American Conservatory Theater, San Francisco’s Tony Award-winning nonprofit theater, nurtures the art of live theater through dynamic productions, intensive actor training, and an ongoing engagement with our community. Under the leadership of Artistic Director Carey Perloff, we embrace our responsibility to conserve, renew, and reinvent our relationship to the rich theatrical literature and traditions that are our collective legacy, while exploring new artistic forms and new communities. A commitment to the highest standards informs every aspect of our creative work. Founded by pioneer of the regional theater movement William Ball, A.C.T. opened its first San Francisco season in 1967. Since then, we’ve performed more than 350 productions to a combined audience of more than seven million people. We reach more than 250,000 people through our productions and programs every year.

Rising from the rubble of the catastrophic earthquake and fires of 1906 and immediately hailed as the “perfect playhouse,” the beautiful, historic Geary Theater has been our home since the beginning. When the 1989 Loma Prieta earthquake ripped a gaping hole in the ceiling, destroying the proscenium arch and dumping tons of debris on the first six rows of orchestra seats, the San Francisco community rallied to raise a record-breaking $30 million to rebuild it. The theater reopened in 1996 with a production of The Tempest directed by Perloff, who took over after A.C.T.’s second artistic director, gentleman artist Ed Hastings, retired in 1992.

Perloff’s 23-season tenure has been marked by groundbreaking productions of classical works and new translations creatively colliding with exceptional contemporary theater; cross-disciplinary performances and international collaborations; and “locavore” theater—play made by, for, and about the San Francisco area. Her fierce commitment to audience engagement ushered in a new era of InterACT events and dramaturgical publications, inviting everyone to explore what goes on behind the scenes.

A.C.T.’s 46-year-old Conservatory, led by Melissa Smith, is at the center of our work. Our three-year, fully accredited Master of Fine Arts Program has moved to the forefront of America’s actor training programs, our intensive Summer Training Congress attracts enthusiasts from around the world, and our San Francisco Semester welcomes undergraduate students who want a taste of the grad school experience. Other programs include the world-famous Young Conservatory for students ages 8 to 19, led by 25-year veteran Craig Slaight, and Studio A.C.T., our expansive course of study for adults. Our alumni often graze our mainstage and perform around the Bay Area, as well as stages and screens across the country.

A.C.T. also brings the benefits of theater-based arts education to more than 10,000 Bay Area school students each year. Central to our ACTsmart education programs, run by Director of Education & Community Programs Elizabeth Brodersen, is the longstanding Student Matinee (SMAT) program, which has brought hundreds of thousands of young people to A.C.T. performances since 1968. We also provide touring Will on Wheels Shakespeare productions, teaching-artist residencies, in-school workshops, and in-depth study materials to Bay Area schools and community-based organizations.

With our increased presence in the Central Market neighborhood marked by the opening of The Costume Shop theater, the renovation of The Strand Theater across from UN Plaza, and the launch of our mobile Stage Coach initiative, A.C.T. is poised to continue its leadership role in securing the future of theater for San Francisco and the nation.
A.C.T. FAVORITE AND ACADEMY AWARD NOMINEE

David Strathairn (Underneath the Lintel at A.C.T.; film: Good Night, and Good Luck; Lincoln) and A.C.T. M.F.A. Program alumnus Dan Clegg (Major Barbara) make their Strand debut. In 1945, in a Long Island hospital, psychiatrist Dr. Philip Cotton takes charge of Chester Bailey, a young man recovering from devastating injuries that have left his imagination his only haven. Wounded by his own disappointments, Cotton struggles to heal this unusual patient. He is forced to make an ethical decision that jeopardizes everything he has ever believed, leading him to new realizations about love, hope, and the imagination. Written by Emmy Award–winning playwright and screenwriter Joseph Dougherty and directed by stage and television director Ron Lagomarsino, Chester Bailey is an intimate and haunting psychological drama.
A.C.T. volunteers provide an invaluable service with their time, enthusiasm, and love of theater. Opportunities include helping out in our performing-arts library and ushering in our theaters. FOR MORE INFORMATION, VISIT: ACT-SF.ORG/VOLUNTEER

Dear Friends,

Almost exactly a year ago, we presented a concert version of Jason Robert Brown’s The Last Five Years here at The Geary, and the music filled this room so beautifully we wondered why we had never staged a full production of this unique musical. A year later, here we are!

Jason Robert Brown is one of the most literate musical theater writers around. He takes the two threads of this love story and runs them in opposite directions, so that while the man is falling in love, the woman is mourning the end of the affair. It’s an ingenious device, one that deeply intrigued Michael Berresse when he first encountered the musical many years ago. I asked Michael to direct this production after meeting him in the cast of The Normal Heart in 2012; a triple threat, Michael acts, directs, and writes for the theater with equal aplomb, and it has been a pleasure collaborating on this production with him.

