achieve.

Looking forward, we're incredibly grateful to the Masonic Charitable Foundation's Community Awards for the opportunity to win a grant of up to £25,000 to support our work. The initiative, which asks for members of the public to vote for a cause they feel most passionately about, is open for voting until the 31st July, and I'd like to ask all of you reading this to please vote for us via: <https://mcf.org.uk/region/hampshire-isle-of-wight/> - it takes no more than a minute to vote, and could positively transform the lives of so many of our disabled customers here in the village and beyond.

Finally, I'd like to personally thank our local Councillors for generously gifting our leisure & day services, Choices, £1000 from the Councillors Community Grant Scheme. More information about any of the above can be found on our website: www.enhamtrust.org.uk

Best wishes,

Heath Gunn, CEO

If you are taking a holiday this summer make sure that your cats are safe in a cattery or at home with a minder. If they are staying at home it is a good idea to confine them to the house. The cats may not appreciate this but we frequently get calls from owners whose cats have wandered while they were away.

Should you live in a rural area you may find, now summer is here, that your cat has collected ticks in his fur. Not all flea preparations can deal with this so check with your vet that you are using the right one.

Clyde, last month's cat, went off to a home but unfortunately had to come back as he didn't like the resident dog.

Vera came into the care of Cats Protection with her three new-born kittens, who have all now gone to new homes. She is about a year old and very friendly and playful.

I can't believe this has happened in the 21st century

This has been a common response to the awful disaster of the burning of Grenfell Tower in North Kensington, resulting in so many deaths. What can one say about it?

Through science we have made great progress in knowledge. We understand much better how things work and what we need to do to get a particular result. We know, for instance, what kinds of cladding are more fire resistant than others. Furthermore, we probably keep better records world-wide than at any time before. We can consult other communities about the fires they have suffered.

But this is only part of the story. However much we know there are still things that can go wrong. A decision can be made to save money during the refurbishment and fit a lesser fire resistant cladding – after all we have to make unenviable choices about how we spend public money. Spend it here and you cannot spend it there. Or there may have been some bad judgements along the line – risks may have been underestimated, or too little consultation between different disciplines (architects, fire prevention experts, etc). There may have been over-confidence (“it will never happen”), or even, sadly, some corruption.

Unless we are committed to using our knowledge wisely and to keeping up our standards of installation, the knowledge we have is worth relatively little. Only an enquiry will now determine the cause of the fire and the nature of fire prevention measures. We have been here before. An enquiry has to be followed through. After the Levison Part 1 Report we were promised that any recommendations would be fully implemented. But the General Election manifesto shows that promises made by the government may have now been abandoned.

Our future as a democracy depends on trust – on those in power carrying out their promises and being trustworthy. If we lose that trust people will be saying the same thing “I can't believe this has happened in the 21st century” again and again in the future.
