The Misanthrope

A.C.T.

Molière
Introducing Acura MDX. We saw the path of least resistance, then took a sharp left. The 240-hp MDX delivers more power and performance than just about any luxury SUV in its class. So, if you're combing snowy backroads in Breckenridge, you'll enjoy all of its creature comforts. But you'll also be able to tackle almost any terrain, thanks to a revolutionary VTM-4™ electronic 4WD system. Where to next?

Taking the SUV to a place it's never been before.

MDX with Touring Package shown. Acura, MDX and VTM-4™ are trademarks of Honda Motor Co., Ltd. Make an intelligent decision. Fasten your seat belt. ©2000 Acura Division of American Honda Motor Co., Inc.
CONTENTS

Vol. 7, No. 2, November 2000

ABOUT A.C.T. 8
A.C.T. STAFF 10
PROGRAM NOTES 17
A.C.T. NEWS 26
A.C.T. PROFILES 38
WHO'S WHO 41
CONTRIBUTORS 55
FOR YOUR INFORMATION 61

ON THE COVER
Cover design by Seanm
Detail of a set design sketch by Kate Edmonds
All editorial materials © 2000 by
The American Conservatory Theatre Foundation.
All rights reserved.

STAGEBILL is published monthly in Atlanta, Chicago, New York, San Francisco, Southern California, and Washington, D.C. Other Single Editions are published in Dallas, Detroit, Houston, Philadelphia, and St. Louis. Copyright © 2000 Stagebill, Inc. All rights reserved. Printed in USA.

4 STAGEBILL

In a world that can't wait 24 HOURS for a package, there's a place that still waits 18 YEARS for a whisky.

THE GLENLIVET

One place. One whisky.

ENJOY OUR QUALITY RESPONSIBLY. Scanned imported by The Glenlivet Distilling Co., N.Y. N.C. in 18 Year Old Single Malt Scotch Whisky, Aged 18 Year Old. The Glenlivet is a registered trademark.
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY THEATER

THE 2000-01 A.C.T. SEASON

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

A new version by
Constance Congdon
Directed by Cary Pahigian
November 25-December 26

THE MISANTHROPE

Written and directed by
Laurel Mitchell
February 15-March 18, 2001

GLENGARY, GLIN ROSS

Directed by Joe Mantello
January 4-February 4, 2001

AND THE BOYS

Directed by David Mamet
March 24-April 22, 2001

MISTRESS OF THE AMERICAN CONSERVATORY THEATER FOUNDATION

STRUCTS OF THE AMERICAN CONSERVATORY THEATER FOUNDATION

Tristan Cleveland
Executive Director

THE ULTIMATE IN PRIVATE BANKING

www.firstrepublic.com

INTERESTING, AFFORDABLE, PRIVATE BANKING SINCE 1985

FIRST REPUBLIC BANK

IT'S A PRIVILEGE TO SERVE YOU.

FIRST REPUBLIC

SAN FRANCISCO

NEW YORK

CHICAGO

NEW HAVEN

NORTH SCOTTSDALE

LONDON

INTERNET BANKING

AT FIRSTREPUBLIC.COM

RESIDENTIAL

CONSTRUCTION

COMMERCIAL

INVESTMENT

MANAGEMENT

PERSONAL AND

BUSINESS BANKING

FINANCIAL SERVICES AND TRUST

LENDING

LEADING THE WAY
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY THEATER nurtures the art of live theater through dynamic productions, intensive actor training in its conservatory, and an ongoing dialogue with its community. Under the leadership of Artistic Director Carey Perloff and Managing Director Heather Kitchen, A.C.T. embraces its responsibility to conserve, renew, and reinvent its relationship to the rich theatrical traditions and literatures that are our collective legacy, while exploring new artistic forms and new communities. A commitment to the highest standards informs every aspect of A.C.T.'s creative work.

Founded in 1965 by William Ball, A.C.T. opened its first San Francisco season at the Geary Theater in 1967. In the 1970s, A.C.T. solidified its national and international reputation, winning a Tony Award for outstanding theater performance and training in 1979. During the past three decades, more than 300 A.C.T. productions have been performed to a combined audience of seven million people; today, A.C.T.'s performance, education, and outreach programs annually reach more than 250,000 people in the San Francisco Bay Area. In 1996, A.C.T.'s efforts to develop creative talent for the theater were recognized with the prestigious Jujamcyn Theaters Award.

Today A.C.T. is recognized nationally for its groundbreaking productions of classical works and bold explorations of contemporary playwriting. Since the reopening of the Geary Theater in 1996, A.C.T. has enjoyed a remarkable period of record-breaking audience expansion and renewed financial stability. The company continues to produce challenging theater in the rich context of symposia, audience discussions, and community interaction.

The conservatory, led by Melissa Smith, now serves 3,000 students every year. It was the first training program in the United States not affiliated with a college or university accredited to award a master of fine arts degree. Danny Glover, Annette Bening, Denzel Washington, and Winona Ryder are among the conservatory's distinguished former students. With its commitment to excellence in actor training and to the relationship between training, performance, and audiences, the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program has moved to the forefront of America's actor training programs, while serving as the creative engine of the company at large.
Katya’s mom no longer worries where her next meal is coming from. Thanks in part to the Philip Morris Companies, Katya’s mom knows she can always get free food from the food pantry. Over the past decade, Philip Morris has given over $3.5 billion in donations and food — including many of our brands like Kraft Macaroni & Cheese, Post Cereals and Jell-O — to help feed the hungry. To learn more, visit philmorris.com. Working to make a difference.

THE PEOPLE OF THE PHILIP MORRIS COMPANIES
CONSERVATORY
Barbara Hodge, Administrator
Craig Shiget, Young Conservatory Director
Bruce Williams, Director of Summer Training Programs and Community Programs
Maureen McKelheny, Director of Student Affairs
Jack Skinner, Director of Administrative Affairs
Tom Haygood, Production Manager
Susan Pevy, Director of Financial Aid
Matt Jones, Business/Financial Administration
Jamie McIlvaine, Technical Director
Kimberly Malone, Young Conservatory Associate
Kate Berkley, Young Conservatory Off-Campus Education Director
John Dixon, Mark Jackson, Conservatory Associates
Christopher Badger, Financial Aid/Conservatory Assistant
Joe Rosemblat, Library Coordinator
Alison Augustin, Receptionist
Master of Fine Arts Program
GENE FACULTY
Mary Brow, Acting, Voice
Marco Barchielli, Acting, Stage
Jeffrey Blake, Acting, Stage
Jeffrey Crouse, Acting, Stage
Frank Orselli, Alexander Technique
Pivie Butler, Modern Dance, Stage
Mollie Smith, Acting, Stage
Deborah Sundel, Speech
Gregory Wallace, Acting
Paul Walsh, Director of Humanities
ADJUNCT FACULTY
Claudia Alesandro, Voice
Mary Brown, Acting, Stage
Mary Hoffman, Tai Chi, Concert
Deborah Lamborn, Singing
Peter Malicki, Singing
Ellen McNeil, Humanities
Kimberly Malone, Acting
Jackson Shores, Humanities
Shannon Shorn, Humanities
Studio A.C.T.
Leila Barchielli, Dance Movement
Physical Acting/Movement
Cynthia Basham, Voice and Speech
Bonita Bradley, Improvisation/Movement
Mike Carroll, Acting
Michelle Carter, Playwriting
Jeffrey Cooper, Voice and Speech
Frances Eisman, Musical Theater, Dance Movement
Joseph Feinberg, Voice
Paul Finci, Acting
Martin Greene, Acting
Andrè Hurmooz, Acting
Rene Adams, Acting
Alexander Technique
Dominic Luzzo, Acting
Kimberly Malone, Voice and Speech
Andrea Nystrom, Acting
Tam ORE, Improvisation
Barbara Scott, Improvisation
Brett St. Clair, Acting
Rachel Steinberg, Acting
Ava Victoria, Singing
Margi Whitcomb, Acting
Bruce Williams, Acting
Techniques, Acting
Young Conservatory
Marc Bauman, Creative Physical Character, Acting Professionally
Kate Bridle, Assistant to the Dean, Acting
Shannon Davis, Musical Theatre
Peter DeVincent, Improvisation, Acting
Domenique Luzzo, Shakespeare Intensive
Kimberly Malone, Voice and Speech, Acting
Pamela Ricard, Acting, Jr. Performance Workshop
David Sarno, Musical Theatre
Jack Sharratt, Directing
Craig Shiget, Performance Workshop
John Stiglian, Improvisation, Acting, Stage
Robert Taylor, Acting
FARKY
Molly Ayres, Acting
IN THE NEWS PROGRAM
Bryan Lavery (London), Resident Playwright
Susa Graham-Ash (Royal National Theatre, London), Resident Director
Accompanists
James Muschak, Robert Furt
Access everything you want to know about A.C.T. and purchase tickets online 24 hours a day @ WWW.ACT-SFBAY.ORG
Join A.C.T's popular E-mail Club (accessible through our website) for reminders of upcoming shows, special offers and last-minute ticket discounts, and the latest company news.

As If You Weren't Already Weak Enough

No true chocolate lover can resist rich Godiva Liqueurs. But the recipe below gives new meaning to the word 'irresistible'.

Godiva® Liqueur

Enjoy our quality responsibly.

©2000 Godiva Liqueur Co. Baltimore, MD. Godiva and the designs of the Lady on Homestead are trademarks of Godiva Brands, Inc., or W.A. Godiva Belgium S.A., used under license. Product availability vary by market. To order a gift of Godiva Liqueur, please call 1-800-238-4679. To find out more about Godiva Liqueur, visit our website at www.godiva.com/liqueur
Come to A.C.T. for the most entertaining education in town. A.C.T. offers several ways for you to learn about the season’s productions and to express your views on the issues they raise.

A.C.T. PROLOGUES

These lively half-hour presentations are conducted by each show’s director and are open to the public regardless of whether you are seeing the performance that evening. Prologues, sponsored by the Junior League of San Francisco, are a perfect way to get a look at the creative process behind each production. Prologues are held before the Tuesday preview of every production, at 5:30 p.m., in the Geary Theater. Doors open at 5 p.m.

AUDIENCE EXCHANGES

These informal sessions are a great way to share your feelings and reactions with fellow theatergoers. Audience Exchanges take place in the Geary Theater for 30 minutes immediately after selected performances and are moderated by A.C.T. staff members and artists.

NEW AUDIENCE EVENTS FOR 2000–01!

