American Conservatory Theater, San Francisco’s Tony Award–winning nonprofit theater, nurtures the art of live theater through dynamic productions, intensive actor training, and ongoing community engagement. We embrace our responsibility to conserve, renew, and reinvent our rich theatrical traditions, while exploring new artistic forms and communities. Founded by William Ball, a pioneer of the regional theater movement, A.C.T. opened in San Francisco in 1967. We have since performed more than 400 productions to more than seven million people.

Hailed as the “perfect playhouse,” the beautiful Geary Theater has been our home since the beginning. When the 1989 Loma Prieta earthquake ripped the roof apart, San Franciscans raised a record-breaking $30 million to rebuild the theater. The Geary reopened in 1996 with The Tempest, directed by Carey Perloff, who took over as A.C.T.’s third artistic director in 1992 after the retirement of Edward Hastings.

Perloff’s tenure was marked by translations of classical works; cross-disciplinary performances and international collaborations; and theater made by, for, and about the Bay Area. Exploring powerful stories by celebrated artists and introducing audiences to extraordinary emerging voices in American theater continues under A.C.T.’s current artistic director, Pam MacKinnon.

A.C.T.’s 50-year-old Conservatory, led by Melissa Smith, is at the center of our work. Our three-year, fully accredited Master of Fine Arts Program is at the forefront of America’s actor training programs. Our Summer Training Congress attracts students from around the world, while the San Francisco Semester offers a unique study-abroad opportunity for undergraduates. Other programs include Studio A.C.T.—our expansive course of theater study for adults—and the Professional Development Training Program, which offers actor training for companies seeking to elevate employees’ business performance skills. Our alumni often grace our mainstage and perform around the Bay Area, as well as on stages and screens nationwide.

A.C.T. brings the benefits of theater-based arts education to more than 17,000 Bay Area students and educators each year. Director of Education & Community Programs Elizabeth Brodersen oversees the Young Conservatory (students ages 8–19), our Fellowship Program for emerging theater professionals, and our ACTsmart school and community programs, including the Student Matinee (SMAT) program that has brought hundreds of thousands of young people to A.C.T. performances since 1968. We also provide touring Will on Wheels Shakespeare productions, teaching-artist residencies, in-school workshops, and study materials to Bay Area schools and community-based organizations.

With the appointment of Artistic Director Pam MacKinnon and Executive Director Jennifer Bielstein, our continuing commitment to the development of new work and new artists, and our increased presence in the Central Market neighborhood with The Strand and The Costume Shop theaters, A.C.T. plays a leadership role in securing the future of theater for San Francisco and the nation.

The New Yorker

Change is challenging. So is communicating with giant reptiles.

Charlie and Nancy are squabbling on a beach about what to do now they're retired when they're interrupted by two human-sized lizards. All four speak English, but as they struggle to understand each other, they reach the limits of language. How can you define mothers, or planes, or love?

In her A.C.T. directorial debut, Artistic Director Pam MacKinnon presents an intriguing comedy about transition. With Seascape, she continues her career-long exploration of legendary playwright Edward Albee (Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?; The Goat, or Who Is Sylvia?), bringing the Pulitzer Prize winner back to The Geary for the first time in over a decade. Experience this sparkling fantasy of growing up and growing old, fear and adventure, love and laughter.

A.C.T. is a multi-generational artistic and educational community where growth is creative, individual, and lifelong—from artists to students to staff. By making a gift today, you support students of all ages looking to learn and grow with A.C.T.!
Welcome to A Christmas Carol,

As you step into The Geary, I’m going to wow you with numbers. Charles Dickens published A Christmas Carol on December 19, 1843. The first theater production took place six weeks later. Here we are in San Francisco, 175 years later, celebrating the holidays, 42 years into an A.C.T. tradition of Carol on our stage.

This year’s Carol has more children from our Young Conservatory than ever before. Domenique Lozano is helming a cast of 50 actors, 28 of whom are under the age of 14. Four generations are sharing this stage. Ken Ruta, who first appeared at The Geary in Tartuffe in 1967 and has performed in more than 70 A.C.T. productions, is playing Jacob Marley, alongside our youngest actor in the role of Tiny Tim, Sophia Koshland, a fourth-grade student at Malcolm X Elementary School in Berkeley.