I am constantly inspired by the range of writing in the American musical theater today. This spring at A.C.T. alone, we have seen the raucous blues of The Unfortunates give way to the melodic heartbreak of The Lion, and now Jason Robert Brown’s sophisticated score fills The Geary. If you enjoy what you’ve been hearing this spring, stay tuned for a number of exciting upcoming projects. Next season we will be collaborating with saw player David Coulter on an original score for A Thousand Splendid Suns. We’ll be moving from the Armstrong jazz world of Satchmo to that of his rival Miles Davis in Robert Lepage’s Needles and Opium, an exploration of the relationship between art and addiction. And Here Lies Love, a new musical about the infamous Imelda Marcos, wife of a Filipino dictator, will transform The Geary with intoxicating music by David Byrne of Talking Heads. Beyond our subscription season, we’re also collaborating with composer Byron Au Yong on developing Port/City, a new musical with writer Christopher Chen. And this August, Craig Slaight will stage a musical with Young Conservatory actors at The Strand: Fields of Gold, inspired by the music of Sting.

We are already in high gear preparing for next season, A.C.T.’s 50th (read all about it on the next two pages). And we’re thrilled that this landmark season will include The Hard Problem, the first play in almost a decade by the inimitable Tom Stoppard, who has found his U.S. home at A.C.T. This next season marks other important anniversaries: The Hard Problem will be the twentieth time one of Stoppard’s works has been produced by A.C.T., and the tenth time I have directed one of his shows here.

Meanwhile, to celebrate our 50th season, our dramaturg Michael Paller is writing a detailed book about A.C.T.’s colorful history (replete with superb photographs), and his research has prompted an institution-wide examination of A.C.T.’s roots. It is an important moment to recommit as we celebrate the 500 current subscribers who have been with us for five decades and contemplate the next 50 years of A.C.T.’s life. We have many activities planned for you throughout next season to commemorate this milestone, and to celebrate you, who have made the whole journey possible.

Thank you as always for your engagement, your passion, your responses, and your connection to live theater. Enjoy The Last Five Years, and see you in September for the outrageous West Coast premiere of King Charles III.

“#1 Play of the Year!”—The New York Times

With its witty echoes of Shakespearean drama, Mike Bartlett’s brilliant contemporary work of speculative history blurs the boundaries of truth and tragedy. Queen Elizabeth II is dead. Prince Charles ascends to the throne, but what kind of ruler will he make for this once-united kingdom? Hailed as “fresh, thrilling and fearlessly comic” (Entertainment Weekly), this imaginative glimpse of future history is a theatrical event of crowning achievement.

“Characteristically sleek, humorous, acute and urbane”
The Guardian, London

Tom Stoppard returns to A.C.T. with his first new play in nearly a decade, The Hard Problem, a provocative drama of sex, science, and supercomputing. Razor-sharp psychology grad Hilary wins a prestigious brain research position that forces her to confront her ex-lover (and former mentor) in a fight to defend the soul, altruism, and even God from modern science. This is a compelling conflict of mind versus matter from one of theater’s greatest voices.

“Brave, honorable, big-hearted . . . powerfully moving!”—The Washington Post

In war-torn Kabul, unmarried and pregnant Laila is forced to marry her older neighbor after her family and home are torn apart. She forges an extraordinary friendship with her husband’s first wife, and the two women find the hope and strength to raise a new generation. The world-premiere theatrical adaptation of Khaled Hosseini’s best-selling novel is a stunning new production featuring live music from renowned composer and saw player David Coulter.

Here Lies Love
Concept and lyrics by David Byrne
Music by David Byrne and Fatboy Slim
Additional music by Tom Gandey and J Pardo
Choreographed by Annie-B Parson
Directed by Alex Timbers
Begins June 2017 at The Geary Theater

“Terrific! It’s impossible not to be swept away.”—New York Post

From a pretty country girl to the consort of a dictator, Imelda Marcos was the star who came with her own soundtrack. Here Lies Love is the visionary musical smash about the infamous Filipina leader who married controversy with karaoke. Created by pop icon David Byrne of Talking Heads and award-winning music producer Fatboy Slim, this is a theatrical event that’s going to rock the house, transforming The Geary in a musical theater revolution.

The Suit
Based on the play by Jean-Claude Carrière
Adapted and directed by Peter Brook and Marie-Hélène Estienne
Apr 26–May 21, 2017, at The Geary Theater

“One of the most influential directors of the last century”—San Francisco Chronicle

Following his stunning success with The Suit, which played to standing ovations at A.C.T. in 2014, legendary director Peter Brook is back. A newly crowned king surveys a post-war battlefield—his army has won him the crown, but at what price? Written 2,500 years ago, The Mahabharata’s magical story of finding tranquility in the midst of destruction has striking connections to modern times and has inspired some of Brook’s most transformative theatrical moments.

Needles and Opium
Written and Directed by Robert Lepage
Mar 30–Apr 23, 2017, at The Strand Theater

“Super-visionary!”—The New York Times

Jazz legend Miles Davis travels to Europe in 1949 to discover the pleasures of Paris, unlock his creativity, and find his heroine in Juliette Gréco. At the same time, French filmmaker Jean Cocteau embarks on his own opium-fueled journey to New York. In this breathtaking dive into art and exile, renowned director Robert Lepage mounts his set around a vast suspended cube to create a spellbinding mix of stagecraft and storytelling.