Join the artists for behind-the-scenes chats about each production. A.C.T. Curtain Raisers, a new preperformance series featuring discussions with artists involved in each production, will occur in the Geary Theater before a selected performance of each play. A new writers’ series, Conversations with Playwrights, is also planned, offering audience members the chance to discuss each play with its creator over cocktails in the Geary’s lower lobby. Call the box office, or visit us online for specific information.

WORDS ON PLAYS

Each entertaining and informative audience handbook contains advance program notes, a synopsis, and additional background information about the play. A subscription for seven handbooks is available by mail to full-season subscribers for $42; limited copies for individual plays are also available for purchase at the Geary Theater Box Office, and at the merchandise stand in the Geary Theater, for $8 each.

---

ON THE MISANTHROPE

A CONVERSATION WITH THE PLAYWRIGHT

Featuring Constance Congdon

Monday, October 23, 6:30 p.m.

A.C.T. PROLOGUE

Tuesday, October 24, 5:30 p.m.

Featuring A.C.T. Artistic Director Carey Perloff

A.C.T. CURTAIN RAISER

Friday, November 10, 5:45 p.m.

Featuring Scene Designer Kate Edmunds

AUDIENCE EXCHANGES

October 31, November 5 (matinee), and November 15 (matinee)
The markets have consumed many a CFO without a sound financial strategy.

Ernst & Young can help you escape the fate of those ill-prepared for the New Economy. We'll work with you to refine your financial strategies, establish online trust, help prepare for a merger, acquisition or the successful launch of an IPO, all while implementing innovative tax strategies. Who knows, with our help building lasting financial value, maybe you'll get to be the 800,000 pound gorilla someday.

ey.com/thoughtcenter

©2000 Ernst & Young LLP

The MISANTHROPE

(1666)

by Molière

A new verse version by Constance Congdon

from a translation by Virginia Scott

Directed by Carey Perloff

with

David Adkins* René Augesen*
Chris Ferry* Anthony Fusco*
Steven Anthony Jones* Kathleen Kaefer*
Kimberly King* Patrick McNulty*
David Mendelsohn Gregory Wallace*

Scenery by Kate Edmunds
Costumes by Beaver Bauer
Lighting by Rui Rita
Sound by Garth Hemphill
Dramaturg Paul Walsh
Vocal Coaching by Deborah Sussel
Movement Staged by Francine Landes
Casting by Meryl Lind Shaw
Hair and Makeup by Rick Echols
Associate Director Margo Whitcomb

Stage Management Staff
Kimberly Mark Webber*, Stage Manager
Elisa Guthertz*, Assistant Stage Manager
Elizabeth Murray, Intern

Please silence all cellular phones and pagers.

*Member of Actors' Equity Association, the Union of Professional Actors and Stage Managers in the United States
November 25–December 27
Adapted from Charles Dickens
by Laird Williamson and Dennis Powers
Directed by Candace Barrett and Raye Birk

Groups Save at A.C.T. Call 415 346-7805

The Cast
Aloette, in love with Célimène
Philine, Aloette’s friend
Oroto, in love with Célimène
Célimène, Aloette’s beloved
Eliante, Célimène’s cousin
Arsinoé, Célimène’s friend
Acaste, marquis &
suitor of Célimène
Clitandre, marquis &
suitor of Célimène
Basque, Célimène’s servant
DuBois, Aloette’s valet/
A Guard of the
Marshals of France
Ensemble

David Adkins
Gregory Wallace
Anthony Fusco
René Augesen
Kathleen Kaeler
Kimberly King
Patrick McNulty
Chris Ferry
Steven Anthony Jones

Understudies
Aloette—Chris Ferry
Philine, Oroto, Basque—James Carpenter
Célimène—Kathleen Kaeler
Eliante, Arsinoé—Julie Eccles
Acaste, Clitandre, DuBois, Guard—Tim Redmond
Ensemble—James Carpenter, Julie Eccles, Tim Redmond

Setting
The Misanthrope takes place in Célimène’s house in Paris.

There will be one intermission.

*Member of Actors’ Equity Association, the Union of Professional Actors and Stage Managers in the United States

†Student in Studio A.C.T.
MANDATORY CONFORMITY

by Carey Perloff

Inundated as we have been by the relentless “spin” of the 2000 presidential campaign, how one longs for a single honest, unscripted utterance! Molière must have felt similarly when he wrote _The Misanthrope_. In this extraordinary play, Molière posits a culture so hypocritical, so filled with euphemism, pretense, and conformity, that a man who tells the truth is considered mad. And perhaps he is; after all, part of living in society is learning how to adapt to its demands without losing one’s sense of self. But Alceste, Molière’s “misanthrope,” is too passionate and too pig-headed to adapt. His refusal to conform, in a world of mandatory conformity, is at the same time exhilarating and insane.

Seventeenth-century Paris was a culture in which precedence was everything and status was determined by a complex system of subtle markers we might barely notice today: the turn of a cuff, proximity to an important person (or, failing that, proximity to his chamber pot), a perfectly rhymed couplet, or a deftly turned-out toe. Conformity can be manifested in many ways: we have chosen in this production to begin with an intricate dance of intense color, to watch, over the course of the play, who matches, who blends in, who pops out, who clashes, and who complements whom. If the color of the day is teal and you arrive in fuchsia, what happens? If you are wearing deep purple and the light behind you dims, what happens? If you’re standing next to your archrival and you’re both wearing shades of salmon, what happens? If you arrive in bridal white and no one offers to escort you to the altar, what happens?

In a rigidly closed society, minute shifts on the chessboard can spell survival or doom, and indeed the marble floors of many Parisian hôtels were inlaid with elaborate checkerboard patterns. Every move on the square took you closer to or further from the desired goal: a deeper connection to the center of power at court. Louis XIV’s absolute power was a magnet for ambitious young men from all over France, who pawned everything for the opportunity to live in a dank closet at Versailles and try their luck at the game of chance that was court life. A well-received sonnet could catch the king’s attention and guarantee future preferment, just as a joke that fell flat or the wrong size of heel could spoil one’s prospects forever. No wonder Alceste is enraged. He lives in a culture in which even the simplest family visit could occur only after high-level negotiations determined who got to sit in the biggest chair.

_The Misanthrope_ is almost painfully contemporary in its biting condemnation of a culture in which the pressure to conform is so great that genuine impulses are fiercely squashed and faith in any-

continued on page 46
A NOTE ON THE TRANSLATION

by Constance Congdon

If you have seen The Misanthrope before, you probably saw a translation written by Richard Wilbur. I am a big fan of Richard Wilbur and worked on a production of his translation of this play, directed by Mark Lamos, when I was on the artistic staff of the Hartford Stage Company in Connecticut. Mr. Wilbur, single-handedly, brought the verse plays of Molière into the English-speaking canon, and his Misanthrope was the first of these that he finished. My translation is different because I made certain it was. But it would be different in some ways simply because I’m doing mine 47 years after his.

The language I chose for this version is snug-free American English, typical of the latter half of the 20th century. In some cases, I extended the comedy, but if it’s really funny to you, it’s probably Molière. I also clarified and in some instances underscored the many lawsuits and legal actions referred to in the play—at least that was my intention. Carey Perloff was fascinated by the amount of litigation that goes on in The Misanthrope, an aspect of 17th-century social life not unlike our own and very important to understanding the forces at work on Célimène and Alceste.

Since I had done a translation of Molière’s Miser for Hartford Stage, I was familiar with his commedia roots. My translation of Goldoni’s Servant of Two Masters took me even closer to the Italian commedia troupe that came to Paris and inspired much of Molière’s popular comedic style. But the characters in The Misanthrope are far beyond those familiar commedia-based characters. Complex, intellectual, completely three dimensional, all these people are very current, and they certainly don’t need to be “updated.” Yes, too, in writing The Misanthrope Molière used his feelings for his beautiful young wife, his connection to the writing of a scandalous book, and the snubbing and attacks he suffered for being an actor. But his characters’ concerns and their psychologies are completely recognizable by almost anyone who encounters this play, particularly urban dwellers and anyone who works in a hierarchical system where the power of favors, good opinion, and cadres makes sincerity, spontaneity, and honesty difficult or even dangerous to exercise. Only a “cameo” by DuBois, Alceste’s valet, reminds us where Molière’s sensibility as an actor was first formed. DuBois, like Goldoni’s Truffaldino, comes in like an old god, Pan or Kokopelli or Anansi, to stir up chaos in this new world.

THE TRANSLATION PROCESS

Now for some specifics in the process of translation. My friend Virginia Scott, author of the new biography Molière: A Theatrical Life, first created a 71-page literal, prose translation of the play from the original French, with footnotes (134 of them) about variations in meaning, cultural and historical context, etc. I then further translated her prose version into iambic pentameter with rhyming couplets. Consider these lines from one of Alcestes’s speeches in Act I, scene 1:

Scott’s literal prose translation:

I can’t bear it any longer, I’m enraged, and my plan is to break with or maybe “confront” the whole human race.

Wilbur version:

Ah, it’s too much; mankind has grown so base, I mean to break with the whole human race.

Congdon version:

And so I’ll take an action even viler, I’ll break my lance on my opponent’s visor, And go down fighting, face to bloody face, Then turn my back upon the human race.

In this particular case, I chose to take four couplets to express an idea that Wilbur translated in one line. Why? Because I was inspired, thanks to Virginia’s footnote, by the French idiom used to express “confront” in the original: “rompre en visière,” which means “to break a lance in the enemy visor.” I felt the extremity of action expressed by the idiom seemed an appropriate opportunity to show how intense and, at times, ridiculous Alcestes becomes when he’s emotional. Then Philinte’s laughter, which follows this speech, is also more easily motivated. Philinte’s lines clarify how this works:

Literal prose version:

This philosophical gloom/melancholy is a little too savage [implication: uncivilized, antisocial]. I laugh at these black outbursts when I contemplate you.

Wilbur version:

This philosophic rage is a bit extreme; You’ve no idea how comical you seem.

Congdon version:

The savage nature of your melancholy Just makes me laugh. You must perceive its folly.

These few examples can only begin to illustrate the function of choice in the translation process. Of course, the actor playing Philinte may choose not to laugh at Alcestes at this moment and, rather, do the line as if Philinte were more derisive and sarcastic. Or the actor may make a choice I haven’t thought of.