With Dickens’s evergreen story adapted by Carey Perloff and Paul Walsh, A.C.T.’s Christmas Carol also serves as a springboard for our M.F.A. Program third-year students, now in their final months of training. They are the bridge between the large cast of children and our professional actors, positioned to both mentor and learn with every rehearsal and performance. They receive their Actors’ Equity Union membership with this production, and they’ll soon transition to being professionals appearing on stage and screen all across the country.

The Carol family, of course, is founded on you, the audience. I have heard of parents buying dozens of tickets so that extended family can see a child actor onstage. I know hundreds of middle school students see this show each season, and for many, it is their first play. It’s a beautiful story told well. It’s for the Bay Area community, told by the Bay Area community. Please take in the whole experience as you settle into your seats. Look to your left and to your right. This is a story about a person waking up renewed and falling in love with a day and a city. I charge you to do the same.

Up next is my directorial debut at A.C.T. I hope you will join me on the sand dune for Edward Albee’s Seascape. Edward was a dear friend. I plan to make him proud.

Happy holidays and see you at the theater.

Pam MacKinnon
Artistic Director

FROM THE ARTISTIC AND EXECUTIVE DIRECTORS

Dear Friends,

For many of us, it simply wouldn’t be the holiday season without a production of A Christmas Carol. At many theater companies including A.C.T., it’s a time where we see unprecedented intergenerational audiences—oftentimes several generations of family and friends coming together to witness this beautiful story of redemption and community. For many, it’s their first introduction to the transformative power of theater.

What I find thrilling about A.C.T.’s production is how the gathering of generations happens not just in our audience but in every level of our theater, reflecting a core belief of A.C.T.’s founding artists. This is a company whose very makeup maintains a tradition of fostering artistic growth through mentorship, community, and a never-ending spirit of learning through shared experience.

When William Ball founded this company 50 years ago, it was with a concept revolutionary in American theater: working actors should be students of the craft, enriching themselves through continued practice and teaching young actors who will further the art form. It’s the same concept that infuses every part of A.C.T. to this day.

One example of this concept is our Fellowship Program. Each year, we bring more than a dozen emerging artisans, administrators, and theater-makers to San Francisco. From our marketing department to the wig shop, from our development team to our Conservatory office, from stage management to company management, the next generation of America’s theater leaders are learning their craft alongside the professionals who make up A.C.T.’s full-time staff. With a curriculum built into this season-long program, it’s been invigorating for me to see members of our Fellowship Program present at every level. The participants see how the wheels of a large organization turn, take the opportunity to enhance and develop their own artistry and work ethic, and teach us through their experience and perspective around the industry and the world.

Whether this is your first year joining us for A Christmas Carol, or your 40th year, we thank you for including the many generations of the A.C.T. family in your holiday season.

Gratefully,

Jennifer Bielstein

The Man Who Invented Christmas

Dickens's Effect on the Holiday Season

By Michael Paller

Charles Dickens has been called “the man who invented Christmas,” and while that’s an exaggeration, it’s only a slight one. He didn’t invent the modern holiday by himself, but for many people, his vision of Christmas is Christmas.

Imagine a Christmas without carols or cards. No festive dinner or presents under the tree on Christmas morning. No tree. This was Christmas in most places before A Christmas Carol was published in 1843.

By the time Dickens wrote A Christmas Carol, Christmas had fallen into a bad way. In Elizabethan days, Christmas was a raucous affair, reminiscent of the pagan winter solstice rituals from which it emerged. When the dour Puritans seized power in 1642, they attacked Christmas as a pagan assault on Christ. They banned it and also outlawed another roguish activity, the theater, tearing down most of the existing playhouses. Christmas and the theater disappeared in England, and neither returned until the Stuart kings restored them in 1660.