PLAYING WITH TIME

An Interview with Jason Robert Brown

BY SIMON HODGSON
The Last Five Years nearly didn’t happen. In 1999, Jason Robert Brown was on the verge of quitting show business after his show Parade closed on Broadway with underwhelming box office returns. Then his phone rang with a commission from Lincoln Center Theater. Brown started to explain what he’d been thinking about—a two-person musical, one guy, one girl. As he talked, the structure started to crystallize in his mind. Two lovers would tell parallel stories, but whereas his story would be told from first kiss to breakup, her story would run the opposite way. The resulting score wowed audiences when it premiered in Skokie, Illinois, at Northlight Theatre in 2001, and over the last 15 years it has become a sleeper hit, continuing to win fans in dozens of regional productions and earning a feature-film adaptation (starring Anna Kendrick and Jeremy Jordan) in 2014. We caught up with Brown to talk musicals, marriage, and why he’s tough on the Midwest.

Why do you think The Last Five Years has endured? The Last Five Years was, in a lot of ways, an experiment in rigor. There are rules of composition and dramaturgy that I set out as a challenge to myself at the beginning of the piece, and I insisted on applying them throughout the creation of the show. That rigor extends beyond the formal issues and into the characters’ emotional lives. I forced myself to be honest about who Jamie and Cathy were and how they would react. The end result is two very full characters, two people who are filled with recognizable complexity, even though we only see them in short snippets of time. Ultimately, I think it’s that complexity that has kept the characters compelling and interesting.

What’s your process in framing the storytelling through song? I think of theater music like costumes—the minute a character puts on the music, it should help define that character. Jamie and Cathy are twentiesomethings living in 1990s New York City, and that information guides my musical choices. Cathy is an actress, so her music is a little more showbizzy and extroverted, while Jamie is a writer, so his music is more nerdy and complicated. Much of the show is about how their different ethnic and financial backgrounds affect their relationship, and that’s built into the music as well—Cathy’s Celtic roots peek through the texture of many of her songs, and Jamie’s Jewish DNA is coded into several of his pieces. Of course, there’s also enough overlap in their respective sounds to make them believe that they belong together.

What was your thinking behind the reversed storytelling structure? My main instinct was to write something for two singers alternating solo songs. I decided early on to have it be a love story, and once I decided that, I was stuck for how to tell the story, until I realized that if I had one character tell the story in reverse while the other told it chronologically, that would keep it more interesting than if I had them both moving in the same direction. When I made that decision I had no idea how much it would bring to the narrative; I’m very grateful for that particular flash of inspiration. I’m surely indebted to Merrily We Roll Along (always one of my favorite musicals) and to Tom Stoppard, whose work often plays with time in emotionally resonant ways.

Have your personal feelings about the themes in The Last Five Years changed since it premiered in 2001? Oh, sure. I used to think of Jamie and Cathy as my contemporaries, my friends, and I really ached for them and feared for their futures. Now I have an avuncular response: “Oh, you poor kids, I know it sucks being in your twenties, but you’ll see it all works out fine.” I spent my twenties in an unhappy marriage, climbing frantically up a very slippery ladder to success. In my forties, I’ve got a wonderful family with beautiful children, a thriving complicated career, and the general sense that the key to making your life work has something to do with perseverance and endurance.

How is American musical theater evolving? It feels like it’s branching off in (at least) two different directions. There is the very corporate “entertainment”—musicals painted in broad strokes and designed to appeal to the widest possible audience, such as Aladdin and Finding Neverland. Then there’s the very personal and cheerfully idiosyncratic approach, which brings us work like Fun Home and Hamilton. I don’t care a whole lot about the first branch, but that second branch is very exciting, and that’s the kind of work I’ve been trying to do all along.

From the song lyrics, it seems like you have a soft spot for New York in The Last Five Years, but what do you have against Ohio? You know, I pick on the Midwest in The Last Five Years and I3, but I hope I make up for it with The Bridges of Madison County!
In its 1995 review of Songs for a New World, Variety described composer Jason Robert Brown as “a promise waiting to happen.” Nearly two decades later, he is a pillar of American musical theater who has won three Tony Awards and has seen five of his shows open on Broadway. As Brown approaches his 46th birthday, we take a look at the musical storyteller’s journey.

Jason Robert Brown was born in Tarrytown, a couple hours north of New York City. He grew up in the small town of Ossining, New York; his mom was an English teacher and his dad worked in the bathroom fixture business.

1977
At the age of seven, Brown asked for a piano, so his parents schlepped an old one out of his grandfather’s basement. “It instantly occurred to me that I could write songs on it,” Brown said. “At some point, I became a composer, but I’m not sure when or how.”

