Explore Fairbanks 2015-16 Winter Guide features aurora viewing, ice sculpting and dog mushing

Fairbanks, Alaska (AK) - The 2015-2016 Fairbanks Winter Guide is now available for free. The 32-page full-color booklet with winter activity listings and an action-packed events calendar offers an informative, yet lighthearted view of winter in Alaska's Interior and the Arctic. Fairbanks has ultimate aurora viewing, one of the world's largest ice-sculpting events and an amazing array of dog mushing. This trio of events make the winter season a travelers' snowy paradise. The Winter Guide is designed to help plan vacations in the winter season.

The guide presents Fairbanks attractions and activities and also highlights nearby winter destinations. Visitors are invited to mush a team of huskies across the wilderness, discover Denali National Park during the winter months, journey above the Arctic Circle, visit Santa in North Pole, or delight in the warmth of an Alaskan hot spring at the end of an adventure-filled day.

The event section provides current information about winter activities, celebrations and sporting events. Highlights include events such as the 71st Open North American Championship Sled Dog Race, the Festival of Native Arts, the World Ice Art Championships and the Iron Dog - the world's longest, toughest snowmobile race. The diverse art scene in Fairbanks, including musical and dramatic performances, Alaska Native cultural events, art galleries and museum exhibits are also featured. Other outdoor action, such as skiing, ice skating, snowmobiling, snow shoeing, ice fishing, curling, tubing and ice hockey are also covered.