Christmas was grim in England’s cities during the 1800s. Factories were open on December 25, and there was no day off for employees like Martha Cratchit. Still, while Christmas wasn’t much celebrated in large cities, some old customs were observed in rural villages, with games, carols, and dances. Garland was popular, and the gentry retained the tradition of opening their homes to their less well-off neighbors and distributing food and drink to the poor. As a child, Dickens heard of these customs from his father, whose parents were servants at a country estate in northwest England.

Back in America in 1820, Washington Irving—one of Dickens’s favorite authors—published The Sketch Book of Geoffrey Crayon, Gentleman, a collection of tales and essays. In addition to “Rip Van Winkle,” the book contained three chapters devoted to Christmas at a British country estate called Bracebridge Hall. The place was fictional, but the accounts of Christmas celebrations were based on what Irving had seen and heard during years in Europe—sumptuous dinners, a blazing yule log, dances, games, songs. Dickens, then, had several sources of inspiration for a Christmas that neither he nor thousands of others had ever really experienced. This kind of Christmas matched his own temperament and needs, which were forged in a childhood of want and uncertainty.

When Dickens was 12, his father was declared bankrupt. He and the entire family except for Charles were imprisoned for debt. The boy, alone in the world, was removed from school and put to work. It was the formative experience of his life. It’s not surprising, then, that in a series of pieces beginning in 1835 with an essay called “Christmas Festivities,” Dickens depicted a holiday centered on families, with children who were loved and surrounded by good cheer. While Dickens produced five short books and numerous articles on Christmas themes, A Christmas Carol has always been the most popular, and the most successful in setting out what he came to call his “Carol philosophy,” concerned with the welfare of all.

Dickens’s image of Christmas as a time prompting generosity struck a chord with his readers. English poet Thomas Hood wrote in his review of A Christmas Carol, “If Christmas with its ancient and hospitable customs, its social and charitable observances, were in danger of decay, this is the book that would give them a new lease.” It did.

By the end of 1844, at least 12 unauthorized theatrical adaptations had appeared in London. At the same time, other Christmas traditions emerged to help create Christmas as we know it. In 1822, New York writer Clement Clarke Moore wrote “A Visit from St. Nicholas” (aka “‘Twas the Night before Christmas”), with its vision of Santa Claus delivering gifts via a reindeer-drawn sleigh. In 1841, Prince Albert, the German consort of Queen Victoria, brought a Christmas tree to Windsor Castle. A tradition from his homeland, it was decorated with glass ornaments, candles, fruit, and gingerbread. By the end of the decade, it had become ubiquitous.

It’s a sad irony that the profit-driven atmosphere of the early 19th century, which led Dickens to write Carol, has infected the holiday in our own time. Still, Carol is an antidote to what a contemporary critic referred to as “this money-seeking age and money-getting country.” Dickens’s vision of Christmas isn’t about money; it doesn’t divide rich from poor. It encompasses all, child and adult, the loved and the orphaned—summed up in a sentence that retains its revolutionary plea: “God bless us, every one!”

The Carol experience is both the same and different every year. There is the core team of artistic staff and the adult professional actors, but the M.F.A. and Young Conservatory actors bring a new energy to the table. I find it magical how different it feels year to year. The text, sets, costumes, lighting, and sound may be the same, but somehow it always feels fresh. It’s because this story is as relevant today as it was 150 years ago, and because [Director] Domenique Lozano comes into the room each year with a fresh take on it.

Howard Swain and I have played the Charitables for many years. Some years, it feels like our characters are new to the job, and other years it feels like we do this all the time but have never encountered as stingy, mean, and horrible a person as Scrooge. It’s fun to see what pops up each year.

Anthony Fusco
SCROOGE
Playing Scrooge is like getting back in touch with someone I used to know well, and discovering that not everything I thought I knew about him is true! Or that he has changed since we last hung out, or I’ve changed, so the relationship needs to be rediscovered.

Each year’s group of actors naturally brings different energies, ideas, and personalities to their roles. It’s interesting to rediscover my Scrooge in that context. I always learn something. The relationship with the Ghost of Christmas Past offers the most mystery from year to year. Some actors have emphasized Past’s authority and determination, while others have been kinder and more loving.