1995
The young composer’s first song cycle, Songs for a New World, premiered off Broadway. While developing the show, he was introduced to legendary Broadway director and producer Hal Prince (Damn Yankees, Cabaret, Evita). The connection led to a job as the rehearsal pianist on Prince’s Kiss of the Spider Woman.

1998
Brown stepped in to replace Stephen Sondheim as the composer for Parade, a musical directed by Hal Prince and based on the tragic story of a Jewish businessman lynched in Georgia in 1913. The show’s intense subject matter wowed audiences, and Brown earned his first Tony Award, for Best Score.

2001
Inspired by his own highs and lows in love, Brown’s two-person musical, The Last Five Years, opened at Northlight Theatre outside Chicago before transferring to off Broadway. The show’s tender, bittersweet tone would attract audiences in regional productions nationwide as well as inspire a feature-film adaptation in 2014.

2014
Brown won a new generation of fans with the Broadway premiere of The Bridges of Madison County. Based on the best-selling tearjerker about an Italian-American housewife falling for a rugged National Geographic photographer, this Midwestern romance won Tony Awards for Best Original Score and Best Orchestrations.

SONGS FOR THE FUTURE
In shows such as The Bridges of Madison County, Parade, and The Last Five Years, Jason Robert Brown has written some of musical theater’s most original work. And it isn’t just audiences who love his range and his ear for contemporary rhythm. Thousands of young actors who have studied musical theater since 2000 have grown up with Brown’s songs—no wonder the Huffington Post calls them “the Jason Robert Brown generation.”

BETTER TO HAVE LOVED AND LOST

AN INTERVIEW WITH DIRECTOR MICHAEL BERRESSE
BY | CECILIA PADILLA
Michael Berresse came to A.C.T. while performing in the national tour of The Normal Heart in 2012, and he is delighted to return to the Bay Area—this time as an accomplished director. “Looking back on my directorial career,” says Berresse, “I see that a number of the shows I’ve worked on have had complicated or nonlinear structures. I suppose there’s something about the puzzle of them and the way my own mind works that draws me to that kind of material.” Some of the works Berresse has puzzled over include Peter and the Starcatcher, the original Broadway production of [title of show], and Now. Here. This., the last of which follows a group of friends on a tour of a natural history museum where the exhibits inspire a time-travel adventure.

With its unique structure in which one character’s story is told from end to beginning, and the other’s from beginning to end, The Last Five Years has been another puzzle for the director to solve. We sat down with Berresse to talk about the challenges and the joys of directing The Last Five Years.

What’s it like being both an actor and a director?
My experience with and empathy for the whole process of acting informs many things about the way I direct. For example, when I start a new project, my experience with acting helps me imagine how it might feel to speak the words or live the circumstances before I start exploring how to tell the story from the outside. That gives me a strong emotional base, and it also helps me develop an external point of view in practical ways, like figuring out how the rhythm of the language or music translates into design or how the emotional content translates into staging.

What personal stamp will you put on this production?
I believe that, regardless of how a love affair plays out, the risk is as important and as powerful as the outcome. Better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all, as the adage goes. I hope to show a little nod toward the future in the arc of Cathy and Jamie’s relationship, a moment of perspective at the end of the play that’s not necessarily written in the text. We often get stuck in the hurt of things and miss the opportunity for gratitude and growth. It helps that these characters are very complex, flexible portraits and that we have such gifted actors.

Why is Jason Robert Brown’s work so loved and enduring?
I had the extraordinary experience of working with Jason while appearing in a production of Parade at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles. I will never forget the day he sat down at the piano in the rehearsal room and started playing his own music for us. He stopped being the composer, the lyricist, the pianist, and he started being the music. When I hear his music now, I see him and feel him playing it. He puts his whole soul into his work. I think the listener can feel that instinctively.

What are the challenges of directing this show?
In addition to the unconventional timeline, this show is unique in that there’s very little interaction between the two characters. Although Jamie and Cathy share the stage at various times, there are only a few moments when they actually sing together. The bulk of the show is performed without a scene partner, which is very atypical for a musical. That presentational quality is a challenge in the staging and the design, but, on the flip side, it creates an intimate, almost confidential, relationship between the audience and the actors. The lack of busy-ness helps focus the attention on the lyrics and the emotional journey of the characters.

“I SEE THIS SHOW AS AN OPPORTUNITY TO RECONSIDER THE WAYS WE PERCEIVE OUR OWN ADVENTURES IN LOVE, WHAT WE LABEL AS GOOD, BAD, GENEROUS, SELFISH, A SUCCESS, A FAILURE.”

What do you want audiences to take away from this show?
I see this show as an opportunity to reconsider the ways we perceive our own adventures in love, what we label as good, bad, generous, selfish, a success, a failure. I hope people leave The Last Five Years feeling that the risk is as rewarding as the outcome. There is both great joy and great heartbreak in Cathy and Jamie’s story, but, for me, The Last Five Years is an opportunity to say, at the end of the day, how lucky we are to find each other at all, to invest in and care about and love one another. If you’re feeling, you’re alive.

