ABOUT A.C.T.

AMERICAN CONSERVATORY THEATER nurtures the art of live theater through dynamic productions, intensive actor training in its conservatory, and an ongoing dialogue with its community. Under the leadership of Artistic Director Carey Perloff and Executive Director Heather Kitchen, A.C.T. embraces its responsibility to conserve, renew, and reinvent its relationship to the rich theatrical traditions and literatures that are our collective legacy, while exploring new artistic forms and new communities. A commitment to the highest standards informs every aspect of A.C.T.'s creative work.

Founded in 1965 by William Ball, A.C.T. opened its first San Francisco season at the Geary Theater in 1967. In the 1970s, A.C.T. solidified its national and international reputation, winning a Tony Award for outstanding theater performance and training in 1979. During the past four decades, more than 300 A.C.T. productions have been performed to a combined audience of seven million people; today, A.C.T.'s performance, education, and outreach programs annually reach more than 270,000 people in the San Francisco Bay Area. In 1996, A.C.T.'s efforts to develop creative talent for the theater were recognized with the prestigious Jujamcyn Theaters Award. In 2001, to celebrate A.C.T.'s 35th anniversary and Perloff's 10th season, A.C.T. created a new core company of actors, who have become instrumental in every aspect of its work.

Today A.C.T. is recognized nationally for its groundbreaking productions of classical works and bold explorations of contemporary playwriting. Since the reopening of the Geary Theater in 1996, A.C.T. has enjoyed a remarkable period of audience expansion and financial stability. In 2001, A.C.T. began producing alternative work at Zeum Theater, which now serves as a venue for student productions and exciting new plays. The company continues to produce challenging theater in the rich context of symposia, audience discussions, and community interaction.

The conservatory, led by Melissa Smith and George Thompson, now serves 3,000 students every year. It was the first actor training program in the United States not affiliated with a college or university accredited to award a master of fine arts degree. Danny Glover, Annette Bening, Denzel Washington, and Teri Hatcher are among the conservatory's distinguished former students. With its commitment to excellence in actor training and to the relationship between training, performance, and audience, the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program has moved to the forefront of America's actor training programs, while serving as the creative engine of the company at large.

FROM THE ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

Dear Friends,
Over the past decade, David Mamet has become, along with Tom Stoppard, the most-produced contemporary playwright at A.C.T. I think this is because, like Stoppard, Mamet has the astonishing ability to craft language that pierces our proscaenium and fills the Geary Theater with its muscle, wit, bite, and danger. Even a small-cast play like American Buffalo launched itself like a grenade into this house several seasons back, and reverberated for months afterwards.

Sexual Perversity in Chicago premiered in Chicago in 1974, and the first New York production, staged by the late, great San Francisco director Albert Takazaukas, featured a remarkable young actor named Peter Riegert in the role of Danny. I didn't know him at the time, but more than 10 years later, when I was casting a major revival of Harold Pinter's The Birthday Party in New York, I offered Peter the pivotal role of Goldberg. I felt no need to audition him, but Peter was so taken aback by my unconditional offer that he asked me what made me think he could "do Pinter." I replied that anyone who could handle Mamet's language the way Peter had could surely navigate the menace, silences, and hilarity of Pinter. After all, Mamet was mentored by Pinter from the beginning of his career (he sent Pinter early drafts of each new play for comments), just as Pinter was mentored by Beckett. The linguistic continuum is unmistakable.

Thus began a 20-year collaboration between Peter Riegert and myself, a collaboration filled with mutual love of the absurd and relish for language in all its forms. We last worked together on the double bill of Pinter's one-acts Celebration and The Room, at an extraordinary moment in all of our histories: A.C.T. opened those plays at the Geary on September 12, 2001, the day after the Twin Towers were shot down. Peter was overwhelmed by the audience response that night, by the palpable hunger on everyone's part to share the same space and to communicate something human and alive to each other in the face of such devastation. That experience reaffirmed his passion for live theater and his desire to return to the Geary.

So when we decided to produce Sexual Perversity this season, I asked Peter to dinner to talk about the play. It was a play he knew so well that within moments he was regaling me with Danny's juicier monologues (remembered from 30 years ago!) and revealing all the rehearsal secrets he could remember. Knowing that Peter had recently launched his directing career, by the end of the dinner I found myself asking him if he would like to stage Sexual Perversity for us, and he agreed. It is always fascinating to take remarkable artists and place them in a new context, to watch actors direct, directors write, designers direct, and so on. It is important to us at A.C.T. to give artists the chance to stretch beyond their comfort zones, and we are thrilled to give Peter the chance to re-explore a great play from his past with some remarkable talents of today.

Sexual Perversity in Chicago is a play about twenty-somethings trying to make sense of their lives. It is about the terror we all have of actually connecting with another human being, and the excuses we find for evading intimacy. It is about the unbelievable and often hilarious ways we manipulate language to get what we want and to avoid recognizing things we don't want to deal with. Thirty years after its creation, this play still feels remarkably vivid and fresh, the newly discovered voice of a young writer who was to go on to change the face of American theater. It is fitting, therefore, that at the same time we are presenting Sexual Perversity at the Geary, we are also spending the months of January and February at Zeum Theater, a few blocks away in Yerba Buena Gardens, presenting a series of workshops of brand-new plays as part of our popular First Look series. We hope that your appetites will be whetted to join us at Zeum and to discover the next generation of audacious new playwrights.