Of course, the story’s genius lies in its universality. Sadly, one doesn’t need to do a whole lot to make Scrooge relevant!

James Carpenter
SCROOGE
After 12 years, I don’t know that I’d call Scrooge an old friend. A mutual combatant, perhaps, a role I know I have to ready myself to take on. It is a very physically taxing role and it takes laser focus and precision to do it justice. A mini King Lear.

Every year, I discover new things, egged on by Domenique Lozano to ask questions about moments, reexamine choices made in previous years, and explore new paths through scenes. One year, Domenique asked me not to look at anyone, even when addressing them directly; it was surprisingly difficult.

Domenique insists on finding new perspectives. All of the regulars in the cast encourage the M.F.A. and YC actors to give input, take risks, make unexpected choices, and remember the spirit of what Dickens wrote, this gift and reminder he gave the world.

Sharon Lockwood
MRS. DILBER/MRS. FEZZIWIG

Every new Carol cast is a new adventure. Each professional Carol actor is assigned two M.F.A. actors to mentor, so we really get to know them and share our experience in depth. Over the years, many young actors I’ve mentored have kept in touch.

It’s so nifty to play two wildly different characters back and forth over the course of a show. I’m always trying some new bit with old Mrs. Dilber, be it with the gruel or getting Scrooge into his nightshirt. With two different but wonderful Scrooges, I can’t help but be on my toes. Domenique is always coming up with ways to fine-tune and tell the story as if for the first time. A Christmas Carol always feels vital. It’s a life-affirming place to be for the holiday season!

CHARLES DICKENS (Author) was born in 1812 in Portsmouth, England. His literary success began in 1836 with the publication of Sketches by Boz and The Pickwick Papers. These were followed by Oliver Twist (1837–39), Nicholas Nickleby (1839), Barnaby Rudge (1841), A Christmas Carol (1843), Martin Chuzzlewit (1844), and David Copperfield (1850). In the 1850s Dickens’s marriage to Catherine Hogarth dissolved, and his work began to tackle darker themes and criticize industrial society. The novels of this period include Bleak House (1853), Hard Times (1854), Little Dorrit (1857), A Tale of Two Cities (1859), and Great Expectations (1860). He wrote 15 novels, all of which remain in print.

Perloff is an award-winning playwright whose works include Kinship, Higher, and Luminescence Dating. Every year, almost 100 schools bring a total of 5,000 students to A.C.T. as part of our Student Matinee (SMAT) program, which provides steeply discounted tickets to student-only performances. Local music and theater teacher Peter Sroka takes it a step further; not only does he bring 70 fifth-grade students from Bessie Carmichael PreK–8 School/Filipino Education Center to an annual SMAT, he also leads them in a pre-show performance. Sroka writes these mini-musicals himself, tailoring the songs and comic scenes to the play’s themes. “It’s a chance for students to engage with the text,” says Sroka, “and to think about the different layers of a show.”

Sroka is an itinerant arts teacher for the San Francisco Unified School District, which means he doesn’t have a classroom of his own. Instead, he shifts between five schools, one for each day of the week. Thursdays are Bessie Carmichael days, when he’ll work with all 560 students. Seventy of those students are fifth graders, many of whom have been looking forward to their pre-SMAT A.C.T. performance since kindergarten.

“They’re always so excited,” says Sroka. “It’s a real, professional experience for them. They have a tech rehearsal, go backstage to wait, return to the big stage for their performance, then settle into the audience to watch a Broadway-caliber show. For most students, that’s something they’ve never done before.”

A.C.T. has partnered with the Galing Bata afterschool program at Bessie Carmichael to provide weekly theater classes since 2013. The first SMAT that Sroka brought his students to—a performance of Stuck Elevator—was such a hit with the children that Director of Education & Community Programs Elizabeth Brodersen invited Sroka’s students to return again. And again. And again. Their 2018 performance at A Christmas Carol will be the seventh time Bessie Carmichael students grace an A.C.T. mainstage.

For some students, performing in the vastness of The Geary can be intimidating. But when they overcome their nerves, their sense of accomplishment is tremendous. “Having those older kids applauding and praising the fifth graders—that kind of reinforcement is huge,” says Sroka. “There’s nothing quite like it.”