CHRISTINA LARSON* (Assistant Stage Manager) most recently assistant stage-managed The Unfortunates at A.C.T. Her favorite shows as production assistant have been King Lear (California Shakespeare Theater), Sister Play (Magic Theatre), Tribes (Berkeley Repertory Theatre), and Macbeth (California Shakespeare Theater).

SARAH AND TONY EARLEY (Executive Producers) were executive producers for A.C.T.’s Major Barbara and Mr. Burns, a post-electric play. Sarah is the founder and chair of the Belle Isle Conservancy. Belle Isle is the nation’s largest island park and sits on 982 acres in the Detroit River. She also serves on the boards of the City Parks Alliance and the San Francisco Botanical Garden. Sarah has a keen interest in education and has served on the board of Saint Mary’s College, Notre Dame, as well as the board of the University of Detroit Jesuit High School. She is a partner in Cornerstone Schools, an inner-city school network in Detroit that excels in providing quality education for grades K–8. Sarah has a B.A. from Saint Mary’s College, an M.B.A. from San Diego State University, and an associate’s degree in landscape design from Oakland Community College. Tony has been CEO of PG&E since 2011. Prior to that, he was CEO of DTE Energy in Michigan. He is on the boards of the Exploratorium and United Way of the Bay Area. He has also been an active advocate of educational issues as a board member of Cornerstone Schools and the College of Engineering Advisory Council at the University of Notre Dame. Tony holds a B.S. in physics, an M.S. in engineering, and a J.D., all from Notre Dame.

CELESTE AND KEVIN FORD (Executive Producers) moved to the Bay Area in 1978 and purchased A.C.T. season tickets to support and watch two classmates from the University of Notre Dame who were enrolled in the A.C.T. M.F.A. Program. The Fords have not missed a production at A.C.T. since. Celeste is the CEO and founder of Stellar Solutions, an aerospace engineering services business, and Kevin is the CFO. Stellar Solutions just celebrated its twenty-first anniversary and has received numerous accolades, including the prestigious Fortune magazine Great Place to Work award. The company’s engineers work on a variety of satellite projects, including the science mission to Mars, commercial communication satellites, and defense and intelligence satellites. Celeste and Kevin have three grown children who join them at A.C.T. productions whenever they are available. Celeste, who was an engineer by day and actress by night in college, currently serves on the A.C.T. Board of Trustees.

MARY AND STEVEN SWIG (Executive Producers) have supported A.C.T. and attended productions since the company’s arrival in San Francisco. Steven has served as an A.C.T. trustee since 1986 and is the cofounder and president emeritus of Presidio Graduate School. Mary and Steven serve together on the boards of the Solar Electric Light Fund and the Americans for Cures Foundation (stem cells), and they are fellows in the Advanced Leadership Initiative at Harvard University. They have co-founded and are co-chairs of the National Student Debt Jubilee Project. Mary is also on the Women’s Leadership Board of Harvard University’s John F. Kennedy School of Government. At A.C.T., Steven and Mary have recently produced No Exit, Phèdre, Curse of the Starving Class, and Hedda Gabler.

SUMMER FUN AT STUDIO A.C.T.

Working Hard, Playing Harder

BY NICK GABRIEL
FOR SOME OF US, NOTHING SURPASSES THE JOYS OF belting out show tunes in the shower, producing funny Vines featuring unwitting family members, or recreating scenes from Modern Family with our best friends. Studio A.C.T. gets it.

Many ambitious performers commit years of their lives to refining their skills, even after they’ve acquired professional experience. Studio A.C.T. is where they go to continue training. But it’s also a place where hopeful performers with no prior experience go to study theater for the very first time. Complete novices study alongside career artists in a fun, supportive atmosphere that inspires lifelong friendships. In short, Studio A.C.T. offers world-class theater training to anyone and everyone.

“SOMETIMES HARD WORK CALLS FOR SERIOUS PLAYTIME.”

As you might expect, there are courses in acting, singing, and movement, but there are also courses in improvisation, clowning, acting for the camera, scene study, and directing. And for those students who’ve got the itch to perform but don’t know how to break into the biz, Studio A.C.T. offers a course in auditioning.

All Studio A.C.T. courses teach skills that have value extending beyond the stage. For example, students learn to collaborate, to speak clearly and audibly, and to be more comfortable in their bodies. All of these skills work in harmony to build a student’s confidence.

However, Studio A.C.T. isn’t just about developing skills that can be applied to everyday situations. It’s largely about having fun. Students spend many joyful hours playing games and getting in touch with their inner kid. The more we can stimulate our students’ imaginations, the more successful they’ll be as artists. Sometimes hard work calls for serious playtime, and we don’t shy away from that. And what could be more fulfilling than building friendships with folks from all walks of life who happen to be passionate about theater? Studio A.C.T. is an inclusive community in which having fun and making personal connections is just as important as learning theater skills. Studio A.C.T. provides an exciting creative outlet like no other. Wonderful adventures happen in our classrooms every day.

