

Singapore GP in numbers

The annual FORMULA 1 SINGAPORE GRAND PRIX is one of the world's most incredible sporting spectacles. The city backdrop, F1 cars threading the barriers at up to 320km an hour, all with the Marina Bay Street Circuit lit up bright. For the drivers, it's a huge challenge with a busy 5km lap, including 23 corners and few places to catch your breath amongst the concrete barriers.

5.065km

total length of the track

5,000

approximate number of times drivers change gear during the race

320km/h

fastest speed reached, between turns 6 and 7

1,600

approximate number of light projectors around the circuit

61

laps to complete the race

25

number of superscreens around the circuit

23

most number of turns in the F1 calendar

57km

of fibre optic cables around the circuit

1:47.187

record for fastest lap, set by Daniel Ricciardo in 2016

1,100

volunteer race marshals

700tonnes

approximate weight of F1 cargo flown in on seven jumbo jets

900kg

of lobster served on race day

$150m

cost of hosting the race

9,099

bottles of champagne served over three days