About character. The creation of a viable character onstage begins with the text. Sometimes described and played as a “brittle coquette,” Célimène can become a cipher, but this interpretation of her complex personality and motivation hurts the dynamic of the play. I worked to understand her and her situation and to make her as intelligent and interesting as she was revealed to be in the pages of Virginia’s translation. I found Célimène’s voice to be surprisingly direct and honest, much more like Eliante’s than I had previously realized. She is a good match for Alcestes, in that they both have very strong personalities. For a young woman of 20, I discovered her to be quite mature and savvy about manipulating the world in which she lives. The eventual failure of that manipulation is what makes the play a dark comedy and the ending strangely modern in its seriocomic tone.

And then there’s Philinte, who is one of my favorite characters in all of Molière’s plays. Sometimes interpreted as the raisonneur, a straightforward, functional character who voices the standards of thought and behavior of the author and the audience, Philinte isn’t always portrayed with the complexity and reality that Molière originally gave him. He is a selfless, long-suffering good friend, like Horatio—a good second fiddle who serves as ballast to Alcestes’ outraged histrionics. And the modest and sweet way in which he proposes to Eliante is very touching. But the revelation of Philinte’s own casual misanthropy is one of the great surprises of the play.

Working on a play so rich, so filled with wonderful language and wit, and yet so economical in structure, has been pure pleasure. Each act—there are five of them—is rarely more than 20 minutes long. In Molière’s theater, 20 minutes was how long the candles lasted before they had to be trimmed. This ordinary fact of 17th-century theatrical life bequeaths to us, a modern audience, a very tight dramatic structure in which the action never stops rolling. It’s no wonder that Molière’s brilliant social satire has been adapted into other periods—Hollywood, Paris under the rule of Charles de Gaulle, Seattle’s grunge culture. What I wonder is, Why adapt it? To me, The Misanthrope is perfectly current in its concerns and in its characters—a 21st-century play, a timeless play.
Molière in Love

by Virginia Scott

Madeleine Béjart was older than Jean-Baptiste, already an actress and a woman of considerable experience in the galanterie, the world of rich men and courtesans. Madeleine had glorious red hair. She was elegant, witty, and a much-praised tragedienne. On June 30, 1643, she, Jean-Baptiste, and eight others founded the Illustrious Theatre; it wasn’t. After it failed, Madeleine and her lover, who had by then taken the professional name of Molière, fled their creditors and spent 13 years touring the provinces.

Molière was in love with Madeleine. Unfortunately, that bare statement cannot be amplified. We do know that they lived together for a number of years, but never married. In the beginning Madeleine, who was professionally and sexually experienced, must have seemed exotic and powerful to her younger lover. As the years passed, however, Molière took the lead in the troupe, became its orator, its principal comic actor, and finally its playwright. The troupe did less and less tragedy. Madeleine grew older. The affair ended.

In the fall of 1658, the troupe returned to Paris. On January 23, 1662, a week after his 40th birthday, Molière signed a marriage contract with another Béjart, Armande, aged “about 20.” Armande was either the daughter or the younger sister of Madeleine. The truth of her parentage has never been established, but she was raised within the troupe and Molière had known her all her life. It was not a successful union.

The year after the marriage, Molière wrote The School for Wives, a comedy about a middle-aged man, Arnolphe, who has an obsessive fear of being cuckolded and so has never married. Instead, he has become guardian of a child, Agnès, whom he has raised by nuns in total innocence and has retrieved from the convent to marry. Armande, of course, had been raised in anything but innocence by a company of actors. Nonetheless, the play caused a great scandal, because people assumed that Molière was writing about his own marriage. Seeing Agnès prepared to betray her ancient guardian with the handsome Horace, “all Paris” began to ask if Armande were still faithful to her husband.

Armande did not play Agnès. The first major role Molière wrote for his wife was the princess in a court entertainment entitled The Princess of Els. The princess has three princey suitors, but swears she will never marry. Euryale, the princess of Ithaca, pretending to be even less interested in marriage, tells the lady that he is resolved never to fall in love. The princess says: “Without wanting to love, Seigneur, it is always very nice to be loved.” The prince responds: “Madame, freedom is the goddess to whom I consecrate myself.”

These lines may express the principal issues between Molière and Armande. Molière loved Armande, but Armande, while finding it “nice” to be loved, craved the freedom to live the life of a popular young actress. Molière had already exhibited his mixed feelings in The School for Husbands, written six months before his wedding.

continued on page 164
DANGEROUS WOMEN

by Elizabeth Brodersen

There may come a time when I'll be you,
And be a prude and prim and I may rue
The days or months or years I lived this life
Of "jadery," as you would call it, rife
With joy and juices, filled with love songs sung
Under my window. But not now—I'm young.
And you can't tell me—if we're talking truth—
Real truth—does any human really "rue" their youth?
Unless they didn't grasp that horn of plenty
When they had the chance. Thank God I'm twenty!
—Celimène to Arsinoé, in The Misanthrope

Thank God, indeed. Precarious as her status might be in the minefield of Parisian court life during the reign of the illustrious Sun King, The Misanthrope's celebrated heroine is certainly in an enviable position. For to be a rich, young, aristocratic widow, holding court over her own personal salon of witty gallants toasting odes to her beauty, was the pinnacle of freedom for a woman in 17th-century France.

Under French law of the period, all women (and men) under the age of 25 remained minors—and therefore unable to sign contracts, carry on business, or represent themselves in court—until the age of 25, unless they had themselves "emanipated" by legal decree. While certain noted courtesans and actresses—like Molière's early mistresses, Madeleine Béjart, who had herself emancipated around the age of 16 and never married—established themselves as independent individuals, women were generally ruled by men from cradle to grave, first by...
ACT ONE, SEASON SIX

Act One kicks off its sixth consecutive season with cocktails with cast members and a backstage tour before the November 1 performance of The Misanthrope. Formed by an enthusiastic group of young Bay Area professionals in 1995 as an affiliate of A.C.T., Act One sponsors social and fundraising events that help support scholarships for the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program and promote the enjoyment of live theater. With newly elected president Patrick Thompson (a partner in the law firm Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro and longtime theater lover) at the helm, Act One looks forward to a truly stellar year.

Act One members subscribe to a package of four designated plays—which this season include The Misanthrope (November 1), Glengarry Glen Ross (January 17), Goodnight Children Everywhere (February 28), and Enrico IV (April 11)—and are invited to attend private wine and hors d’oeuvre receptions before each performance, as well as private parties and other events at the theater. Act One also sponsors special events, including the annual Comedy Night at the Geary (scheduled this season for May 20, 2000). All Act One proceeds benefit the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program.

Act One membership is $75 per person, $150 per couple (a tax-deductible contribution), plus the price of subscription. If you are already an A.C.T. subscriber, you can easily reschedule your performances to the Act One dates by calling the box office at (415) 749-2ACT. To get in the act (and for party specifics), call the Act One Hotline at (415) 439-2402.

PRESENTING A.C.T.'S 2000-01 ASL SEASON

This season A.C.T. continues its longstanding tradition of working with the Bay Area Deaf community by offering American Sign Language (ASL)—interpreted performances of mainstage productions, deaf-accessible theater classes in the conservatory, and the increased involvement of A.C.T.'s Deaf Advisory Council, a group formed last year and comprised of Bay Area educators, actors, and hearing interpreters and A.C.T. staff members. Three plays in the 2000-01 season have been selected by a survey given to more than 200 members of the Deaf community to be interpreted for Deaf audience members: Frank Loesser's Fantasia of Christian Andersen (September 24), A Christmas Carol (2 p.m., December 2), and "MASTER HAROLD...and the boys" (2 p.m., May 19). Deaf audience members receive a special discounted ticket price ($19) and orchestra seats for themselves and a

continued on page 28
companion. Those who purchase all three plays also receive A.C.T.'s PREVIEW magazine.

To facilitate the increasing success of A.C.T.'s programs for Deaf theater students and patrons, in August A.C.T. hired Deaf community advocate Jim Brune, who will act as a liaison between A.C.T. and the Bay Area Deaf community to help A.C.T. implement efforts designed to enhance Deaf audience members' theater-going experience. In his new position, Brune will coordinate marketing efforts for A.C.T.'s ASL programs on a community level and will represent A.C.T. at Deaf community events at the California School for the Deaf and other institutions around the Bay Area.

To receive announcements about upcoming ASL-interpreted performances and other A.C.T. opportunities relevant to the Deaf community, please send an e-mail to deafcommunity@act-sfbay.org or call A.C.T. at (415) 749-2ACT (TTY: 415-749-2370).

M.F.A. Magic

Building on the success of several seasons of acclaimed public performance at the Magic Theatre, the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program plans another ambitious roster of public productions at Fort Mason in 2000–01. This winter the talented class of 2001 tackles the works of two of the English language's most original and provocatively witty playwrights: The Beaux' Stratagem, a comic adventure of mistaken identity and the search for true love (or at least a rich wife), by early 18th-century Irish dramatist George Farquhar, will be performed December 8–18, directed by British actor/director Jonathan Cullen, currently a visiting professor at Duke University. Running December 1–15 (in repertory with The Beaux' Stratagem) will be Oscar Wilde's masterful satire of romance and Victorian hypocrisy, The Importance of Being Earnest, directed by Steve Cosson, former artistic director of Smart Mouth Theatre in San Francisco.

The M.F.A. Program will also present a repertory of exciting new plays in March 2001, and the Young Conservatory plans another production at the Magic next summer, while Studio A.C.T. joins its sister programs at the Magic with its Improvisation III performance class in November. A.C.T.'s public conservatory productions are

continued from page 26

continued on page 30

Open house.

Which of his 9,999 rooms would you like to see first?

October 14, 2000 - January 24, 2001

Come see the rooms of the Imperial Palace, once inaccessible to all except the emperor's court. Now at the Oakland Museum of California, this magnificent exhibit of more than 350 objects from the Qing dynasty (1644 to 1911) is the largest ever to come to the U.S. from the Palace Museum in Beijing.

See scores of opulent objects, arms and armor, scepters and seals, portraits and paintings, and splendid silk robes worn by the concubines and emperors.

To purchase advance tickets, call 1-888-OAK-MUSE.
supported in part by The Bernard Osher Foundation, which recently renewed its commitment to A.C.T. with a $50,000 grant. Thanks to the Osher Foundation’s generous financial contribution, the public performance component of the conservatory’s training programs continues to provide A.C.T. students with invaluable onstage experience essential to honing their skills as actors.

Tickets to The Beaux' Stratagem and The Importance of Being Earnest are $5 for seniors and students, $8 for A.C.T. subscribers, and $10 for the general public. For tickets and information, call the A.C.T. Box Office at (415) 749-2ACT.

