CHAMPIONSHIP SCHEDULE

Thursday, May 4 – Semifinals (game start times TBA)

Saturday, May 6 – Finals (game start time TBA)

Parking in St. John Arena lots will be free for the event. Ohio State students will also receive free admission with a valid BUCKID for any matches in which the Buckeyes are competing. Doors will open 60 minutes prior to the first semifinal and again for the finals.

Ohio's capital city has laid claim to the title of 'Volleyball Capital of the Midwest,' becoming the first city in NCAA history to host both the women's and men's collegiate national volleyball championship in the same academic year in addition to a long history of hosting premier amateur volleyball events. The NCAA Women's Volleyball Championship was held Dec. 15-17, 2016 downtown at Nationwide Arena.

Buckeye Men's Volleyball is currently riding a 36-match winning streak, a run that includes the 2016 national title.