Many thanks for joining us!

Yours,

Carey Perloff

DANNY: I love you.

DEBORAH: Does it frighten you to say that?

DANNY: Yes.

DEBORAH: It's only words. I don't think you should be frightened by words.

—Sexual Perversity in Chicago

When David Mamet published a collection of his lectures on theater in 1997, he chose for his book's title The Three Uses of the Knife, explaining that the knife is a perfectly simple, yet versatile, symbol for his own penetrating, even at times threatening, approach to drama. It's an apt guiding image for a playwright whose unmistakably sharp, blisteringly real language onstage has always been known for two things: being precise and cutting deep.

Mamet recounts in the book an anecdote famously told by the blues singer Huddie Ledbetter ("Leadbelly"): "You take a knife, you use it to cut the bread, so you'll have the strength to work; you use it to shave, so you'll look nice for your lover; on discovering her with another, you use it to cut out her lying heart." For Mamet, this graphic three-liner illustrates the essential economy and ideal progression of dramatic structure, and it also demonstrates, he writes, "the attempt of the orderly, affronted mind to confront the awesome."

Whether he's writing about low-life con artists (American Buffalo), scheming real estate salesmen (Glengarry Glen Ross), political correctness and sexual harassment in academe (Oleanna), or the romantic entanglements of urban twenty-somethings (Sexual Perversity in Chicago), Mamet has throughout his career created characters who "confront the awesome" complexities of one thing in particular: our confoundingly inarticulate attempts to make ourselves and our deepest yearnings understood by one another. This struggle to speak exactly what we mean is felt most acutely when matters of the heart come into play.

"My plays are about people trying to become connected," Mamet told the Chicago Tribune Magazine in 1977. "People who are confused, full of very contradictory impressions, trying to do good—to get Tolstoyan about it. But no one knows how. No one ever quite makes it." Language may be the most advanced system we have for communicating our desires, Mamet seems to be saying in all of his plays, but it is woefully inadequate for the task.

GETTING INTO TROUBLE

Mamet was just 25 years old when he wrote Sexual Perversity in Chicago at Chicago's Organic Theater in 1973, touching off a career that very soon had the theater communities of New York and elsewhere standing up and taking notice. Mamet had graduated in 1969 from Goddard College in Vermont (which he would later call “sex camp,” dismissing the mock-intellectual pursuits of students whose main obsession, as he saw it, was with getting each other into bed). After a junior year taken off to study acting with Sanford Meisner in New York, Mamet began to write plays, honing his dramatic voice in short, minimalist one-acts (including Lakeboat, Duck Variations, Squirrels, Reunion, and All Men Are Whores). He was enamored of Harold Pinter, a playwright he extolled for writing “the stuff you heard in the street, the stuff you overheard in the taxicab.” Mamet was drawn to people, most often men, whose actions speak louder than words, to gangsters and thieves and macho swingers, to “people who don’t institutionalize their thought,” he told the New Yorker’s John Lahr in 1997. His ear became trained on the everyday slips and fractured rhythms of ordinary individuals’ verbal attempts to get through to each other, stumbling through slang and curses and awkward silences, lacking polish yet unexpectedly expressive.

“Voltaire said words were invented to hide feelings, and that’s what this play’s about, how what we say influences what we think,” a brash 28-year-old Mamet told the New York Times in one of his earliest press interviews, talking about Sexual Perversity in Chicago, his first commercially produced work and his breakout success. The play—about two single young men and two single young women in Chicago, each looking for love and sex and a way to navigate the up-for-grabs mores of the ’70s dating scene—opened in June 1976 at the Cherry Lane Theatre, in a now legendary off-Broadway premiere featuring actors Peter Riegert as Danny and F. Murray Abraham as Bernard (and directed by longtime A.C.T. director Albert Takazaukas). The play ran for an entire year, winning the Village Voice’s OBIE Award for best new American playwright, and was singled out by Time magazine (with Mamet’s Duck Variations) as among the year’s ten best plays.

“Mamet’s reputation just exploded during that year I performed in Sexual Perversity in Chicago,” said Riegert, in a conversation in December, shortly before he began rehearsals as director of A.C.T.’s production of Mamet’s bold career-making play. “Sexual Perversity alerted the whole theater world that here was a ferociously interesting writer, who understood that words are what get us into trouble, and it’s words that get us out of trouble.”

Critics caught on quickly that this signature mix of jargon, machismo, and broken emotion heralded the arrival of one of the finest linguistic craftsmen in American drama. When Mamet’s

American Buffalo opened on Broadway the next year, he earned the 1977 Drama Critics’ Circle Award for best American play and was hailed as the most exciting Broadway debut of a new American playwright since Edward Albee’s Who’s Afraid of Virginia Woolf? Jack Kroll in Newsweek described Mamet as “that rare bird, an American playwright who’s a language playwright...the first playwright to create a formal and moral shape out of the undeleted expletives of our foul-mouthed time.”

“Sexual Perversity in Chicago caused a lot of tumult when it premiered because [the dialogue contained] so many ‘fucks’ and ‘shits,’” remembers Riegert, “but its drama reached far beyond the graphicness of the words themselves. I think one thing the play is really about—and it’s even more apparent now that we’re re-examining it 30 years later—is the degree to which nothing really changes. The world changes around us, but the dynamic of how people relate to one another really doesn’t. And that’s the ‘perversity’ Mamet is talking about; not four-letter words. What was true back then is true now. No matter how sophisticated we think we are, we make the same mistakes in our attempts to communicate and understand each other. I think human beings are funny in their own self-destructive ways. We’re a lot closer to what we make fun of than we realize.”