Illyria Crosses the Atlantic

The A.C.T. Young Conservatory consummated its first transatlantic collaboration last summer with the world premiere production of Illyria, a new play by British author Bryony Lavery commissioned by the YC’s renowned New Plays Program in association with London’s Royal National Theatre (RNT). Suzy Graham-Adriani, producer of the RNT’s youth theater projects, directed the world premiere production at A.C.T. in September, and Lavery was in residence at A.C.T. through the rehearsal process and performances. Below are scenes from Illyria:
IN MEMORIAM

A.C.T. joins the entire Bay Area theater community in mourning the passing of acclaimed director Albert Takazauckas, who died of an aneurysm on August 7. A gifted and prolific director of Shakespeare, musical comedy, opera, classic American plays, and contemporary drama, Takazauckas had been a beloved member of the A.C.T. community since the 1980s. As an A.C.T. associate artist, he was an integral part of the company’s artistic team and directed many plays on the A.C.T. mainstage, including Dinner at Eight, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Light Up the Sky, The Royal Family, and A.C.T.’s star-studded gala A Galaxy on Geary; which celebrated the 1996 reopening of the Geary Theater.

In addition to his work at A.C.T., Takazauckas staged dozens of productions for Berkeley Repertory Theatre, San Jose Repertory Theatre, the Magic Theatre, Marin Theatre Company, and the San Francisco Shakespeare Festival (where his Henry IV, Part 1 was running at the time of his death). Also a noted opera director, his work had been seen at leading companies throughout North America, including the San Francisco Opera, Canadian Opera Company, the Opera Festival of New Jersey, and Calgary Opera.

Takazauckas enriched the lives of thousands of theatergoers with his spirited productions and his deep commitment and flair for the art form he cherished. “Albert was both astonishingly erudite and absolutely down-to-earth,” says A.C.T. Artistic Director Carey Perloff. “He taught himself everything he knew, and he knew a great deal—about life, about theater, about love, about what makes people laugh. His presence was indelible and we will miss him hugely.” Our hearts go out to Albert’s family and his longtime partner, actor Hector Correa.
THE MISANTHROPE
October 19 - November 19

GOODNIGHT CHILDREN EVERYWHERE
February 15 - March 5

"MASTER HAROLD"... AND THE BOYS
May 4 - June 3

plus A CHRISTMAS CAROL and a play to be announced

A.C.T. 2000-01 season

American conservatory theater

Carey Perloff, artistic director  Heather Kitchen, managing director

www.act-sf.org

415 749-2ACT
discover the conservatory

The conservatory at A.C.T. encompasses four nationally recognized programs that provide study in acting and related subjects to people from throughout the United States and around the world. For more information, please call 415 439-2350 or visit online at www.act-sfbay.org.

STUDIO A.C.T.
Our highly successful part-time acting program for adults, beginning through professional.

CORPORATE EDUCATIONAL SERVICES
All the world's a stage...and you play a leading role! Improve communication skills in your office with techniques taught by theater professionals, customized for your individual needs.

YOUNG CONSERVATORY
Outstanding theater training for students aged 8 to 19.

MASTER OF FINE ARTS PROGRAM
(Formerly the Advanced Training Program)
The cornerstone of the A.C.T. Conservatory, this rigorous three-year program leads to an M.F.A. degree.

2001 Lincoln Navigator, 300 horsepower, front and side airbags, available climate control seats, power adjustable pedals, available navigational system, premium audio system.
CAREY PERLOFF (Artistic Director) assumed artistic leadership of A.C.T. in 1992. Known for directing innovative productions of classics and championing new writing for the theater, Perloff has staged for A.C.T. acclaimed productions of Euripides’ Hecuba, the American premieres of Tom Stoppard’s Invention of Lovers and Indian Ink, The Threepenny Opera, Mary Stuart, Old Times, Arcadia, The Rose Tattoo, Antigone, Creditor, Uncle Vanya, Home, the world premiere of Leslie Ayvazián’s Singer’s Boy, and the Geary Theater inaugural production of Shakespeare’s Tempest. This season she directs new translations of Molière’s Missanthrope and Pirandello’s Enrico IV.

Before joining A.C.T., Perloff was artistic director of Classic Stage Company in New York, where she directed the world premiere of Ezra Pound’s Elektra, the American premiere of Pinter’s Mountain Language and The Birthday Party, and many classic works. Under Perloff’s leadership, CSC won numerous Obie Awards, including the 1988 Obie for artistic excellence. In 1993, she directed the world premiere of Steve Reich and Beryl Korot’s opera The Cave at the Vienna Festival and the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

Perloff received a B.A. in classics and comparative literature from Stanford University and was a Fulbright Fellow at Oxford. She was on the faculty of the Tisch School of the Arts at New York University for seven years and teaches and directs in the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program. She is the proud mother of Lexie and Nicholas.

HEATHER M. KITCHEN (Managing Director), now in her 26th year of professional theater, joined A.C.T. as managing director in 1996. She currently serves as a member of the executive committee of the League of Resident Theaters (LORT) (the national consortium of regional theaters), the board of governors of the Commonwealth Club of California, the board of directors of Big Brothers/Big Sisters, San Francisco and the Peninsula, and the leadership board of the San Francisco chapter of the American Red Cross. Before joining A.C.T., she served as general manager of the Citadel Theatre in Edmonton, Alberta, where she was responsible for a five-theater complex that produced up to 16 productions annually. A native of Canada, Kitchen received an honors degree in drama and theater arts from the University of Waterloo and earned her M.B.A. from Richard Ivey School of Business at The University of Western Ontario.

MELISSA SMITH (Conservatory Director), oversees the administration of the A.C.T. Conservatory’s Master of Fine Arts Program, Young Conservatory, Summer Training Congress, and Studio A.C.T., in addition to serving as the master acting teacher of the M.F.A. Program. Before joining A.C.T., Smith served as director of the program in theater and dance at Princeton University, where she taught acting, scene study, and Shakespeare for six years. Also a professional actor, she has performed in regional theaters and in numerous off-off Broadway plays, including work by Mac Wellman and David Greenspan. Smith holds a B.A. in English and theater from Yale College and an M.F.A. in acting from the Yale School of Drama.

JAMES HAIRE (Producing Director) began his career on Broadway with Eva Le Gallienne’s National Repertory Theater. He also stage-managed the Broadway productions of And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little and Georgy (a musical by Carole Bayer Sager), as well as the national tour of Woody Allen’s Don’t Drink the Water. Off-Broadway he produced Ibsen’s Little Eyolf (directed by Marshall W. Mason) and Shaw’s Arms and the Man. Haire joined A.C.T. in 1971. He and his department were awarded Theater Crafts International’s award for excellence in the theater in 1989 and in 1992 Haire was awarded a lifetime achievement award by the Bay Area Theatre Critics’ Circle.
DAVID ADKINS (Alcestis) made his Broadway debut in Saint Joan with the National Actors Theatre and has appeared off Broadway in Sabrina with Primary Stages and Venice Preserved with the Pearl Theatre Company. He has worked extensively in regional theater for the last decade, including nine seasons at the Berkshire Theatre Festival. In 1998 he appeared in former U.S. poet laureate Rita Dove's play The Darker Face of the Earth at the Kennedy Center. Last year he played Lord Goring in An Ideal Husband at Center Stage. Film and television credits include "One Life to Live," "Another World," "Chicago Hope," "Law & Order," "Black Duck," "Trinity," and The Thomas Crown Affair. Adkins attended UMBC, Dartmouth College, and The Juilliard School.

RENE AUGEN (Célimène) has performed in New York in Spinning into Butter at Lincoln Center Theater. Macbeth at the Public Theater. It's My Party... at the Arc Light Theater, and Overruled for the Drama League. Regional theater credits include Mary Stuart (directed by Carey Perloff) at the Huntington Theatre Company; The Hollands, Tartuffe, and The Triumph of Love at South Coast Repertory; The Beauty Queen of Leenane at the Great Lakes Theatre Festival; Goliath at Baltimore Center Stage; Other Out at the Los Angeles Shakespeare Festival; The Beaux' Stratagem at Yale Repertory Theater; and Taking Steps and Prelude to a Kiss at Stage West. She has appeared on television on "Law & Order," "Guiding Light," "Another World," and Hallmark Hall of Fame's Saint Maybe, and in the film The Battle Studies. Augesen is a graduate of the Yale School of Drama.

CHRISS FERRY (Cithareide) graduated from the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program in the class of 2000. He performed on the Geary stage last season as Matrevis in Edward II and as Filch in The Three Penny Opera. A.C.T. credits also include Touchstone in As You Like It, Fiddler in Pains of Youth, and Madame Tussaud in Girl Gone in M.F.A. productions at the Magic Theatre. Most recently, he played Alphonse, Grover, The Gorgon Trolley, Mr. Coffee, Madame Nhu, Gus, and Nicky Paradise in On the Verge with Class Forces Theater at the Noh Space.

ANTHONY FUSCO (Orestes) has been a professional actor since graduating from Juilliard in 1983. Highlights of the last 17 years include: Simon Gray's Holy Terror, Shaw's Man and Superman, David Mamet's Life in the Theatre (with F. Murray Abraham), Ira Levin's Cantorial, and others off Broadway, as well as numerous regional theater productions, including Edward II at A.C.T. last season, the title role of Macbeth, the American premiere of Harold Pinter's adaptation of 12 Angry Men, and the world premiere of Jules Feiffer's Anthony Rose. Television credits include "The Sopranos." "Law & Order" (five episodes), "Trinity," "L.A. Law," "The Wright Verdicts," and all the New York-based "soaps."
STEVEN ANTHONY JONES (Basil) has been seen at A.C.T. in The Invention of Love, The Threepenny Opera, Tartuffe, Indian Ink, Hecuba, Insurrection: Holding History, Seven Guitars, the title role of Othello, Antigone, Miss Evers’s Boys, Clare, Joe Turner’s Come and Gone, Saint Joan, King Lear, Golden Boy, Feathers, and A Christmas Carol. Other local theater credits include Faunie Oregano and McTiegue at Berkeley Repertory Theatre; As You Like It at the San Francisco Shakespeare Festival; The Cherry Orchard, Every Moment, and The Island at the Eureka Theatre; Master Harold... and the boys at San Jose Repertory Theatre; and Division Street at Oakland Ensemble Theatre. He originated the role of Private James Willie in the original production of A Soldier’s Play at the Negro Ensemble Company in New York. His many film and television credits include two seasons of “Midnight Caller.”

