October 2026 Festivals & Events

Mullet Haul n' Hustle Half Marathon, Marathon Relay, 5K and Kids Dash

Saturday, Oct. 3, 8 a.m.

Johns Island County Park

Lace up and hit the dirt for the Mullet Haul n' Hustle, a fast, fun, and scenic trail race winding through some of the Lowcountry's most beautiful natural terrain. This race offers four distances: Half Marathon, Marathon Relay, 5K and Kids Dash. Designed for both seasoned trail runners and first-timers eager to try something new, the Mullet Haul n' Hustle blends Charleston charm with off-road adventure. Expect rolling terrain, shaded stretches, and the kind of peaceful forest backdrop that reminds you why the Lowcountry is such an amazing place to run. Stick around afterward for refreshments, adult beverages, photo ops, and good vibes with the Charleston running community. Before the race, we invite children under the age of 8 to dash across the finish, too. Kids dash registration is available for $5 and includes a finisher medal. Parent or guardian must be present. The half marathon is open to runners and walkers of all levels, including beginners. All trails are of a natural, unimproved surface. Loop course with water stations. For more information, visit CharlestonCountyParks.com.

Fees vary

Ages: 8 and up

October 2026 Programs

Dock Discovery

Thursday, Oct. 1, 9:30 – 11 a.m.

James Island County Park

Join one of our naturalists at the fishing dock at James Island County Park. We'll explore the marsh edges, the organisms that live underwater on the dock itself, and even microscopic plankton that drift their way down the creek. A net especially designed to trap tiny planktonic organisms will be used and microscopes will be set up at an indoor location to allow us to view this seldom seen world. What to expect: Accessible parking, accessible restrooms, and accessible water fountains are available at this park. A portion of this program will take place in the salt marsh on a dock. Periods of walking and observing nature are part of this program. The program's walking pace will be slow to moderate, and the trails are paved surfaces. Tables for sitting will be available where the second half of program takes place.

Fee: $12

Ages: 12 and up

A Big Sit: Birding Event

Saturday, Oct. 3, 8 a.m. – 4 p.m.

James Island County Park

How many birds can we identify while staying within a seventeen-foot diameter circle? Join this accessible and inclusive birding event to help answer this question! Birding enthusiasts will be there to help with species identification and information. Drop in for 20 minutes or stick around for hours, as this is sure to be a fun learning experience about and for birds of many feathers. This program is open to birders of all levels, including beginners. Please feel free to bring food/snacks with you to enjoy at the accessible picnic tables available for you near the count circle. The count circle area includes a packed grassy surface that is mostly flat. Please bring your own seat, from camp chair to wheelchair. Some binoculars and chairs will be available to share among participants.

Introduction to the Stono Rebellion Landscape

Saturday, Oct. 10, 10 a.m. – 12 p.m.

Caw Caw Interpretive Center

Join us for three events that explore the landscape of the Stono Rebellion – an uprising of enslaved Africans that occurred around the Caw Caw swamp in 1739. Despite being the largest uprising of enslaved people in the British North American colonies prior to the American Revolution, the Stono Rebellion remains largely unknown to the general public. Across the three events, attendees will learn about the Stono Rebellion through public presentations, interacting with archaeological artifacts, and experiencing the landscape through a walking tour of Caw Caw and a driving tour of the major sites of the rebellion. In this kick-off event, we begin in the Caw Caw classroom with a presentation of the historical events of Stono Rebellion by Joshua Parks and Eric Grant. Jon Marcoux will then discuss how archaeology can help us learn about the events and lives of the people who were involved in the rebellion, inviting attendees to explore archaeological artifacts as a tangible link to the past. We will then visit the nearby Stono Rebellion National Historic Landmark site and discuss the impacts of modern development on the surrounding historic landscape. For more information, visit CharlestonCountyParks.com.

Join us for three events that explore the landscape of the Stono Rebellion – an uprising of enslaved Africans that occurred around the Caw Caw swamp in 1739. Despite being the largest uprising of enslaved people in the British North American colonies prior to the American Revolution, the Stono Rebellion remains largely unknown to the general public. Across the three events, attendees will learn about the Stono Rebellion through public presentations, interacting with archaeological artifacts, and experiencing the landscape through a walking tour of Caw Caw and a driving tour of the major sites of the rebellion. The Stono Rebellion played out across a landscape transformed by an economic shift from cattle and timber to rice in the early 1700s. Led by historian Erica Veal, this tour of Caw Caw focuses on the ways enslaved people transformed the landscape from grazing savannahs and cypress swamps into rice fields.
