I WISH TO GO TO THE WOLD SERIES

Tyler is easily described as an outdoorsman. He enjoys hunting, fishing, being an active member of 4H, and especially loves playing baseball.

However, after being diagnosed with Hodgkin's Lymphoma, a large portion of his outdoor activities were replaced with hospital visits and various treatments.

Tyler's passion for baseball provided an easy choice when he was visited by his for his Wish-Granting Volunteers. His wish was to go to the 2012 World Series.

Last year Tyler and his family flew west to San Francisco, California to take in a game of the Fall Classic at the San Francisco Giants home stadium as they faced the Detroit Tigers

This trip provided Tyler and his family to spend quality time together while having an experience of a lifetime.

Today we are ecstatic to say Tyler is cancer free and excited for what the future holds.

Thank you for making wishes like Tyler's come true.