KATHLEEN KAEFER (Elizabet) recently graduated from the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program. She has appeared on the A.C.T. mainstage as Mary Boyle in Anna and the Apocalypse and in the ensemble of The Threepenny Opera. Some of her favorite roles in the conservatory include Irenia in Ferdinand Bruckner’s Paths of Youth, Ardania in The Seagull, and Buggins in the West Coast premiere of Mac Wellman’s Girl Gone. She is a founding member of The Hunger Artists in Santa Ana.

KIMBERLY KING (Arsinoe) has worked in theater, television, film, and radio. She has appeared in the New York productions of the Tony Award-winning James Joyce’s The Dead as Greta and Piesso at the Lopin Agile as German, as well as leading roles at the McCarter Theatre in Princeton, Houston’s Alley Theatre, Berkeley Repertory Theatre, A.C.T. (where she was last seen as Lady Croom in Arcadia), and Denver Center Theatre Company, among many others. Recent roles include Margaret in Camino Real at Hartford Stage Company and Anna in Night Sky with the Odyssey Theatre Ensemble in Los Angeles. She won Drama-Logue Awards for work at A.C.T. and Berkeley Rep and Critics’ Circle Awards for work at the Alley Theatre, Cleveland Theatre Festival, and McCarter Theatre. She has sung opera, musical theater, and jazz, including the San Francisco Symphony’s On the Town. King will direct Feydeau’s Flea in Her Ear at the Odyssey Theatre.

PATRICK MENTULY (Jedediah) completed his M.F.A. in the A.C.T. Conservatory last spring. He was last seen onstage in San Francisco as the understudy for the one-person show Fully Committed at Theatre on the Square. On the A.C.T. mainstage he appeared as Wilt Dreyer in The Threepenny Opera. A.C.T. Conservatory credits include the title role of Pericles, Alt in Paths of Youth, and Chaz in Girl Gone. Past roles in Chicago include the title role of The Picture of Dorian Gray (Wisdom Bridge Theatre), Archie in The Honeymoon That Follows (American Blues Theatre), and Valere in Tartuffe (Court Theatre). As a founding member of Roadworks Productions, he performed in and produced the midwestern premieres of Suburbia, The Lights, Lion in the Streets, and his own one-person show L.E. Cummings A is Is.

DAVID MENDELSOHN (DuBois/Guard) returns to the Geary Theater after his ensemble role last fall in The Threepenny Opera. As a member of the A.C.T. Conservatory’s Master of Fine Arts Program class of 2000, he appeared as Lysimachus in Pericles, Mortiz in Spring Awakening, and Fay in the West Coast premiere of Mac Wellman’s Girl Gone, all at the Magic Theatre. Most recently, he performed with FoolsFury as the Amaunestis in Tony Kushner’s adaptation of The Illusion, by Corneille.

GREGORY WALLACE (Philinte) has been seen at A.C.T. in Edward II, A Christmas Carol, Tartuffe, Insurrection: Holding History, and Angels in America (Bay Area Theatre Critics’ Circle Award). Other theater credits include Our Country’s Good on Broadway, A Light Shining in Buckinghamshire at the New York Theatre Workshop, As You Like It at the Public Theater, Much Ado about Nothing at the Alliance Theatre, The Screams at the Guthrie Theater, Someone to Watch Over Me at the Williamstown Theatre, The Queen and the Rebels at Center Stage, and The Beaux’ Stratagem at Berkeley Repertory Theatre. Screen credits include Peter Sellars’ Cabinet of Dr. Rameau, The Bicycle Thieves, Dark Goddess, Crime Story, and Internal Affairs. Wallace is a graduate of the Yale School of Drama and teaches and directs in the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program.

JAMES CARPENTER (Understudy) has appeared at A.C.T. in Mary Stuart, The Royal Family, The Tempest, Hecuba, and Full Moon. He has spent several seasons with the Old Globe Theatre and the Oregon Shakespeare Festival and has performed locally with Marin Theatre Company, Theatre on the Square, San Jose Repertory Theatre, and the California Shakespeare Festival. Carpenter has appeared in a wide variety of roles in more than 30 productions at Berkeley Repertory Theatre, where he has been an associate artist and fight choreographer for 12 years.

JULIE ECCLES (Understudy) has appeared at A.C.T. in The House of Math, Dinner at Eight, and A Christmas Carol. Other Bay Area credits include An Ideal Husband and The Beaux’ Stratagem at Berkeley Repertory Theatre; Holiday and Bay Fever for San Jose Repertory Theatre; You Can’t Take It with You, The Heidi Chronicles, Talley’s Folly, and The Man Who Came to Dinner for TheatreWorks; and Much Ado about Nothing and Comedy of Errors for the San Francisco Shakespeare Festival. Other regional appearances include productions at Seattle Repertory Theatre, the Huntington Theatre, GeVa Theatre, and Syracuse Stage. Film and television credits include Poor Little Rich Girl, Once in a Lifetime, The American Playhouse production of Strange Interlude, and Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade.
TIM REDMOND (Understudy) has appeared at A.C.T. in Edward II, Mary Stuart, and Juno and the Paycock. He recently appeared in The Water Engine with the Shotgun Players and shot an episode of “Nash Bridges” to be aired this fall. Other local and regional productions include work with the California Shakespeare Festival, the Aurora Theatre Company (in Widowers’ Houses and The Aspern Papers), the Utah Shakespearean Festival, the American Citizens Theatre, the Cleveland Working Theatre, and the Idaho Shakespeare Festival.

CONSTANCE CONDON (Voice Version) has written many plays, including Tales of the Lost Forlorn, which has had more than 80 productions; Losing Father’s Body, which premiered at Portland Stage Company; Company and Dog Opera (both produced at the New York Shakespeare Festival); Lips (Primary Stages); and The Automatika Petri, which was commissioned by the A.C.T. Young Conservatory New Plays Program and premiered at the Magic Theatre last spring. Her libretto for Peter Gordon’s opera The Strange Life of Ivan Osokin was performed at New York’s La Mama Annex in 1994. She also works with composers Ronald Perera and Mel Marvin. Other works include the plays Native Americans, So Far, No Mercy, and its companion piece One Day Earlier, an adaptation of John Updike’s novel S. into an opera libretto for Perera; and seven plays for the Children’s Theatre Company of Minneapolis. Condon’s plays have been produced in Moscow, Helsinki, Hong Kong, Tokyo, Edinburgh, and London, as well as in more than 50 professional and university theaters in the United States, and a collection of her plays (for adults) has been published by Theatre Communications Group. She has received an NEA playwriting fellowship, a Rockefeller Playwriting Award, a Guggenheim Award, and a New York’s Oppenheimer Award for the New York production of Tales of the Lost Forlorn. An alumna of New Dramatists, she teaches playwriting at Amherst College.

VIRGINIA SCOTT (Translator) is professor of theater at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where she founded a graduate program in dramaturgy and teaches translations as well as dramaturgy and playwriting. She is the author of Moliere: A Theatrical Life (2000) and The Commedia dell’Arte in Paris (1990), as well as many articles on the French theater. She has translated several of Moliere’s plays, including The Miser, The Imaginary Invalid, and The Impromptu at Versailles, for productions at colleges and universities throughout the country.

KATE EDMUNDS (Scenic Designer) has designed many productions for A.C.T., including The House of Mirth, Long Day’s Journey into Night, and the Paycock, Hecuba, Old Times, Antigone, Uncle Vanya, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead, Oleanna, Arcadia, and Oslo. Locally, she has designed many shows for Berkeley Repertory Theatre, including Twelfth Night, The Revenger, The Misanthrope, Endgame, Sight Unseen, The Winter’s Tale, Heartbreak House, Mars!, and, most recently, The Heiress and How I Learned to Drive. She has also designed extensively throughout the United States at a wide range of regional, off-Broadway, and Broadway theaters, and her designs have garnered many local and national awards. A graduate of the Yale School of Drama, Edmunds teaches scenic design at UC Berkeley.

BEAVER BAUER (Costume Designer) has designed costumes for A.C.T. productions of Edward II, Tartuffe, Insurrection; Holding History, The Royal Family, The Matchmaker, Uncle Vanya, The Learned Ladies, Good, Twelfth Night, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, Feathers, A Lie of the Mind, and The Floating Light Bulb. She has designed extensively for the San Francisco Shakespeare Festival, Berkeley Repertory Theatre, Arena Stage, Denver Center, Shakespeare Festival of Nova Scotia, and the San Jose Repertory Theatre. Her work has been featured in the New York Times, Los Angeles Times, and New York Magazine. She has designed costumes for the New York Shakespeare Festival and the San Jose Repertory Theatre. She has received the Drama Desk Award for her costumes in The Three Musketeers and The Hound of the Baskervilles.

RUI RITA (Lighting Designer) has designed Broadway productions of The Price, A Thousand Clowns, and Medea (with Diana Rigg), and off-Broadway productions of Dinner with Friends, Far East, Ancestral Voices, Secrets Every Smart Traveler Should Know, Filmmena, Antony & Cleopatra (with Vanessa Redgrave), Rita & Virginia, and Coming Through. Other theater credits include productions at the Alley Theatre, Geffen Playhouse, Hartford Stage Company, Kennedy Center, Ford’s Theatre, Belgrade International Theatre Festival, and Composer Songbook Series. He has designed more than 40 productions at the Williamstown Theatre Festival, including Hecuba (directed by Carey Perloff), The Skin of Our Teeth, Light Up the Sky, A Raisin in the Sun, As You Like It, The Price, Far East, The Glass Menagerie, The Seagull, Nora, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, and Tonight at 8:30. Rita also designed The Nutcracker for American Ballet Theatre.

GARTH HEMPHILL (Sound Designer) is in his fourth season as A.C.T.’s resident sound designer. He has designed more than 100 productions, including, for A.C.T., Frank Loesser’s Kiss Me, Kate, Captain Ahab of the Barbary Coast, and the Bay Area Premiere of Richard Greenberg’s Three Days of the Condor. Hemphill is a partner of GH Design, Inc., a local design firm.

PAUL WALSH (Dramaturg) joined A.C.T. as dramaturg and director of humanities in 1996 after teaching at Southern Methodist University and working with the Minneapolis-based Theatre de la Jeune Lune on such award-winning projects as Children of Paradise: Shooting A Dream Intentionally, Don Juan, and The Hound of the Baskervilles. He has served as production dramaturg on more than 15 plays at A.C.T., including last season’s Edward II, which he adapted with director Mark Lamos. Walsh received his Ph.D. from the University of Toronto in 1988. His translations of plays by Strindberg and Ibsen have been produced across the United States and in Canada. Publications include articles in The Production Notebook, Re-Interpreting Brecht, Strindberg’s Dramaturgy, Theatre Symposium, Essays in Theatre, and Studies Neophilologica.