Discover the thrill of creativity and the joy of self-expression through Studio A.C.T.! Summer classes start on June 13, 2016. Visit act-sf.org/studio for course listings, class times, and registration details.

YOUNG CONSERVATORY SUMMER PROGRAM

JUNE 13–JULY 8

The Young Conservatory offers a variety of courses and classes. These range in age (grades 3–12), in duration (from one-week intensives to four-week sessions), and in the type of work (from clowning and character creation to musical theater techniques and on-camera acting). Students learn to incorporate the craft of theater into their everyday lives, developing concentration, imagination, professionalism, character, and self-confidence along the way.

A STONE IN THE POND

Nurturing Citizen Artists

BY | SHANNON STOCKWELL

THE SEEDS OF THE CITIZEN ARTIST CURRICULUM WERE planted when the Education & Community Programs Department was formed five years ago and launched a partnership with Downtown High School (DHS), a continuation high school for students who have not experienced success in traditional public schools. “The DHS students were in the halls of A.C.T., literally running into our M.F.A. Program actors,” says Conservatory Director Melissa Smith. “As soon as they met each other, they were asking to be in a room together. I knew it would be empowering for the actors to have the opportunity to mentor these students.”

Education & Community Programs Director Elizabeth Brodersen agreed. She also knew it was invaluable to give M.F.A. Program actors teaching and community-building skills—many A.C.T. graduates go on to teach because they are so passionate about sharing the power of theater with others. Soon, M.F.A. Program actors were helping with many of A.C.T.’s school and community programs.

The partnership between the M.F.A. Program actors and participants in the school and community programs was powerful. Community members and students learned theater skills from a diverse cohort of passionate, talented young artists, who in turn found inspiration and new artistic depths in the stories, knowledge, and bravery of the students and community members with whom they worked.

Meanwhile, the newly formed Education & Community Programs Department looked for models on which to base their mission. They found El Sistema, a Venezuelan method of arts education that believes an educator plays four roles: they are citizen artist teacher scholars. Inspired by a program at Boston University, A.C.T. gravitated toward the first two words: citizen artist. “For A.C.T., a citizen artist is an actor who is also prepared to be a socially engaged citizen of the world, who has the tools to help make positive change in the communities in which he or she ends up,” says Brodersen.

Because the collaboration between the Education & Community Programs Department and the M.F.A. Program was so fruitful, the citizen artist curriculum was established, making social engagement a fundamental part of the A.C.T. M.F.A. Program. This year, citizen artistry was officially incorporated into the accredited M.F.A. curriculum: each student is required to take 16 hours of training, encompassing class work in cultural competency, lesson planning, and participatory theater. techniques. In addition, each student is required to complete 22 hours of work with the community; if they complete 30 additional hours, they will graduate with a concentration in citizen artistry.

Second-year M.F.A. actor Narea Kang, who recently completed the weeklong training, explains, “A citizen artist is a responsible artist. As actors, we play such a big role in representing communities and individuals when we tell their stories onstage. We need to take the time and effort and care to treat their stories with dignity and respect.”

The new curriculum is a lot of work, but for the M.F.A. Program actors, it’s worth every minute. “Expanding my listening skills and my compassion only helps my connection with my fellow students when we’re performing onstage together,” says second-year actor Alexa Erbach. Her classmate Diana Gonzalez-Morett agrees, and adds, “Witnessing the resilience and love in my community has inspired me to be vulnerable and take more risks in the roles I play.”

“Being an actor, being onstage, having an audience, are privileges that not everybody gets,” says second-year actor Julie Adamo. “The citizen artist curriculum has made me aware of my responsibility in that position of privilege to tell stories of all kinds and to include people of all types, because those stories matter.”

The new curriculum is great for the M.F.A. Program actors as students, but the effect goes deeper than that. Citizen artistry has a profound impact on the art of theater in general. By reaching out and working with communities that aren’t traditionally represented onstage, the program transforms the definition of theater itself. “We are challenging the notion of who theater is for,” says School & Community Programs Coordinator Alec MacPherson. “We believe it is for everyone, for all ages, for all socioeconomic demographics, for every race and creed.”

By engaging actors with the world in which they live, A.C.T.’s citizen artist curriculum is making a difference. “The M.F.A. Program actors get to help create theater with and about the people in the community, and the people in the community come and see this theater, and because of that, they come and see more theater,” says Erbach. “It’s a ripple effect. You throw a stone in the pond, the ripple expands, and those ripples grow into powerful waves.”
Can you believe that it’s only been a year since we opened The Strand Theater? So many things have happened there in these past 12 months that it feels like 1127 Market Street has been A.C.T.’s home for much longer. In the past year, we have produced three subscription shows—Love and Information, Monstress, and The Unfortunates. We’ve hosted local arts organizations such as Kearny Street Workshop and the Posse Foundation for free as part of our Community Space-Sharing Initiative. Google has used the space as a gathering spot. The Strand Cafe has served countless passersby delicious Artis coffee. The performance spaces have seen Young Conservatory shows I’m Still Standing, Punk Rock, and Snakes (a collaboration with A.C.T.’s Education & Community Programs and Oakland’s Destiny Arts Center) and M.F.A. Program shows such as The Big Meal and The Rocky Horror Show. The New Strands Festival activated every corner of The Strand with myriad forms of new and developing art. And that’s only the beginning. A.C.T. is thankful to you, our patrons, who have made our first year at The Strand such a success. We can’t wait to see you back there next spring for Annie Baker’s John!