Even though Sexual Perversity in Chicago recalls a post-sexual revolution, pre-AIDS era in which the roles between the sexes in and out of the bedroom were being freely re-imagined, the play’s triumph may be its ability to transcend its historical moment of bellbottoms and one-night stands and reveal a bitter truth: that intimate relationships are minefields of buried fears and misunderstandings. “When I reread the play, I thought, this sure isn’t politically correct, but it is absolutely immediate and as entirely dead-on today as it was 30 years ago about the ways that people have always screwed up their love lives, and always will, if they’re too scared to truly connect and commit to anything larger than themselves,” says A.C.T. Artistic Director Carey Perloff, who has directed Riegert in Pinter’s The Birthday Party (at New York’s Classic Stage Company, 1988) and Celebration (at A.C.T., 2001) and invited him to retackle Mamet’s early masterpiece at A.C.T., this time as director.

After nearly 35 years as a successful actor—including his straight shot to fame as Boon in John Landis’s Animal House in 1978—Riegert started working as a director about five years ago. He adapted his first film, By Courier, from an O. Henry short story, and the film was nominated for an Academy Award for best short

“THE WORLD CHANGES AROUND US, BUT THE DYNAMIC OF HOW PEOPLE RELATE TO ONE ANOTHER REALLY DOESN’T. . . .
NO MATTER HOW SOPHISTICATED WE THINK WE ARE, WE MAKE THE SAME MISTAKES IN OUR ATTEMPTS TO live-action film in 2001; his first full-length feature, King of the Corner, was released in 2005. He arrives at A.C.T. with a uniquely informed perspective on a play that helped launch his career, as well as on its famous playwright. “It’s interesting to return to this play so many years later, and to work with actors who are now the same age I was when I was in it,” says Riegert. “I can’t wait to see what they find.”

THE INSATIABLE NEED TO BE UNDERSTOOD

It has been easy for some critics to label Sexual Perversity’s four characters (as well as many of Mamet’s other misguided strivers) as hopeless cynics about love, but Riegert is quick to disagree. “I don’t really see them as cynical. I see Danny and Deborah and Bernie and Joan as struggling to get along, trying to make their way as adults. If the play is cynical about anything, I think it’s cynical about the romanticization of the fact that we actually get any better at this struggle to understand each other.

“There’s this wrestling match [between the sexes] that has gone on forever, and this play sits squarely in that tradition,” adds Riegert. “Sexual Perversity reminds me of a refrain in the T. S. Eliot poem ‘The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock’:

If one, settling a pillow by her head,
Should say: That is not what I meant at all.
That is not it, at all . . .
That is not it at all,
That is not what I meant, at all.

“I think that is exactly what Mamet writes about, as well as what Pinter and Beckett write about: while we have language to communicate, and communicating is something we’re supposedly good at, we are actually so often misinterpreted, seeming to be something we’re not and saying things that belie what we seem. The confusion and inability to get across what you mean in Sexual Perversity, written in the 1970s, is consistent with ‘Prufrock,’ written in 1917. Men and women have always complained about the insatiable need to be understood. Just like in Sexual Perversity, we give each other advice and we say things we later don’t mean, perpetuating this endless need for clarity amid rife contradictions. I guess that’s why human beings created art, because language wasn’t enough. We needed metaphor.

“Music is a good analogy for understanding how to do a Mamet play. Reading his plays, and speaking his lines as an actor, is a lot like reading a score, since he’s a writer with a very developed sense of meter. Every single word is its own note, and every pause is as valuable as a word or a paragraph. It’s a kind of musicianship, like scoring a piece for instruments, and in this case it’s for a four-piece combo.” ■

GALLERY AT THE GEARY

DON SCOTT MACDONALD: RECENT OIL PAINTINGS

SANCTIFIED, BY DON SCOTT MACDONALD

Find yourself with some extra time before a performance or during intermission? Want to expose yourself to more fine art, but don't make it to art galleries as often as you'd like? Now you need look no further than the Geary Theater itself. A.C.T. invites you to visit the second floor of the theater (just outside the auditorium doors, along the north bank of windows, and by the elevator) to view original artwork by a diverse range of artists in a series of rotating exhibits throughout the 2005–06 season.

Currently on view (through February 5, 2006) are recent oil paintings by Petaluma artist Don Scott Macdonald, whose abstract compositions have for many years explored the quiet mysteries of natural forms and our physical and emotional sensitivities to our natural surroundings. He creates a complex dimensionality in his fields of color through a time-honored layering technique that creates depth and glow on the canvas.

Macdonald has been painting since childhood (winning a local art award when he was 12), yet worked professionally as a guitarist, performing with bands and doing studio work in Los Angeles, before a rehearsal accident caused the loss of much of his hearing—and prompted his return to his first creative medium, painting. Since then, his work's elegance has co-evolved with its simplicity, and has become “highly idiosyncratic, yet often evoking a shock of recognition in the viewer,” says

Macdonald. His paintings have been exhibited nationally and have been purchased by individual and corporate collections.