FRANCINE LANDES (Movement Staging) has been choreographing for the last 20 years throughout Europe, Australia, Canada, and the United States. She received her training at the New York School of Dance and the New York City Opera. She has choreographed for film, television, the New York Shakespeare Festival, and the New York Opera Company. She has directed the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, the San Francisco Ballet, and the San Francisco Opera. She was the original cast member of The Mystery of Edwin Drood on Broadway and played the role of Eve in Martha Clarke's Garden of Earthly Delights. Landes has taught on the faculties of Princeton University, Columbia University, and Wesleyan University. She is currently on the faculty of the A.C.T. Master of Fine Arts Program.

RICK ECHOLS (Hair & Makeup) has worked on more than 250 A.C.T. productions since 1971. He designed Cyrano de Bergerac, A Christmas Carol, and The Taming of the Shrew for A.C.T. and public television, as well as many other television and major film productions. He also designed for the original Cinderella at the San Francisco Ballet, Christopher Walken's Hamlet for the American Shakespeare Festival, and Angels in America for the Eureka Theatre Company. Echols also works for the San Francisco Opera and teaches at the A.C.T. Conservatory, as well as occasional hairstyling at the Oscars. In 1996, he returned to A.C.T. after almost five years with Les Misérables on the road with the national tour and on Broadway.

MARGO WHITCOMB (Associate Director) has worked for A.C.T. in several capacities over the last five years. She has taught extensively in the A.C.T. Conservatory, where her M.F.A. Program directing credits include Hippolyta, The Reincarnation of Jeanie Bronc, and A Woman of No Importance. Collaborations with A.C.T. mainstage directors include Heredia, The Tempest, Singer's Boy, Mrs. Warren's Profession, A Christmas Carol, Insurrection: Holding History, and The Three Penny Opera. Recent directing credits also include the award-winning Glace Bay Miners' Museum, The Road to Mecca, Hamlet, Women of the Year, Cloud Nine, and Top Girls. Whitcomb holds a B.F.A. in acting from the University of Minnesota, an M.A. in theater history and literature from U.C. Santa Barbara, and an M.F.A. in directing from the University of Washington.

KIMBERLY MARK WEBB (Stage Manager) is in his seventh season at A.C.T., where he worked most recently on Edward II, The Invention of Love, and The Three Penny Opera. During 19 years with Berkeley Repertory Theatre, he stage-managed more than 70 productions. Other credits include Picasso at the Lapin Agile in San Francisco, The Womans Warrior for Center Theatre Group in Los Angeles, Mary Stuart and The Lady from the Sea at Boston's Huntington Theatre Company, Heredia at the Williamstown Theatre Festival, and The Philanderer at Aurora Theatre Company. Webb served as production stage manager at Theatre Three in Dallas for six years.

ELISA GUTHERTZ (Assistant Stage Manager) has served as assistant stage manager on numerous productions with A.C.T., including Tartuffe, Long Day's Journey into Night, Mary Stuart, A Streetcar Named Desire, The Royal Family, and The Rose Tattoo. Most recently she stage-managed Let My Enemy Live Long! and Civil Sex at Berkeley Repertory Theatre. Other productions for Berkeley Rep, including The Alchemist, The Life of Galileo, Collected Stories, Cloud Tectonics, and How I Learned to Drive. She has also stage-managed many productions with the California Shakespeare Festival.

---

Special Thanks to

Ellen Novack, Casting
Bruce Williams, Director, Studio A.C.T.
San Francisco Opera Lighting Department

---

Mandatory Conformity, continued from page 39

one's integrity is nearly impossible to come by. Idealism quickly becomes cynicism, which then becomes exhausted indifference.

What, then, are we to make of Alceste? An object of desire as well as ridicule, he has been interpreted in many ways since Molière first played him in 1666. Indeed, perhaps because Molière was Alceste's first interpreter, one of the remarkable things about exploring The Misanthrope today is that this envelope of literate comedy conceals extreme complexity of character. A study of the original production triggered many new possibilities as I cast and rehearsed the play, in part because Molière himself created these roles with specific actors in mind, actors who could play against the outline of their characters. Thus Philinte, who appears to be the play's moderate voice of reason, was performed by La Grange, a dashing actor who had just starred in Molière's Don Juan. Eliante, often portrayed as Célimène's mousy cousin, was played by the stunning beauty of the company, Milé Du Parc. And Célimène, that most complex of Molière heroines, was played by the author's young wife, Armande. This is particularly intriguing, not only because all of Paris knew about the Molières' troubled marriage and were dying to witness their conflict live onstage, but because Armande was an actress of great warmth and honesty, not at all the brittle coquette Célimène is often reputed to be.

It fascinates me that, like Chekhov, Molière populated his play with richly facetted characters whom it is impossible to judge. Their passions are extreme, their reasoning often preposterous, and the stakes always enormously high. Perhaps that is why, 300 years later, The Misanthrope still seems remarkably new.

---

A lawyer without cases who pretends to be tremendously busy.

by Honoré-Victorien Sardou
Molière in Love, continued from page 24

Sganarelle and Ariste are brothers who, it might be argued, represent the playwright's own contradictory emotions. Sganarelle, jealous and possessive, refuses to let Isabelle, the young woman he wants to marry, leave his house. Ariste tries to talk his brother into being reasonable: "These bolts and these bars don't make a woman virtuous. Frankly, it would be a strange thing if a woman's honor depended only on constraint. I think that if you win her heart, she will protect her own honor and yours." But there precisely was the rub. In principle, Molière may have believed that marriage should not mean a circumscribed life for a woman, but there was a part of him that speaks through Sganarelle. Arnolphe, and, later, Alceste of his fear that he was not sufficiently lovable to win and keep the heart of the woman he loved.

NOTORIOUS "AUTOBIOGRAPHY"

Molière was a celebrity; the details of his conflict-ridden married life were a gossip's delight in his own time, spread through the 17th-century equivalents of supermarket tabloids. Some of what was written may be invention based on the plays; some of it may be imagined by the authors. Nonetheless, it gives Molière a voice worth hearing.

The most revealing account comes from a pamphlet attacking Armande entitled The Infamous Actress. In it the anonymous author claims to have interviewed Molière's dear friend Chapelle, which he may have done. Chapelle certainly was Molière's closest friend, and he was notoriously unable to keep what he knew to himself. What "Chapelle" says is that he advised his friend to have his unfaithful wife locked up as a common whore. "Molière" answers:

I can see you have never been in love. I was born deeply disposed to desire, and since, despite all my efforts, I have been unable to overcome this, I have tried to be as happy as one can be with such a susceptible heart. . . . My wife was very young when I married her, and I did not perceive in her any dishonorable inclinations . . . but I found that what she felt for me was far from what I needed in order to be happy. I did everything to conquer my feelings, since it was impossible to change them. I used all the strength of my spirit . . . Now I am determined to live with her as if she were not my wife; but if you knew what I suffer, you would pity me . . . You will doubtless say to me that it is mad to love like this. But I believe there is only one kind of love, and that people who have not felt this have not been in love at all.

In Grimarest's Life of Molière, a more self-critical "Molière" speaks to another friend, Jacques Rohault:

I only have what I deserve . . . I believed my wife would adjust her behavior to my expectations, though I was well aware that if she had done so, she would be more unhappy than I am. She is lively, witty . . . she wants to enjoy her life, go her way. She knows she is innocent and she disdains the precautions I ask her to take. I conceive this neglect to be contempt. I need signs of her affection in order to believe that she has affection for me.

We know that Molière's marriage was troubled in the spring of 1666 when he was finishing The Misanthrope. He had rented a small apartment in Auteuil, west of Paris, and was living there alone, recovering from a serious episode of tuberculosis. When the play opened on June 4, Molière played Alceste and Armande played Célimène. The audience on that opening night brought with them to the theater the scandal that circulated about the actor/playwright, as well as knowledge of his earlier plays about love and jealousy. Whether rightly or wrongly, Molière's private life was deeply implicated in their experience of the play.

It would, of course, be naive to assume that Molière's plays are simple autobiography, but equally naive to believe that Molière was a wholly objective writer who never used his feelings as a source for his theater. Molière's plays again and again project a complex and ambivalent attitude toward women, love, and marriage. A familiar argument is that a writer's work must be experienced entirely separately from his life. And, truly, the relationship of life and art is a difficult knot to untangle. But at the very least we can propose that, although Molière was not Alceste and Armande was not Célimène, had there been no Armande, had the marriage been other than it was, had Molière found happiness in love, there would be no Misanthrope.

their fathers and thereafter by their husbands. Although legal separation of property was not uncommon, particularly among women of the aristocracy and bourgeoisie whose husbands could not manage to stay out of debt, there was no hope of divorce for the Catholic French population. Thus the most common means of achieving emancipation for young women like Célimène was the much-desired state of widowhood.

And widows there were plenty. Frequent civil strife, the extreme poverty of the peasantry, Louis XIV’s numerous foreign wars, and the tendency to settle disputes of honor with personal combat (in which both principals and seconds were expected to fight to the death), sent many a Frenchman to a premature demise. (During campaigns in Germany in 1644, three French provinces alone lost 900 noblemen; their widows rejected a decree that would have allowed them to pass their husbands’ names and privileges to a second partner). Thanks to the common practice of marrying teenage girls to much older husbands, many of the bereaved were of tender age. Marie de la Noye, for example, beginning at the age of 13, within a couple of decades went through three husbands: a quinquagenarian, an octogenarian, and septuagenarian.

The benefits of widowhood were many, so long as the grieving spouse stayed in line. She was allowed to keep any social prestige and privileges she had acquired upon marriage—including those of her late husband’s rank, employment, and royal offices—as well as substantial assets, if the husband’s affairs had been properly managed. A bourgeois was allowed to carry on her husband’s business until remarriage; a noblewoman retained his aristocratic privileges, unless she remarried someone of lower status.

