At the base of the Great Rift Valley escarpment, the scenery is as stunning as the exotic wildlife, including the park's famous tree-climbing lions. Plentiful herds of elephants, water buffalo, giraffe, zebra, and the mysterious leopard are found around this lake, covering 89 square miles. Pick up from the lodge after breakfast and drive through Ngorongoro Crater Conservation Area to Olduvai Gorge to see the famous work of paleoanthropologists Louis and Mary Leakey and their many discoveries in the region, including the remains of homo habilis, the first known ancestors of modern humankind at over 2.3 million years old. Continue game driving to the heart of Tanzania's outback by heading west, toward the Serengeti Plains.