Each Gallery at the Geary artwork purchase benefits A.C.T. For more information about Don Scott Macdonald, please contact Kevin Simmers at 415.474.1066 / krscreativeoptns@aol.com or visit www.galleryatthegeary.com.

THE MAGIC OF WOMEN

BY DAVID MAMET

ONE

Some people declare difficulty with the formulation "I pray to God," as they find it ludicrous to state as a certainty that God exists. I have no doubt of God's existence, but I doubt my own.

Not to burden a legitimately self-occupied reader with my own dreary problems, but I've never been quite sure that I exist; and have always considered myself, at best, a figment of someone's imagination. As that imagination cannot (as per supra) be my own, imagine my consternation.

Work both distracts and fulfills me. It brings me great joy. But this joy, yet again, is that of nonexistence. In work I am happy, as I am subsumed, and, so, again, "not there." I am sure many philosophers (the bulk, no doubt, German) have felt as I, and have expressed themselves, if not more cogently, at least in longer or more-compounded words.

I have felt fairly certain that I exist in dealing with my children, their needs taking precedence—at most times—over my troubled state; and with women. I like women. I have a perfect marriage; most of my colleagues, over the years, have been women. I think I get along with them, in the main, better than I do with men. I find it easier to spend extended time with women than with men. This essay prompts me to ask why, and to respond that, I believe, it is because I feel they do not care if, in fact, I exist.

TWO

Women, to me, are much more interesting than men, who run to type with a depressing regularity.

And there is seldom a male interchange free of invidious comparison. Who, each assesses, is wealthier, smarter, fitter, stronger?

Women make such assessments, too, but of the man per se, not of the man as a potential adversary. Perhaps this is why I find their company so restful.

Then, there is sex. Call me limited, but I still find it astonishing: that a woman would allow or desire me to do that...? This may be attributable to the sclerotic self-image described above. For, indeed, I have known men who take women's sexuality completely as a matter of course.

Many of these men have been that which an earlier age described as "successful with women."

This is not to say that I, myself, have not behaved boorishly, or even inexcusably, with women. I have, and, should I roast in hell, it will be with a sense of justice served.

But these men I write of were, notably, devoid of that sense of gratitude mentioned above.

I do not know whether their success was due to straightforward bluntness, or to a sense of relief on the part of their women. Perhaps to both.

Perhaps the men were as those Polynesian islanders of the Bounty Era who, sailors related, took sex truly as a matter of course. Perhaps these successful men were untouched by a sense of gratitude. Perhaps this freed them to act in a manner, finally, more responsible than my own.

In any case, my particular experience of women, neurotic or whole, has been of their generosity.

THREE

I also find rather magical their capacity for sexual abandon...

Perhaps I simply find it erotic; but, then, what is the difference? Our great philosopher Eric Hoffer wrote in his seventies, mourning the coming of age and the attendant passage of the "magic glow of desire."

In America, we live in a world curiously prudish and puritan. Sexuality may be decried as license or permitted as pornography. But it cannot simply be acknowledged. (This is one of the reasons for the Left's paternalistic championship of things homosexual: The word has "sex" in it, and that one may pronounce it is, in these times, an erotic adventure.)

'Twas said of old that two of the world's most beautiful sights are fear in a man's eyes, and desire in a woman's. Each, of course, indicates surrender. This is a display of a different order than mere acquiescence—we may find gratification in acquiescence, but we will not find beauty. Men do not surrender well. Their capitulation, in these dishonest times, most usually has in it an element of sullen reserve—"but wait 'til next time."

The Japanese swordmasters wrote of a state of conquest called "to hold down the pillow." Here, the beaten opponent is, spiritually, rendered unable to raise his head to look upon his victor—he has been truly subdued. This opponent has made the ultimate acknowledgment—that his life is no longer his own. The woman overcome by desire has, similarly, if only temporarily, pledged her life.

For the period of erotic transport she has removed herself, and, so, her lover, from the sad hypocrisy of the world and its endless negotiations.

Here, rather than triumph, a transient and reversible emotion, the attendant may feel awe.

For he is participating in the irreducible.

FOUR

The magic of women is their frankness.

Men are, in the main, prevaricating, temporizing, and pathetic creatures. We do not deal well with loss, success, or change. Women seem to handle these more effectively.

Perhaps this is an effect of their less-equivocating biology: Pregnant is pregnant, for all of our contemporary fascination with sanctimony.

Speaking of which, our modern temporal religion has set out, as do all religions, to regulate sex.

Our effort lacks both the mystery of the Catholic and the rationality of the Jewish faith. It is just good old-fashioned wish-fulfillment: Canute has commanded the sea, and the sea will, of course, obey.

But, as the Christians and the Jews have long known, the sea will continue to be its own master—we will be both driven and driven mad by our sexual urges, and reiterating failed commands will not increase their efficacy.

Military officers are hounded from the service in disgrace for unsanctioned sex between marriages; the poor Democrats are denied office because Janet Jackson bared her breast. Everyone, Red and Blue, meanwhile, continues doing what comes naturally—but, perhaps, with increased anxiety, and, so, diminished joy.

In our day, we are deprived not only the frankness of a Mme de Stael but also that of Pee-wee Herman—those things not specifically allowed are forbidden. What a dreary prospect.

How grateful, then, is frankness.

It is the most charming of feminine characteristics.

When coupled with simplicity, it may be known as freshness; with experience, sophistication.