The life of a widow was not necessarily all bon mots and joie de vivre, however. Official mourning lasted 12 months, during which the bereaved was obliged to grieve in grand style. For the first 40 days after her spouse’s death, she was expected to remain in a room hung with black curtains, receiving condolences—although dramatic manifestations of grief were frowned upon as blatant hypocrisy. Thereafter, she was expected to wear black, with a bandeau pulled low on her forehead, much like a nun’s headdress, a practice not very popular among (and often ignored by) the well-dressed ladies of Louis’s court. At least the husband’s heirs were required to pay for the mourning wardrobe, of both the widow and her servants, out of his estate, of which a certain amount was allocated by law for the wife’s upkeep during the virtual year.

The unfortunate widow was expected to lead a pious and withdrawn existence dedicated to cultivating her husband’s memory, rearing his children, and her own personal sanctification. Many bereaved women retired to cloisters, either out of personal choice or because of financial difficulties resulting from virtual disputes. Of those who chose to enjoy the advantages of widowhood, society was particularly suspicious, precisely because of their newfound sexual and financial freedom. Secular as well as religious 17th-century writers went on at length about the sexual rapaciousness of young widows, accusing them of an array of vices, including afinity, hypocrisy, infidelity, coquetry, and licentiousness. (The Maréchal de Bassompierre, for example, reported extreme exhaustion after five consecutive days and nights relieving the frustration of a bereaved teenage bride.)

Despite the obvious advantages, however, widows also faced a host of potential complications. If her husband had been a poor financial manager, a widow could lose the marital community property, thereby evading his debts. This problem required a detailed inventory of the husband’s property and legal registration of renunciation within a few months after death. Unless the marriage contract specified otherwise, however, renunciation meant the widow could take with her only certain personal effects (a set of clothes, a bed, sometimes jewelry, furniture, crockery, or a prayer book) and her dowry. If she was a minor, her dowry reverted to her father, only to be returned on remarriage. The dowry was to be paid before all other debts of the estate, but was forfeit if the wife was convicted of debauchery during marriage or lillity, or if she had left her husband against his wishes and without just cause.

If there were no other heirs, the wife received the entire estate; otherwise, however, she was entitled only to a quarter of the goods, and then only if she was impoverished. Selling an estate, or contending with the claims of other heirs, could entangle a widow in complex, even ugly, legal proceedings. And in 17th-century France’s corrupt judicial system, in which frivolous litigation was rampant, judicial bribes were expected, and persuasive visits to the presiding judge by the aggrieved parties—as well as a parade of their most influential friends and acquaintances—were a matter of course, success was by no means guaranteed. The extreme complexity, slowness, and costliness of judicial procedure and rivalries among the many different legal tribunals could prolong a lawsuit indefinitely, or at least until the financial exhaustion of all parties involved.

Of course, a young widow could avoid all this unpleasantness by taking a second husband, but society did not look particularly kindly upon remarriage, either. In the eyes of the Church, the death of a husband bestowed on his widow a kind of second “virginity,” which she was ideally supposed to maintain for the rest of her life in pious seclusion. The law, too, imposed sanctions designed to shield a husband's memory against the insult of his widow's hasty attachment to another man. In some areas, remarriage within the vidual year resulted in forfeiture of all matrimonial gains, as well as a mother's right to inherit from the children of her first marriage. And remarriage to a social inferior could cause loss of her aristocratic privileges, dowry, and/or the right to dispose of her property, especially to her new spouse. Remarriage could also cost a mother the right to care for her own minor children, for whom a replacement guardian was provided.

The women of Versailles were generally free to indulge in all sorts of entertainment, from all-night gambling and feasting to numerous lovers, so long as they maintained a facade of elegant respectability before the king. The life Célimène sees before her as an independent woman of means has understandable appeal. Yet, in a world where influence and perception were everything, and an offense as simple as sitting in the wrong chair could bring utter ruin, Arinio's admonition to Célimène to "live [her] life for virtue"—in appearance, at least—is perhaps not bad advice.

---

Mrs. Albert J. Moorman

The Misanthrope is sponsored in part by a generous contribution from Mrs. Albert J. Moorman. Mrs. Moorman's dedicated commitment to A.C.T. dates back more than 25 years, when she and her late husband (who served as vice president of the board of trustees of the California Association for A.C.T. and later on the board of trustees of the American Conservatory Theatre Foundation) first became involved with the company. Mrs. Moorman has continued to support the artistic life of A.C.T. since the death of her husband in 1994. (Her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fremont, are also enthusiastic theatergoers.)

In 1948, Al and Bette Moorman moved to the Bay Area, where an inspired performance by Tallulah Bankhead sparked a love affair with the Geary Theater and with live performance that was to last more than half a century. Mr. Moorman joined McCutchen, Doyle, Brown & Enersen—the Bay Area's second largest law firm—1960 and served as managing partner of the firm from 1976 until 1985, longer than any other individual in the firm's history. Moorman's enthusiastic lobbying on behalf of A.C.T. contributed significantly to the increased success of the company's local fundraising efforts, while his leadership as chairman of the board's nominating committee helped to create and sustain a level of excellence and service in A.C.T.'s principal governing body. Moorman also served on the boards of the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art and the National Corporate Theatre Fund, on the Committee for Art at Stanford University, and on the advisory committee of the Allied Arts Guild. A.C.T. has named a rehearsal studio after Moorman as a lasting tribute to his invaluable contribution to the life of the theater and the arts in the Bay Area.
United Airlines Lead Corporate Sponsor
(The Misanthrope)

As the world's largest airline and the largest employee-owned company, United Airlines offers nearly 2,400 flights each day on a route network that spans the globe, providing service to more than 139 airports in 30 countries. It is a founding member of the Star Alliance, a network that includes 11 of the world's leading airlines. United has been a leader in airline innovation for six decades—first flight-service pilot in 1930, the first air-craft in 1936, the first longer-distance nonstop coast-to-coast flight in 1955, and the first commercial jetliner to use in-flight satellite data communications in 1990.

Dedicated to serving the community as well as in the air, United has sponsored numerous other Bay Area arts organizations— including the Oakland East Bay Symphony, San Francisco Performances, and the San Jose/Cleveland Ballet—all of which contribute to United's goal of improving the quality of life in the communities and neighborhoods United serves.

---

Honoring A.C.T.'s Friends

Do you enjoy working with diverse people and learning more about the theater? The Friends of A.C.T., the company's volunteer auxiliary, offers many opportunities for people interested in contributing their time and talent to A.C.T. Volunteers assist with mailings and work with administrative departments, help at selected performances, staff the library, and more.

Friends do so much for A.C.T. throughout the year that we can never thank our volunteers enough for the critical support they provide. We would like to recognize the Friends listed below who have volunteered during recent months:

- G. David Anderson
- Alison Augustin
- Marie Bauer
- Helen Buckner
- Joan Cahill
- Geraldine Collins
- Maureen Dan
- Elaine Foreman
- Frances Frieder

- Barbara Gerber
- Celia Gerico
- Dorothy Griggs
- Pauline Hoff
- Gerri Holmes
- hat Han
- Esther Jennings
- Iris Johnson
- William &

- Gladys Kane
- Susan Kohn
- Ines Lecowitz
- Rica Mintz
- Danielle Neary
- roy O'Connell
- Miriam Peralta
- Joe Rattani
- Dana Rees

- Walter Riney
- Joe Rosenthal
- Beverly Saba
- Ellen Spinrad
- Sumi Takahashi
- Sylvia Toelke
- Rick Viola
- Joan Wilcox
- Johanna Wilkins

For information about the Friends of A.C.T., call (415) 439-2301. For information about ushering, call (415) 439-2349.
PG&E Corporation
LEAD CORPORATE SPONSOR
(A CHRISTMAS CAROL)
PG&E proudly continues its support of A.C.T.'s Christmas Carol.
PG&E Corporation's businesses offer customers across the nation a full range of natural-gas and electric products and services. Our Northern and Central California utility, Pacific Gas and Electric Company, has provided safe, reliable gas and electric service to Californians for nearly 100 years. PG&E Corporation's National Energy Group owns and operates power plants and major gas transmission facilities in North America and operates one of the top energy trading businesses in the country.

While PG&E Corporation's businesses are national in scope, it has a long tradition of philanthropic activity in the San Francisco Bay Area, the company's corporate home. PG&E Corporation's sponsorship of A.C.T. demonstrates its support for productions that enrich the cultural life of the community.

KGO Radio
LEAD MEDIA SPONSOR
(A CHRISTMAS CAROL)
KGO Newstalk AM 810 also returns to support A.C.T. as a co-sponsor of A Christmas Carol. KGO made its A.C.T. sponsorship debut in 1996 with the Geary Theater inaugural production of The Tempest. KGO has been Northern California's most-listened-to radio station for more than 20 years, due to its commitment to the community—a commitment to provide the most complete information about world and local events, a forum for discussion, and support for arts, civic, and other nonprofit community organizations.

Each week KGO informs and entertains more than one million listeners—people who enjoy the variety, depth, and stimulating nature of newstalk programming. KGO appreciates the quality and diversity of the productions presented by A.C.T. and is proud to support an important San Francisco tradition.
TAKE STOCK IN A.C.T.
There are many creative ways to give to A.C.T. All are tax deductible and offer A.C.T. donors tremendous opportunities to:

- Avoid capital gains taxes on the sale of appreciated stock;
- Create an income-tax deduction equal to the fair-market value of the stock at the time of transfer; and
- Generate a more significant gift than if you were just writing a check.

Additional ways to contribute to A.C.T.'s success include:

- Cash—one of the most familiar ways to give;
- Property—most real estate and personal property qualify as tax-deductible charitable gifts; and
- Life insurance—the cash value of your current paid-up life insurance policy can benefit A.C.T.

PLANNED GIVING
Many people who could not otherwise contribute to A.C.T. as generously as they would like find they are able to do so with a carefully planned gift. You can make a valuable long-term contribution to great theater by:

- Making a bequest to A.C.T.—please let us know if you have included A.C.T. in your will or estate plans; or
- Creating a life-income charitable trust with A.C.T.—you can gain an immediate and substantial tax deduction, increased annual income paid to you for life, freedom from investment worries, and avoidance of capital gains taxes when you transfer appreciated property to a charitable remainder trust.

To find out more about ways to give to A.C.T., please contact:

A.C.T. Manager of Individual Giving Michele Cason
30 Grant Avenue
San Francisco, CA 94108
(415) 439-2451

---

American Conservatory Theater is deeply grateful for the generous support of the many individuals, corporations, foundations, and government agencies whose contributions make great theater possible.