A.C.T.’s Christmas Carol would be nothing without twirling figs, dancing plums, and, of course, Tiny Tim. Yet the 28 young actors in this year’s production represent only a small fraction of the approximately 1,200 performers aged 8 to 19 who take classes in our Young Conservatory throughout the year. Led by YC Director Jill MacLean, the program helps young people develop their talents and gain the confidence to succeed.

Taught by the Bay Area’s best teaching artists, these classes include everything from acting and improvisation to physical comedy and costume design. “Initially, I wasn’t great at projecting my voice,” says middle schooler Neel Sivan. “My voice and diction teacher gave me tips on how I could improve and the next week, everyone could hear me clearly. That was an awesome moment for me.”

Among these classes are college prep workshops, mock auditions, and coaching sessions. For high school senior Lucas Babcock (fourth from left in photo), these resources have been invaluable as he applies to top college theater programs. “Being able to get feedback from coaches and directors allows me to perfect my audition pieces and feel confident in what I have prepared,” says Babcock. “The YC has given me the confidence to really be myself and to never second guess my choices as a performer.”

Classes in the YC teach students more than just acting and singing; they provide young people with life skills, including public speaking, collaborating, problem solving, and self-confidence. “The Young Conservatory is a place for me to pursue my passion for acting,” says middle school student Katrina Franco (second from left in photo), who has taken acting and musical theater classes and performed in the YC’s Cabaret program, “but it is also where I can just be myself and expand my comfort zone without worrying about doing the wrong thing. Every time I am part of a class or a show here, I find myself doing what I thought I could not do.”

The YC also aims to show these young performers as many facets of the theater world as possible. Through a fully produced artistic season of plays and musicals each year, young actors get to collaborate with A.C.T.’s artistic and production staff as well as professional directors, choreographers, and designers.

Every time I am part of a class or a show here, I find myself doing what I thought I could not do.”

The YC also aims to show these young performers as many facets of the theater world as possible. Through a fully produced artistic season of plays and musicals each year, young actors get to collaborate with A.C.T.’s artistic and production staff as well as professional directors, choreographers, and designers. “The YC creates such a professional environment,” says Claire Bae, who has performed in three YC shows in the past two years. “At school, we don’t get to analyze our scenes as deeply. We’re already blocking the play at the first rehearsal. It’s so exciting getting to work closely with directors.”

The cast of Urinetown: The Musical also had the opportunity to work with a former YC student, choreographer and co-artistic director of the San Francisco Bay Area Theatre Company, Marcelo Pereira. “A.C.T. taught me how to perform in any kind of space and feel comfortable, whether it was performing on a proscenium stage or inches from an audience,” says Pereira. “I learned how to navigate different spaces and stay grounded, and that you can never be too prepared.” Regardless of what those in YC decide, they have learned skills that they can take anywhere.

A.C.T. THEATER TOURS

SHARING A LOVE OF THEATER AND TRAVEL
BY A.C.T. PUBLICATIONS STAFF

As the applause settled at the final curtain of The Band’s Visit in June 2018, the Broadway audience members started to file out. But for the members of A.C.T.’s New York City tour, the real show was only just beginning. Heading to the front row, A.C.T.’s touring theater lovers spoke with the cast which had swept the board at the Tony Awards earlier that week. “It was very exciting,” says tour member Milton Mosk. “Those are things you don’t ordinarily get to experience.”

As well as seeing incredible productions, A.C.T.’s theater tours to New York, London, and Ashland, Oregon are packed with unique aspects like this talkback. During the Oregon Shakespeare Festival (OSF) tour this past July, guests spoke with Tatiana Wechsler, the lead actor in Oklahoma!; as well as OSF Producer Mica Cole. “To have that intense experience,” says longtime A.C.T. subscriber Mary Claugus, “deepens your appreciation as a theatergoer.”

