

Bob and Dana Townsend consider Sheridan, Wyoming and the surrounding area an important part of their family heritage. Bob's grandfather, Herman Madron, moved to Clearmont, Wyoming in 1934. By the 1940's, he and his wife, Della, lived and worked on a small ranch located between Parkman and Ranchester. Their family brand is A/X LRC, which they still own. Bob's mother, Dona, and her five siblings all grew up in and around Sheridan. On October 25th, 2013, Bob and Dana became the newest owners of the Historic Sheridan Inn. In January of 2015, the Open Range Restaurant was opened. On May 15th, 2015, the hotel portion of the Inn opened its doors to guests for the first time in over 50 years.

THE HISTORIC SHERIDAN INN
856 Broadway
Sheridan,
Wyoming
82801

The Historic Sheridan Inn first opened in the summer of 1893, on June 18th. Funded in part by the Burlington Missouri Railroad and the Sheridan Land Company for a cost of $25,000.00. Construction was launched in December of 1892, and on a warm evening in 1893, the first electric lights to ever be turned on in Sheridan were seen streaming out each of the Inn's 69 gables.

THOS. R. KIMBALL, ARCHITECT.

The Inn was designed by an architect by the name of Thomas Kimball and featured 64 rooms on the second and third floors with a single bathroom on each. He fashioned the historic piece of property after hunting lodges he had visited in Scotland. The Inn was fabricated to accommodate businessmen, politicians, and families needing a place to stay as they fulfilled their roles in the economic expansion of the West. And in a way, it still continues to serve that same purpose today.

The Inn's most well-known occupant was Col. William F. "Buffalo Bill" Cody. He took up residence of the Inn from 1894 to 1902. During that time, Cody would use the front lawn to hold auditions for his 'Wild West' Show. The Show depicted life of the 'Old West' featuring Native American Culture and famous western reenactments.
