Three Amarillo CVC Staff Continue Professional Education at Texas Association of Convention & Visitor Bureaus Meeting

Three staff members from the Amarillo Convention & Visitor Council continued their professional education during the recent annual meeting of the Texas Association of Convention & Visitor Bureaus in El Paso.

Kashion Smith (left), director of tourism, Tina Brohlin (center), director of sales, and Stephanie Andrews (right), servicing manager, completed various levels of training during the meeting. Smith received a Certificate in Marketing and Andrews received a Certificate in Group Servicing. Brohlin completed the entire certificate program and received her designation as a Texas Destination Marketer.

“These accomplishments represent extra dedication to our industry and to our visitors as we all strive to make the Amarillo experience better for everyone,” Dan Quandt, Vice President of the Amarillo CVC, says.