A.C.T. artistic and administrative staff are on hand to take care of participants’ needs and to enhance their experience. “The leaders of the OSF tour were flawless,” says Elliot Shubin, “it ran so smoothly.” “Camaraderie developed right from the bus ride up to Oregon,” adds Kathy Shubin. “Even the bus driver was part of it! It was an all-round enjoyable week of entertainment and great theater.”

On the London tour, which returned home to San Francisco this October, guests were treated to exclusive discussions with Christopher Hampton (Oscar-winning writer of Dangerous Liaisons), theater critic Mark Shenton (The Stage), and actor Sir Ian McKellen. The shows were of the same caliber, including Martin McDonagh’s new play, A Very Very Very Dark Matter, starring Jim Broadbent; Company, with Patti LuPone; and King Lear, with McKellen in the title role. “My wife Gisele and I have been watching Ian McKellen for years,” says tour member Ken Miller. “He was so generous in speaking with us. He was extraordinarily gracious and could not have been nicer.”

Rubbing shoulders with actors and theater-makers from great productions is just one part of the experience. Guests stay at first-class hotels. They appreciate memorable meals—Ocean Prime on New York’s 52nd Street and The Ivy in London’s West End are two recent highlights. And they enjoy cultural visits on the side, including an award-winning chocolatier, an intriguing city neighborhood tour, royal Windsor Castle, and the day-trip our London group just took to Highclere Castle, with a private tour of the home of Downton Abbey.

Next year’s tours are being planned now. Don’t miss out! Contact Caitlin A. Quinn at cquinn@act-sf.org or 415.439.2436 to hear about A.C.T.’s upcoming theater tours to New York, the Oregon Shakespeare Festival, Ireland, and London.

PAM MACKINNON (Artistic Director) is celebrating her inaugural season as A.C.T.’s fourth artistic director. She is a Tony, Drama Desk, and Obie Award–winning director, having directed upwards of 70 productions around the country, off Broadway, and on Broadway. Her Broadway credits include Beau Willimon’s The Parisian Woman (with Uma Thurman), Amelie: A New Musical, David Mamet’s China Doll (with Al Pacino), Wendy Wasserstein’s The Heidi Chronicles (with Elisabeth Moss), Edward Albee’s A Delicate Balance (with Glenn Close and John Lithgow), Edward Albee’s Who’s Afraid of Virginia Woolf? (Tony Award, Drama Desk Award, and Outer Critics Circle nomination), and Bruce Norris’s Clybourne Park (Obie Award for Excellence in Direction, Tony and Lucille Lortel nominations). After five years as board chair of Clubbed Thumb, a downtown New York theater company dedicated to new American plays, she sits on its advisory board. She is an artistic associate of the Roundabout Theatre Company, a Usual Suspect of New York Theatre Workshop, and an alumna of the Drama League, Women’s Project, and Lincoln Center Theatre’s Directors’ Labs. She is also the executive board president of the Stage Directors and Choreographers Society (SDC). She grew up in Toronto, Canada, and Buffalo, New York, acted through her teens, but majored in economics and political science at the University of Toronto and briefly pursued a PhD in political science at UC San Diego, before returning to her true passion: theater.

JENNIFER BIELSTEIN (Executive Director) joins A.C.T. with more than 25 years of theater management experience. She is currently president of the League of Resident Theatres (LORT)—an organization that represents 74 theaters nationwide—having previously served as LORT’s vice president; chair of its Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion Committee; secretary; and on multiple union negotiating teams. Before relocating to the Bay Area, Bielstein was the managing director of the Guthrie Theater in Minneapolis, managing director of Actors Theatre of Louisville, and executive director of Writers Theatre in Chicago. She has also worked for Steppenwolf Theatre Company, About Face Theatre, Northlight Theatre, and the Lincoln Park Zoo, as well as serving on the boards of the League of Chicago Theatres, Theatre Forward, the Arts and Cultural Attractions Council, and other civic boards. She has received the Center for Nonprofit Excellence’s Pyramid Award of Excellence in Leadership, and has been recognized as one of Louisville’s Business First’s 40 Under 40. In 2017, Bielstein was named by Twin Cities Business as a Person to Know, and, in 2018, Minnesota Business magazine named her as a Real Power 50 member. Bielstein is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, attended Stanford’s Graduate School of Business Executive Program for Nonprofit Leaders in the Arts, and earned an MBA from Bellarmine University, where she received the MBA Faculty Merit Award and was inducted into Beta Gamma Sigma, the honor society for business programs.