It makes bearable the pain of bad, and increases the happiness of good, news.

It is the opposite of pomposity, encouraging the hearer toward an unencumbered worldview, and it is particularly the province of women, and of the good woman most especially.

FIVE

Proverbs 31 is known as “The Woman of Valor,” and is traditionally read by the Jewish husband every Sabbath to his wife.

- It enumerates frugality, temperance, circumspection, and application as among the virtues of the good woman. But I was puzzled by this verse: “Her husband is known in the Gates when he sits among the elders of the Land.”

“I DON’T UNDERSTAND MEN. I DON’T EVEN UNDERSTAND WHAT I DON’T UNDERSTAND ABOUT MEN. THEY’RE A MOST INSCRUTABLE BUNCH, REALLY. I HAD A MOMENT OF DAZZLING CLARITY WHEN I WAS 27, A RUSH OF CONFIDENCE THAT I HAD CRACKED THE CODE. BUT IT WAS, ALAS, AN ILLUSION.”

—Maureen Dowd, Are Men Necessary?: When Sexes Collide (G. P. Putnam’s Sons, 2005)

- Why should the accomplishments of the husband be found in a poem dedicated to those of the wife?
- Pondering at length I have coupled my question to an observation. We know of the man perhaps overlooked or ill-valued—a slight acquaintance or coworker, perhaps.
- We, later, meet his wife, and find her to be without blemish—straightforward, upright, strong, considerate, and kind.
- We reason that if this woman found the man acceptable, he must possess virtues unrevealed by our cursory examination. And he is, thus, known in the gates because of his election by his wife.

- I have found in women the magic to inform, to reform, to incite, to instruct. It may be that I have been fortunate in my associations (as I have, indeed), and that a mindlessly egalitarian sensibility might condemn my experiences as “anecdotal,” which is to say unscientific—but then, I am not writing about science, but magic.

Dear Friends,

Welcome to American Conservatory Theater's 2004-05 annual report. Every season we invite you to A.C.T. to experience with us the power and joy of theater. With this annual report, we invite you to look behind the productions you see on our stages—to understand at a deeper level our organization, our fiscal standing, and our mission. It is because of you, our donors and our audience, that A.C.T. is able to continue stretching artistic boundaries, educating new talent, and advocating for the future of American theater. For your support—your contributions, your applause, and your continued commitment to the arts—we offer you our deepest thanks. We hope you will enjoy this look inside our organization and we hope you will become even more involved in the future. Thank you!

The exclusive North American engagement of The Black Rider launched A.C.T.'s 2004-05 season as a theatrical event of unprecedented size, vision, and artistic scope. The spectacular musical fable, written by Robert Wilson, Tom Waits, and William S. Burroughs and featuring Marianne Faithfull and Matt McGrath, drew new audiences and broke A.C.T. attendance records.

Jayne Houdyshell reprises her OBIE Award-winning role as Lisa Kron's mother in Well, which will debut on Broadway in 2006.

Don R. McManus and Pamela Reed struggle with the conflicted issues at the heart of audience favorite Edward Albee's The Goat or, Who is Sylvia?, which marked the return of Albee's work to the Geary stage for the first time in 30 years.

Four of last season's productions have already traveled from A.C.T. to the world at large: The Black Rider went on to a hit world tour; Well will soon debut on Broadway; David Mamet's adaptation of The Voysey Inheritance moved on to a popular run at Kansas City Repertory Theatre; and Hilda received its off-Broadway premiere in fall 2005.

American Conservatory Theater nurtures the art of live theater through dynamic productions, intensive actor training in its conservatory, and an ongoing dialogue with its community. A.C.T. embraces its responsibility to conserve, renew, and reinvent its relationship to the rich theatrical traditions and literatures that are our collective legacy, while exploring new artistic forms and new communities. A commitment to the highest standards informs every aspect of A.C.T.'s creative work.

Stretching Artistic Boundaries

The 2004–05 season at the Geary Theater took our audiences and our artists in bold new directions. From the stunning musical spectacle of The Black Rider to the hilariously naughty verse of The Gamester to Lisa Kron's genre-busting Well, A.C.T. continued to present daring new artistic perspectives. This season we also welcomed back audience favorites David Mamet, who brought sly, modern sensibility to his commissioned adaptation of Harley Granville-Barker's classic The Voysey Inheritance, and Tom Stoppard, who collaborated with us on a new production of his love story The Real Thing. Edward Albee's raw and profound The Goat or, Who is Sylvia? had audiences talking long after the curtain fell, while A Moon for the Misbegotten bathed the Geary in Eugene O'Neill's timeless poetry. Whether exploring new forms of theater, shedding fresh light on classical dramatic literature, or celebrating the most visionary artists of our time, this season A.C.T. was once again the hub of a constantly thriving—and growing—artistic community.

A.C.T. core acting company member René Augesen and Ken Ruta seek to avoid the thorny territory of corporate scandal in David Mamet's adaptation of The Voysey Inheritance, a world-premiere A.C.T. commission that brought ripped-from-the-headlines relevance to Harley Granville-Barker's Edwardian classic.

Clayton B. Hodges (L) and Steven M. Strobel (R) find love in the haunting and sensual drama Lilies, which broke new collaborative ground as the A.C.T. Conservatory's first professional coproduction. Lilies was coproduced at Zeum Theater with San Francisco's Theatre Rhinoceros, directed by acclaimed Canadian artist Serge Denoncourt, and featured members of the M.F.A. Program's class of 2005 alongside professional actors, including A.C.T. core acting company member Gregory Wallace.