The Opening of the Strand was the culmination of a long-held dream and a landmark achievement of A.C.T.’s 50 years. We are grateful to all our contributors for their exceptional support. To date, we have raised $33.4 million of our $34 million fundraising goal.

There are still many opportunities to support the Strand and bring us closer to our goal. We hope you will consider a gift to the Strand in celebration of its one-year anniversary.

for the children of the A.C.T. company:
Dr. Victor Priate, Dr. Hoyland Hong, Dr. Susan Lewis,
Don Kerner, P.A., and Chris Corpus,
Clinic Supervisor.

ACCREDITATION
A.C.T. is accredited by the Accrediting Commission for Schools, Colleges and Universities of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), 985 Atlantic Avenue, Suite 100, Alameda, CA 94501, 510.748.9001, an institutional accrediting body recognized by the Council on Postsecondary Accreditation and the U.S.
Department of Education.
PERLOFF (A.C.T. Artistic Director) is celebrating her 24th season as artistic director of A.C.T. This fall, she directed Monstress, adapted by Philip Kan Gotanda and Sean San José from the short stories by Lysley Tenorio. Last season, she staged the New York premiere of Tom Stoppard’s Indian Ink at Roundabout Theatre Company (nominated for a Lucille Lortel Award for Best Revival) before bringing the show to A.C.T. Recent A.C.T. productions also include Testament, Underneath the Lintel, Arcadia, Elektra (coproduced by the Getty Villa in Malibu), Endgame and Play, Scorch’d, The Homecoming, Tosca Café (co-created with choreographer Val Caniparoli; toured Canada), and Racine’s Phèdre in a coproduction with the Stratford Festival. Known for directing innovative productions of classics and championing new writing for the theater, Perloff has also directed for A.C.T. José Rivera’s Boleros for the Disenchanted; the world premieres of Philip Kan Gotanda’s After the War (A.C.T. commission) and her own adaptation (with Paul Walsh) of A Christmas Carol; the American premieres of Tom Stoppard’s The Invention of Love and Indian Ink, and Harold Pinter’s Celebration; A.C.T.-commissioned translations/adaptations of Hecuba, The Misanthrope, Enrico IV, Mary Stuart, Uncle Vanya, A Mother, and The Voysey Inheritance (adapted by David Mamet); the world premiere of Leslie Ayvazian’s Singer’s Boy; and major revivals of ‘Tis Pity She’s a Whore, The Government Inspector, Happy End (including a critically acclaimed cast album recording), A Doll’s House, Waiting for Godot, The Three Sisters, The Threepenny Opera, Old Times, The Rose Tattoo, Antigone, Creditors, The Room, Home, The Tempest, and Stoppard’s Rock ‘n’ Roll, Travesties, The Real Thing, and Night and Day. Perloff’s work for A.C.T. also includes Marie Ndiaye’s Hilda, the world premieres of Marc Blitzstein’s No for an Answer and David Lang/Mac Wellman’s The Difficulty of Crossing a Field, and the West Coast premiere of her own play The Colossus of Rhodes (Susan Smith Blackburn Award finalist).

Perloff is also an award-winning playwright. Her play Kinship premiered at the Théâtre de Paris in October 2014 in a production starring Isabelle Adjani and Niels Schneider and was produced at the Williams St Theatre Festival last summer, starring Cynthia Nixon and directed by Jo Bonney. Waiting for the Flood has received workshops at A.C.T., New York Stage and Film, and Roundabout Theatre. Higher was developed at New York Stage and Film, won the 2011 Blanche and Irving Laurie Foundation Theatre Visions Fund Award, and received its world premiere in February 2012 in San Francisco. Luminescence Dating premiered in New York at The Ensemble Studio Theatre, was coproduced by A.C.T. and Magic Theatre, and is published by Dramatists Play Service. The Colossus of Rhodes was workshopped at the O’Neill National Playwrights Conference, premiered at Lucille Lortel’s White Barn Theatre, and was produced at A.C.T. in 2003.

Before joining A.C.T., Perloff was artistic director of Classic Stage Company in New York, where she directed the world premiere of Ezra Pound’s Elektra, the American premiere of Pinter’s Mountain Language, and many classic works. Under Perloff’s leadership, CSC won numerous OBIE Awards, including the 1988 OBIE for artistic excellence. In 1993, she directed the world premiere of Steve Reich and Beryl Korot’s opera The Cave at the Vienna Festival and Brooklyn Academy of Music.