GOVERNMENT, FOUNDATION, AND CORPORATE SPONSORS

$100,000 AND ABOVE
- Grants for the Arts/San Francisco Hotel Tax Fund
- The William and Flora Hewlett Foundation
- The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation
- Steve Silver Productions, Inc.
- Anonymous

$50,000—$99,999
- Bulgari
- California Arts Council
- Walter and Elise Haas Fund
- Jewelry of Charity, Inc.
- Bernard Osher Foundation
- PC&E Corporation
- The Shubert Foundation
- The Westin St. Francis

$25,000—$49,999
- Bank of America Foundation
- Miriam and Peter Haas Fund
- Howard, Rice, Nemerovski, Canady, Falk & Rabkin
- KDBFF
- Koret Foundation
- The National Endowment for the Arts
- Pacific Bell Foundation
- Theatre Communications Group, Inc.
- United Airlines
- Van Loosen Sela Foundation
- Visa U.S.A., Inc.
- Wells Fargo Foundation

$10,000—$24,999
- Alice 97.3 FM
- Bay Guardian
- Frank A. Cammisa Foundation
- The Capital Group Companies
- Chevron
- Contra Costa Newspapers, Inc.
- First Crush
- First Republic Bank
- Fleishhacker Foundation
- Ira and Louise Goldberg Philanthropic Fund
- David B. Gold Foundation
- Richard & Rhoda Goldman Fund
- Colin Higgins Foundation, advised by The Tides Foundation
- KGO AM 680
- KQED
- KTVU
- Levi Strauss Foundation
- The Odeff Fund
- Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro
- Resolution Laser Printer Repair
- The Roberts Foundation
- Hilton SF
- Marion Scholars
- Charles Schwab & Co., Inc.

INDIVIDUAL SUPPORTERS

The list below reflects gifts received between July 1, 1999, and September 11, 2000.

DIAMOND BENEFACOR ($25,000 and above)
- Barbara and Terson Bakar
- Mr. and Mrs. Gordon P. Getty
- Sally and Bill Hambrecht
- Mr. James C. Hormel
- Ms. Sandra S. Lloyd
- Mr. and Mrs. David McMurtry
- Ms. Toni Rembo and Mr. Arthur Rock
- Alan L. and Ruth Stein
- Mr. Gregory W. Wendt
- Anonymous

GOLD BENEFACOR ($10,000—$24,999)
- Ms. Karen Banner
- Ms. Ann Bening
- Ms. Ann S. Bowers
LEADERSHIP CAMPAIGN FOR AMERICAN THEATRE
The Leadership Campaign for American Theatre, a challenge program launched in 1991 and spearheaded by NCIT by John D. Ong, Chairman Emeritus of the AT&T Goodrich Company, required local corporations to give $100,000 a year to support American Theatre. The campaign raised $10 million, all of which was raised in Los Angeles. The campaign was led by: American Express, AT&T Foundation, The AT&T Goodrich Foundation, and Occidental, the runners-up in the Leadership Campaign.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICES
A.C.T.'s administrative and conservatory offices are located at 1000 Grant Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94108. (415) 534-3200. On the Web: aact.org.

BOX OFFICE AND TICKET INFORMATION
Geary Theater Box Office
Visit us at 600 Geary Street at Mason, next to the Geary Theater, one block west of Union Square. Box office hours are 12-8 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, and 12-6 p.m. Sunday and Monday. During non-performance weeks, business hours are 12-6 p.m. daily.

Online
Tickets are also available 24 hours a day on our website at www.aact.org. Seating availability is consistent with that available by phone or in person. A.C.T.'s popular Email Club (accessible through the Website) offers members reminders of upcoming shows, special offers and last-minute ticket discounts, and the latest company news.

Tickets may be purchased by phone or fax.
Call (415) 749-2444 and use your Visa, MasterCard, or American Express card, or fax your ticket request with credit card information to (415) 749-2229.

BASS
Tickets are also available from BASS outlets, including The Warehouse and Tower Records Video.

Purchase Policy
All sales are final, and there are no refunds. Only current subscribers enjoy performance rescheduling privileges and last-minute ticket insurance. If you are unable to attend the last minute, you can donate your tickets to A.C.T. The value of donated tickets will be acknowledged by mail. Tickets for past performances cannot be donated.

Mailing List
Call (415) 749-2444 or visit our Website at www.aact.org to request subscription information and advance notice of A.C.T. events.

Ticket Prices
Ticket prices range from $11 to $61.

Subscriptions
Full-season subscribers save up to 20% and receive special benefits including performance rescheduling by phone, and more. Call the A.C.T. Subscription Hotline at (415) 749-2229 or visit A.C.T. online.

Discounts
Half-price tickets are sometimes available on the day of performance at the TIX on Union Square. Half-price student and senior citizens are available at the box office 90 minutes before curtain. Matinee student and senior citizens are available on the day of performance for $10. All rush tickets are subject to availability, one ticket per valid ID. Student and senior citizen subscriptions are also available. A.C.T. also offers our Pay What You Wish performance during the run of each production.

Group Discounts
For groups of 15 or more, call Linda Graham, Group Services, at (415) 546-7853.

Gift Certificates
A.C.T. gift certificates can be purchased in any amount online, by phone or fax, or in person at the box office. Gift certificates are valid for three years and may be redeemed for any performance or A.C.T. merchandise.

SPECIAL PROGAMS
Geary Theater Tours
A.C.T. offers guided tours ($9, $6 for subscribers and seniors, $4 for students) of the Geary Theater on selected Tuesdays and Saturdays. For information, call (415) 749-2444 or visit A.C.T. online.

Student Matinees
Matinees are offered at 1 p.m. to elementary, secondary, and college school groups for selected productions. Tickets are $10. For information call (415) 439-2335.

A.C.T. Extras
For information on A.C.T. Matinees, Audience Exchanges, and Tours on A.C.T. (Audience Exchange Information, please turn to the "A.C.T. Extras" page of this program.

ASL
American Sign Language-interpreted performances are offered throughout the season for Deaf audience members. For performance dates and times, visit www.aact.org/community or subscribe to A.C.T.'s Deaf community email list by sending an email to deafcommunity@aact.org. Deaf patrons may purchase tickets by calling (415) 749-2229 at www.aact.org or via TTY at (415) 749-2350.

Conservatory
A.C.T. offers instruction in a wide range of theater disciplines. The Master of Fine Arts Program offers a rigorous three-year course of acting training, culminating in a Master of Fine Arts degree. The Summer Training Congress is an intensive program for those with some performing arts background. Studio A.C.T. offers evening and weekday classes, including Corporate Education Services, to enthusiasts at every level of experience. The Young Conservatory is a broad-based program for students 8-19. Call (415) 439-2350 for a brochure.

Costume Rental
More than 10,000 costumes, from handmade period garments to modern sportswear, are available for rental. For information call (415) 439-2379.

Packing
A.C.T. patrons can park for just $9 at the Hilton SF for up to five hours, subject to availability.
A.T./F.Y.I.

availability. Enter on Ellis Street between Mason and Taylor. Show your ticket stub for that day’s performance upon exit to receive the special price. After five hours, the regular rate applies.

AT THE THEATER

The Geary Theater is located at 115 Geary Street. The auditorium opens 30 minutes before curtain.

A.C.T. Merchandise

Posters, sweatshirts, t-shirts, nightshirts, mugs, note cards, scripts, and Vieux on Plays are available for purchase in the main lobby and at the Geary Theater Box Office.

Refreshments

Bar service is available one hour before the performance in the lower lobby and on the second balcony level. Reservations for refreshments to be served at intermission may also be made, at either bar or in the main lobby, during that time. Food and drink are not permitted in the auditorium.

Beepers

If you carry a pager, beeper, cellular phone, or watch with alarm, please make sure that it is set to the “off” position while you are in the theater. Or you may leave it and your seat number with the house manager, so you can be notified if you are called.

Perfumes

The chemicals found in perfumes, colognes, and scented after-shave lotions, even in small amounts, can cause severe physical reactions in some individuals. As a courtesy to fellow patrons, please avoid the use of these products when you attend the theater.

Emergency Telephone

Leave your seat location with those who may need to reach you and have them call 415-449-2396 in an emergency.

Latecomers

A.C.T. performances begin on time. Latecomers will be seated before intermission only if there is an appropriate interval.

Listening Systems

Headsets designed to provide clear, amplified sound anywhere in the auditorium are available free of charge in the lobby before performances. Please turn off your hearing aid when using an A.C.T. headset, as it will react to the sound system and make a disruptive noise.

Photographs and recordings of A.C.T. performances are strictly forbidden.

Rest rooms are located in the lower lobby, the balcony lobby, and the uppermost lobby.

Wheelchair seating is available on all levels of the Geary Theater. Please call 415-749-2421 in advance to notify the house staff of any special needs.

AFFILIATIONS

A.C.T. operates under an agreement between the League of Resident Theaters and Actors' Equity Association, the union of professional actors and stage managers in the United States. A.C.T. is a constituent of Theatre Communications Group, the national organization for the nonprofit professional theater. A.C.T. is a member of the League of Resident Theaters, Theatre Bay Area, Union Square Association, San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, and San Francisco Convention & Visitors Bureau. A.C.T. is a participant in the National Theatre Artist Residency Program, administered by Theatre Communications Group, the national organization for the American theater, and funded by the Pew Charitable Trusts.

ssdc A.C.T. logo designed by Landor Associates.

The director is a member of the Society of Stage Directors and Choreographers, Inc., an independent national labor union.

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE ARTS A.C.T. is supported in part by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, California Council for the Humanities and Grants for the Arts of the San Francisco Hotel Tax Fund.

A.C.T. is funded in part by the California Arts Council, a state agency.

Geary Theater Exits

For more information or the store nearest you, call 1-800-331-0613 or visit www.hartmann.com.
E-commerce, E-business, E-tail, E-mail.
The E-Class. Truly, a car for the ages.

With features like a fiber optic network to run your communications and an /-button* to provide guidance or answer questions, the Mercedes E-Class may be the first car that puts you squarely in the e-space. The E-Class

Visit your local Bay Area Mercedes-Benz Center or call 1-800-FOR-MERCEDES.

*Tele Aid requires consumer subscription for monitoring service, connection charge, and air time. Available only in cellular service areas. First year’s monitoring, subscription, monthly access fees, and 30 minutes of air time included at no cost. See retailer for details. For more information, call 1-800-FOR-MERCEDES or visit our Web site, www.MBUSA.com. AIR BAGS ARE A SUPPLEMENTAL RESTRAINT SYSTEM, SO REMEMBER AIR BAG SAFETY: BUCKLE EVERYONE AND CHILDREN IN BACK.