MELISSA SMITH (Conservatory Director, Head of Acting) has served as Conservatory director and head of acting in the Master of Fine Arts Program at A.C.T. since 1995. During that time, she has overseen the expansion of the M.F.A. Program from a two- to a three-year course of study and the further integration of the M.F.A. Program faculty and student body with A.C.T.’s artistic wing, while also teaching and directing in the M.F.A. Program, Summer Training Congress, and Studio A.C.T. In 2013, she launched the San Francisco Semester, a semester-long intensive that deepens students’ acting. In 2016, she was honored by Theatre Bay Area as one of 40 individuals who have changed the face of Bay Area theater. Prior to assuming leadership of the Conservatory, Smith was the director of the Program in Theater and Dance at Princeton University. She has taught acting classes to students of all ages in various colleges, high schools, and studios around the continental United States, at the Mid-Pacific Institute in Hawaii, New York University’s La Pietra campus in Florence, and the Teatro di Pisa in San Miniato, Italy. She is featured in Acting Teachers of America: A Vital Tradition. Also a professional actor, she has performed regionally at the Hangar Theatre, A.C.T., the California Shakespeare Festival, and Berkeley Repertory Theatre; in New York at Primary Stages and Soho Rep.; and in England at the Barbican Centre in London and Birmingham Repertory Theatre. Smith holds a BA from Yale College and an MFA in acting from Yale School of Drama.
ABOUT OUR PLAYS
Copies of Words on Plays, A.C.T.’s in-depth performance guide, are on sale in the main lobby, at the theater bars, at the box office, and online at act-sf.org/wordsonplays.

REFRESHMENTS
Full bar service, sweets, and savory items are available one hour before the performance in Fred’s Columbia Room on the lower level and the Sky Bar on the third level. You can avoid the long lines at intermission by preordering food and beverages in the lower- and third-level bars. Bar drinks are now permitted in the theater.

CELL PHONES
If you carry a pager, beeper, cell phone, or watch with an alarm, please make sure that it is set to the “off” position while you are in the theater. Text messaging during the performance is very disruptive and not allowed.

PERFUMES
The chemicals found in perfumes, colognes, and scented aftershave lotions, even in small amounts, can cause severe physical reactions in some individuals. As a courtesy to fellow patrons, please avoid the use of these products when you attend the theater.

EMERGENCY TELEPHONE
Leave your seat location with those who may need to reach you and have them call 415.439.2317 in an emergency.

LATECOMERS
Performances begin promptly, and late seating is at the house manager’s discretion. Latecomers may have to watch the performance on a video monitor in the lobby until intermission. Latecomers and those who leave the theater during the performance may be seated in alternate seats (especially if they were in the first few rows) and can take their assigned seats at intermission.

LISTENING SYSTEMS
Headsets designed to provide clear, amplified sound anywhere in the auditorium are available free of charge in the lobby before performances. Please turn off your hearing aid when using an A.C.T. headset, as it will react to the sound system and make a disruptive noise.

RESTROOMS
Gender diversity is welcome at A.C.T. We invite audiences to use the restroom that best fits your gender identity or expression. If preferred, a single-user restroom can be found on the 5th floor.

A.C.T. is pleased to announce that an Automatic External Defibrillator (AED) is now available in the house management closet in the lobby of The Geary.

LOST AND FOUND
If you’ve misplaced an item while you’re still at the theater, please look for it at our merchandise stand in the lobby. Any items found by ushers or other patrons will be taken there. If you’ve already left the theater, please call 415.439.2471 and we’ll be happy to check our lost and found for you. Please be prepared with the date you attended the performance and your seat location.

GEARY THEATER EXITS
Wheelchair Seating is located in Fred’s Columbia Room on the lower lobby level, the Balcony Lobby, and the Garret on the uppermost lobby level.