Educating New Talent

Throughout the 2004–05 school year the halls, studios, and performance spaces of A.C.T. were buzzing with the energy of our tremendously talented and dedicated students. Young Conservatory (YC) students built confidence, imagination, and talent in the classroom, as well as performing a full season (including two world premieres as part of the YC New Plays Program). Master of Fine Arts (M.F.A.) Program students continued their immersion in the highest-caliber professional actor training. M.F.A. actors also studied in a new international summer exchange program with acclaimed Italian theater program Prima del Teatro (in association with the Teatro di Pisa and the prestigious Accademia Nazionale d'Arte Drammatica "Sylvio d'Amico"). In our classrooms in San Francisco, on evenings, weekends, and in intensive summer sessions, Studio A.C.T. and Summer Training Congress students took advantage of the adult actor training offered by A.C.T., honing their craft, learning new skills, and creating innovative studio-performance presentations. From a treasured place deep within the larger company, students and alumni of the A.C.T. Conservatory invigorate the theater of today by exploring the rewards of an in-depth education, discovering the artists within themselves, and emerging truly poised to take commanding roles as the theater professionals of tomorrow.

More than 2,500 students attended classes in the A.C.T. Conservatory during the 2004–05 academic year.

A.C.T. core acting company member Steven Anthony Jones and members of the M.F.A. Program class of 2005 embark on a brutal sea voyage in the drama Female Transport, which was performed at Zeum in repertory with Lilies.

Stephanie Saunders '07 sweats it out in an M.F.A. Program movement class.

Young Conservatory actors Daniel Kennedy, Isadora Epstein, and Jorge Orozco spend a night along the Hudson River in Timothy Mason's Mullen's Alley.

Advocating for the Future

n enormous amount of artistic activity at A.C.T. occurs beyond the Geary stage: for every play you see produced onstage, countless others are in the process of being workshopped or presented in our studios and our second performance venue at Zeum Theater. By integrating the development of new work into every aspect of the company's artistic life, A.C.T. continues its commitment to providing an environment in which theater artists can realize their visions with the help of an engaged and informed audience. The First Look series at Zeum proved itself a bright upstart in its second season, with staged readings, studio workshop presentations, and fully mounted productions of new plays (including a hit production of French author Marie Ndiaye's chilling domestic drama Hilda). Also part of First Look this year were staged readings of new plays by such up-and-coming writers as Itamar Moses, Jamie Pachino, A.C.T.'s own Carey Perloff, Michael Springate, and (in his last season as an A.C.T. core acting company member) Marco Barricelli, as well as intensive ongoing development of A.C.T.'s new A Christmas Carol. Whether you saw their work in a staged reading at Zeum this year or will know their plays by heart in the future, the playwrights whose development A.C.T. supports are passionately engaged in the creation of the new literature of the theater.

As part of the First Look program, more than 15 new plays were developed or workshopped at A.C.T. last season.

Marco Barricelli threatens Ellen Karas in Marie Ndiaye's Hilda, which traveled on to major theaters in Washington, D.C., and New York. A sparse and unsparing look at a wealthy woman's obsession with her domestic help, Hilda received its U.S. premiere as part of First Look in a coproduction with internationally renowned Laura Pels Productions.

"Although we're involved with a number of artistic organizations in the Bay Area, A.C.T. is important to us because it is about performance art, and that means it's interactive. By understanding the context, the rationale, and the challenges of getting a play to the stage, contributors feel involved and excited. We feel pulled into the family, and are happy to be a part of it."

A.C.T. PROFILES

CAREY PERLOFF (Artistic Director) is celebrating her 14th season as artistic director of A.C.T., where she most recently directed A.C.T.'s acclaimed productions of A Christmas Carol (a new adaptation by Perloff with dramaturg Paul Walsh), David Mamet's new adaptation of Granville-Barker's The Voysey Inheritance, Tom Stoppard's The Real Thing, Constance Congdon's A Mother (an A.C.T.-commissioned adaptation of Gorky's Vassa Zheleznova), Ibsen's A Doll's House, Beckett's Waiting for Godot, Stoppard's Night and Day, and Chekhov's The Three Sisters. Her production of Maria Ndiaye's visionary new work Hilda, coproduced at A.C.T.'s second space (Zeum) with Laura Pels Productions, traveled to Washington D.C.'s Studio Theater and then to New York's 59E59 Theater last fall. She was recently awarded France's Chevalier de l'Ordre des Arts et des Lettres.

Known for directing innovative productions of classics and championing new writing for the theater, Perloff has directed for A.C.T. the American premieres of Stoppard's The Invention of Love and Indian Ink and Pinter's Celebration and The Room; A.C.T.-commissioned translations of Hecuba, The Misanthrope, Enrico IV, Mary Stuart, and Uncle Vanya; the world premiere of Leslie Ayvazian's Singer's Boy; and acclaimed productions of The Threepenny Opera, Old Times, Arcadia, The Rose Tattoo, Antigone, Creditors, Home, and The Tempest. Her work at A.C.T. also includes the world premieres of Marc Blitzstein's No for an Answer, David Lang/Mac Wellman's The Difficulty of Crossing a Field, and the West Coast premiere of her own play The Colossus of Rhodes (a finalist for the Susan Smith Blackburn Award). Her new play, Luminescence Dating, was developed under a grant from The Ensemble Studio Theatre/Alfred P. Sloan Foundation Science & Technology Project, was workshopped last summer at New York Stage and Film, and premiered in New York in April as the mainstage offering of the First Light Festival at the Ensemble Studio Theatre. She has collaborated with many notable contemporary writers, most recently Philip Kan Gotanda on his new play After the War (an A.C.T. commission) at the Sundance Institute in July 2004 and Robert O'Hara on Antebellum for the 2005 O'Neill Playwrights Conference.

