

Courtesy

The best New England fall and harvest festivals

Put these on your calendar now for lots of fall fun.

Edited by JQ Louise Written by Katie McAleer Wednesday September 27 2023

Fall is the best time to be in New England. And it is even better when you get to enjoy the foliage, local arts and crafts, cider, pumpkin picking and all the other seasonal activities that make living here so special. We have rounded up our favorite fall harvest festivals to check out to have the best season possible. And keep the fall mood going by checking out our guide to the best Halloween events in Boston and the best places to go pumpkin picking.

Rhode Island

Autumnfest

Northern Rhode Island's largest festival is back, October 7-9 will be the 45th Autumnfest. Taking place in Woonsocket, Rhode Island, Autumnfest draws over 100,000 attendees featuring over 50 handmade and artisan vendors, visitors can also enjoy local food, rides, games and more. Get all the details here.

Rodger Williams Jack-o-Lantern Spectacular

Taking place from September 28 to October 31, the Rodger Williams Jack-O-Lantern Spectacular promises fun for the whole family. One of New England's favorite Halloween traditions, this year's theme is Pumpkins Around the World. Illuminated pumpkins will magically transport visitors from a European vacation, or a wildlife safari, to the Pyramids of Giza and the Leaning Tower of Pisa. The trail is open nightly from 6-10:30pm, tickets sold online only, get all the details and buy tickets here.

Harvest Festival at Newport Vineyards

Celebrate the 6th Annual Harvest Festival at Newport Vineyards October 28-29. Guests can join in on the fun with grape stomping, wine and beer tasting and enjoy festive bites. There will even be a costume contest with special prizes to kick off Halloween! Buy tickets here.