A recipient of France’s Chevalier de l’Ordre des Arts et des Lettres and the National Corporate Theatre Fund’s 2007 Artistic Achievement Award, Perloff received a B.A. Phi Beta Kappa in classics and comparative literature from Stanford University and was a Fulbright Fellow at Oxford. She was on the faculty of the Tisch School of the Arts at New York University for seven years, and teaches and directs in the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program. Perloff is on the board of the Hermitage Artist Retreat in Sarasota, Florida, and is the proud mother of Lexie and Nicholas. Perloff is the author of Beautiful Chaos: A Life in the Theater (City Lights, March 2015).

SMITH (Conservatory Director, Head of Acting) has served as Conservatory director and head of acting in the Master of Fine Arts Program at A.C.T. since 1995. During that time, she has overseen the expansion of the M.F.A. Program from a two- to a three-year course of study and the further integration of the M.F.A. Program faculty and student body with A.C.T.’s artistic wing. She has also taught and directed in the M.F.A. Program, Summer Training Congress, and Studio A.C.T. Prior to assuming leadership of the Conservatory, Smith was the director of theater and dance at Princeton University, where she taught introductory, intermediate, and advanced acting. She has taught acting classes to students of all ages at various colleges, high schools, and studios around the continental United States, at the Mid-Pacific Institute in Hawaii, New York University’s La Pietra campus in Florence, and the Teatro di Pisa in San Miniato, Italy. She is featured in Acting Teachers of America: A Vital Tradition. Also a professional actor, she has performed regionally at the Hangar Theatre, A.C.T., California Shakespeare Theatre, and Berkeley Repertory Theatre; in New York at Primary Stages and Soho Rep; and in England at the Barbican Theatre (London) and Birmingham Repertory Theatre. Smith holds a B.A. from Yale College and an M.F.A. in acting from Yale School of Drama.

SINGLE TICKET DISCOUNTS
Joining our eClub is the best—and sometimes only—way to find out about special ticket offers. Visit act-sf.org/eclub for details. Find us on Facebook and Twitter for other great deals. Beginning two hours before curtain, a limited number of discounted tickets are available to seniors (65+), educators, administrators, and full-time students. For matinee performances, all seats are just $20 for seniors (65+). Valid ID required—limit one ticket per ID. Not valid for Premiere Orchestra seating. All rush tickets are subject to availability.

GROUP DISCOUNTS
Groups of 15 or more save up to 50%! For more information call Joseph Rich at 415.439.2309.

AT THE THEATER
A.C.T.’s Geary Theater is located at 415 Geary Street. The lobby opens one hour before curtain. Bar service and refreshments are available one hour before curtain. The theater opens 30 minutes before curtain.

A.C.T. MERCHANDISE
 Copies of Words on Plays, A.C.T.’s in-depth performance guide, are on sale in the main lobby, at the theater bars, at the box office, and online at act-sf.org/wordsonplays.

REFRESHMENTS
Full bar service, sweets, and savory items are available one hour before the performance in Fred’s Columbia Room on the lower level and the Sky Bar on the third level. You can avoid the long lines at intermission by preordering food and beverages in the lower- and third-level bars. Bar drinks are now permitted in the theater.

CELL PHONES
If you carry a pager, beeper, cell phone, or watch with alarm, please make sure that it is set to the “off” position while you are in the theater. Text messaging during the performance is very disruptive and not allowed.

PERFUMES
The chemicals found in perfumes, colognes, and scented aftershave lotions, even in small amounts, can cause severe physical reactions in some individuals. As a courtesy to fellow patrons, please avoid the use of these products when you attend the theater.

EMERGENCY TELEPHONE
Leave your seat location with those who may need to reach you and have them call 415.439.2317 in an emergency.

LATECOMERS
Performances begin promptly, and late seating is at the house manager’s discretion. Latecomers may have to watch the performance on a video monitor in the lobby until intermission. Latecomers and those who leave the theater during the performance may be seated in alternate seats (especially if they were in the first few rows) and can take their assigned seats at intermission.

LISTENING SYSTEMS
Headsets designed to provide clear, amplified sound anywhere in the auditorium are available free of charge in the lobby before performances. Please turn off your hearing aid when using an A.C.T. headset, as it will react to the sound system and make a disruptive noise.

PHOTOGRAPHS AND RECORDINGs
of A.C.T. performances are strictly forbidden.

RESTROOMS
are located in Fred’s Columbia Room on the lower lobby level, the Balcony Lobby, and the Garret on the uppermost lobby level.

“City National helps keep my financial life in tune.”

So much of my life is always shifting: a different city, a different piece of music, a different ensemble. I need people who I can count on to help keep my financial life on course so I can focus on creating and sharing the “adventures” of classical music. City National shares my passion and is instrumental in helping me bring classical music to audiences all over the world. They enjoy being a part of what I do and love. That is the essence of a successful relationship.

City National is The way up for me.

Michael Tilson Thomas