Before joining A.C.T., Perloff was artistic director of Classic Stage Company in New York, where she directed the world premiere of Ezra Pound's Elektra, the American premiere of Pinter's Mountain Language and The Birthday Party, and many classic works. Under Perloff's leadership, Classic Stage won numerous OBIE Awards for acting, direction, and design, as well as the 1988 OBIE for artistic excellence. In 1993, she directed the world premiere of Steve Reich and Beryl Korot's opera The Cave at the Vienna Festival and Brooklyn Academy of Music.

Perloff received a B.A. in classics and comparative literature from Stanford University and was a Fulbright Fellow at Oxford. She was on the faculty of the Tisch School of the Arts at New York University for seven years and teaches and directs in the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program. She is the proud mother of Lexie and Nicholas.

LISA KOHLER

HEATHER KITCHEN (Executive Director), since joining A.C.T. in 1996, has strengthened the organization's infrastructure and overseen the company's expansion to include the development and performance of new work and the addition of a third year to A.C.T.'s acclaimed Master of Fine Arts Program. Her decision to undertake an M.B.A. degree from the Richard Ivey School of Business at The University of Western Ontario followed a 15-year career in stage, tour, and production management ranging across Canada, the United States, and the United Kingdom. Credits include the Stratford Festival, Canadian Stage Company, Charlottetown Festival, Theatre New Brunswick, New Play Centre, Vancouver, and Neptune Theatre in Halifax. As general manager of The Citadel Theatre, Kitchen managed a five-theater performing arts complex and school that annually produced 16 productions, an International Children's Festival, and a Teen Festival. As a member of the executive committee of the Edmonton Performing Arts Consortium, Kitchen authored the benchmark study Economic Impact of the Nonprofit Arts in Edmonton. An active community member, Kitchen serves on the boards and executive committees of the Commonwealth Club of California, as well as the board of the National Corporate Theatre Fund in New York. She is a past member of the San Francisco Leadership Board of the American Red Cross, the board of Big Brothers/Big Sisters, San Francisco and the Peninsula, and the Salvation Army Auxiliary in Edmonton and has served three terms on the executive of the League of Resident Theatres. She has also participated on peer review panels for Theatre Communications Group, Canada Council of the Arts, and Forbes magazine's Business and the Arts Awards. The San Francisco Business Times recently named Kitchen one of the 15 most influential women in the Bay Area nonprofit arena.

MELISSA SMITH (Conservatory Director) oversees the administration of the A.C.T. Conservatory's Master of Fine Arts Program, Young Conservatory, Summer Training Congress, and Studio A.C.T., in addition to serving as the master acting teacher of the M.F.A. Program. Before joining A.C.T., Smith served as director of the program in theater and dance at Princeton University, where she taught acting for six years. She has worked with people of all ages in venues around the country, including teaching in Hawaii and in Florence, Italy. Also a professional actor, she has performed in numerous off-off Broadway plays and at regional theaters, including A.C.T. In 2004 she toured London and Birmingham (U.K.) in Berkeley Repertory Theatre's production of Continental Divide. Smith holds a B.A. in English and theater from Yale College and an M.F.A. in acting from the Yale School of Drama.

JAMES HAIRE (Producing Director) began his career on Broadway with Eva Le Gallienne's National Repertory Theater. He also stage-managed the Broadway productions of And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little and Georgy (a musical by Carole Bayer Sager), as well as the national tour of Woody Allen's Don't Drink the Water. Off Broadway he produced Ibsen's Little Eyolf (directed by Marshall W. Mason) and Shaw's Arms and the Man. Haire joined A.C.T. in 1971. He and his department were awarded Theater Crafts International's award for excellence in the theater in 1989, and in 1992 Haire was awarded a lifetime achievement award by the Bay Area Theatre Critics' Circle.

A.C.T. PRESENTS... A "FIRST LOOK" AT NEW PLAYWRITING

In recent years, A.C.T. has significantly deepened its commitment to the development of new playwriting, a goal central to the company's mission to "explore new artistic forms and new communities." In 2003, A.C.T. launched the highly successful First Look program, which supports the development of diverse and inspiring theatrical voices through workshops, staged readings, and professional productions of new plays, presented at A.C.T.'s alternate performance space in Zeum Theater. Through First Look, A.C.T. seeks to foster an atmosphere of freedom and rigorous exchange in which writers can test new material at every stage of its development.

This season, another ambitious slate of new writing from both sides of the Atlantic will take shape at Zeum. In January, A.C.T. showcases five new plays in a festival of workshops culminating in semistaged public readings, giving our artistic community the chance to nurture vital work by the next generation of groundbreaking playwrights. The upcoming First Look Festival is a mix of new takes on classic works and original stories by new voices, told over five weekends. Each Friday and Saturday night brings a different play, with an audience exchange following Saturday's presentation, giving the audience a chance to take part in the dialogue that shapes each new work. Please join us!

RELEASE YOUR INNER ACTOR...

...by taking advantage of your A.C.T. subscriber benefits and saving 20% on a Studio A.C.T. course this spring.

A comprehensive evening and weekend training program offering the highest-quality instruction in acting and other performance skills to adults in the Bay Area, Studio A.C.T. presents four 10-week sessions each year, beginning in September, January, March, and June. Most classes meet once a week for three hours, and each session typically offers beginning- to advanced-level classes in acting, scene study, improvisation, voice and speech, audition techniques, Shakespeare, physical acting, playwriting, and singing. Instructors are working Bay Area theater artists who love to teach.

Don't miss out on these intriguing course options, coming this spring:

The Advanced Studio Project matches students with a professional director in the creation, rehearsal, and performance of a full-length studio production. An invited audience attends performances, and an audition is required for this course.

Musical Theater Performance is designed to provide the singer/actor with an intensive, supportive learning environment in which to expand his or her knowledge of musical theater performance techniques. Class members work on scenes and songs from the musical theater repertoire, and the course culminates in a cabaret performance for an invited audience.

Registration starts February 1 for classes beginning March 20.

STUDENTS PERFORM IN STUDIO A.C.T.'S SPRING 2005 PRODUCTION OF TWELFTH NIGHT

A.C.T. M.F.A. PROGRAM ALUMNI UPDATE

Graduates of the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program continue to thrill audiences of stage and screen across the country. Here are a few recent highlights:

Steven Bailey '96 appears regularly as Joe the bartender on the popular ABC series "Grey's Anatomy." He appeared in a previous season as an anesthesiologist, but, because his face was always disguised by a surgical mask, the producers were able to offer him a larger recurring role this season. Bailey, who horrified viewers with his convincing performance on the FOX series "My Big Fat Obnoxious Fiancé," was featured in an article in the New York Times (October 16, 2005), which emphasized his classical training at A.C.T. and his preference for serious dramatic acting over a career in "reality" television.

Rachel Black '01 has launched a play reading group in New York City for A.C.T. alumni, known as Home Base. Home Base is a place where A.C.T. graduates can come together once a month to participate in a theatrical process that is nurturing and creative. The group's goal is to offer a fertile environment for participation and dialogue, where A.C.T. actors can network and support fellow artists who have trained for a lifelong investment in the theater. Home Base West was recently formed in the Los Angeles area by Kerry and Jamie Rosenblatt '01.

Clayton B. Hodges '05 plays the leading role in Bent at Theatre Rhino in San Francisco, which finishes its run January 8. Hodges's involvement in the production is a continuation of a relationship that began last spring when he appeared to widespread acclaim in Lilies, or The Revival of a Romantic Drama, a coproduction between A.C.T. and Theatre Rhino and the first professional collaboration between the M.F.A. Program and a local theater.

Anika Noni Rose, who won a Tony Award last year for her performance in Caroline, or Change on Broadway, has been cast as Lorrell in the film version of Dreamgirls, which starts filming in January. The film also stars Beyoncé Knowles, Jamie Foxx, and Eddie Murphy and is written and directed by Bill Condon (author of the screenplays for Chicago, Gods and Monsters, and Kinsey).

AT THE THEATER

The Geary Theater is located at 415 Geary Street. The auditorium opens 30 minutes before curtain. The lobby opens one hour before curtain. Bar service and refreshments are available one hour prior to curtain.

A.C.T. Merchandise

A.C.T.-branded souvenirs—clothing, jewelry, DVDs, music, and other novelty items—as well as books, scripts and Words on Plays, are on sale at the souvenir desk in the main lobby and at the Geary Theater Box Office.

Refreshments

Full bar service, sweets, and savory items are available one hour before the performance in Fred's Columbia Room on the lower level and the Sky Bar on the third level. There is also a mini-bar in the main lobby. You can avoid the long lines at intermission by preordering food and beverages in the lower- and third-level bars. Food and drink are not permitted in the auditorium.

Beeepers!

If you carry a pager, beeper, cellular phone, or watch with alarm, please make sure that it is set to the "off" position while you are in the theater. Text messaging during the performance is very disruptive and not allowed.

Perfumes

The chemicals found in perfumes, colognes, and scented after-shave lotions, even in small amounts, can cause severe physical reactions in some individuals. As a courtesy to fellow patrons, please avoid the use of these products when you attend the theater.

Emergency Telephone

Leave your seat location with those who may need to reach you and have them call 415.439.2396 in an emergency.

Latecomers

A.C.T. performances begin on time. Latecomers will be seated before the first intermission only if there is an appropriate interval.

Listening Systems

Headsets designed to provide clear, amplified sound anywhere in the auditorium are available free of charge in the lobby before performance. Please turn off your hearing aid when using an A.C.T. headset, as it will react to the sound system and make a disruptive noise.

Photographs and recordings of A.C.T. performances are strictly forbidden.

Rest rooms are located in Fred's Columbia Room on the lower lobby level, the Balcony Lobby, and the Garret on the uppermost lobby level.

 Wheelchair seating is available on all levels of the Geary Theater. Please call 415.749.2ACT in advance to notify the house staff of any special needs.
