News & Notes

In response to many requests, those arriving after a performance has begun will be asked to wait in the lobby until a suitable break in the action onstage. At that time, ushers will seat latecomers as quickly and quietly as possible.

The "suitable break" is carefully chosen by the director of each A.C.T. production to create the least possible disturbance to the performers as well as the audience. Since the early scenes of a play are the most vulnerable, the break may not come until after the first twenty or twenty-five minutes.

We respectfully ask your cooperation in arriving on time for A.C.T. performances and, should you be delayed, your patience in awaiting the designated time for late seating. On Monday through Thursday evenings, performances start promptly at 8. On Friday and Saturday evenings, the time is 8:30. Wednesday matinees begin at 2, Saturday matinees begin at 2:30.

We appreciate your help.

'A CHRISTMAS CAROL': RENEWED SPIRIT FOR A WORKADAY WORLD

Charles Dickens

"Once upon a time," Charles Dickens wrote a ghost story of Christmas," explains director Laird Williamson, who with writer Dennis Powers adapted Charles Dickens' classic A Christmas Carol for A.C.T.'s production. "His intent was to change the lives of those who read it."

Victorian England was in a state of economic depression. The industrial revolution had begun to malfunction in an atmosphere of indifference amid epidemic social injustice. Children labored under appalling conditions and for the most part the mass of society endured lives of grinding poverty.

Dickens' intent was not so much to change the mind of society at large as it was to awaken the deadened hearts of men who created such conditions and permitted them to continue. At first, he considered a pamphlet intending to reveal the plight of the poor to those who were better off, but he soon realized how much more potent a story would be, especially a Christmas story.

Interrupting work on Martin Chuzzlewit, another of his major novels along with David Copperfield, The Pickwick Papers and Oliver Twist, among others, Dickens turned out the complete Carol during two weeks in 1843. He was clearly animated by his passionate concern for the gloomy condition of contemporary life; and his feverish speed was matched by great inspiration, for the little book is one of the most cohesive and sustained efforts in the Dickensian canon.

Here in a few pages are most of the flaws and fabulous riches of the Dickens sensibility. Possibly sentimental to a fault, it is also sentimental to a triumph. Writing from the heart, he obviously loved the story as much as the vast audience which has kept it continuously in print and has made it a holiday tradition.

And yet, A Christmas Carol is barely a Christmas story at all, in the religious sense, for Dickens makes only scant reference to the original Christmas child. It is, instead, the blend of spiritual exultation and material bounty which makes the piece essentially a fable of the rebirth of the spirit and so appropriate to the holidays.

"In this production and in the adaptation created for it," Williamson says, "we have imagined Ebenezer Scrooge's world to be one of shut-up boxes, cases and cupboards—coffins of his memories, safes into which his feelings have long since retreated. He has constructed elaborate receptacles for his life."

It is this dead world of Scrooge's heart—the dead world of the indifferent in Victorian England—that Dickens hoped to bring back to life. With A Christmas Carol, he not only gave the world a great piece of literature filled with the season's mythology, he also resurrected the celebration of Christmas itself. At a time when holiday festivities were on the decline, Dickens created a model for Yuletide pleasure that lasts to this very day.

Christmas returns once more to the Geary Theatre in A.C.T.'s spirited production made possible by a generous grant from the Standard Oil Company of California. This new San Francisco tradition for the entire family offers now, as it did in 1843, a renewed spirit for this workaday world. Christmas happens through its magic.

IS IT WORTH RISKING YOUR LIFE FOR 45 MILES PER GALLON?

Tiny little subcompact cars may be great for saving gas. But as accident statistics show, they're not particularly safe.

A Volvo, on the other hand, gets a very respectable 29 m.p.g. highway—19 m.p.g. city.* But ultimately, we put a much higher premium on life than we do on gasoline.

The roomy passenger compartment of a Volvo is surrounded by six steel pillars, each one strong enough to support the weight of the entire car.

Crumple zones, front and rear are designed to absorb the impact of a collision, rather than passing it on to the passengers.

As a matter of fact, the federal government is so impressed with Volvo's crash worthiness they've become one of our biggest customers. They bought more than 60 Volvos, many of which have been crashed into each other at closing speeds of up to 90 m.p.h. in an effort to establish safety standards for cars of the future.

So before you buy your next car, weigh carefully what you have to gain and lose.

A big substantial Volvo can not only save gas.

It could end up conserving something much more precious.

MAYBE A BMW IS WORTH MORE USED BECAUSE IT'S WORTH MORE NEW.

Recently a man on the West Coast paid $5,772 for a 1975 2002 that cost $7,275 when it was new.

In the South, a man paid $6,000 for a 1974 2002 that cost $6,600 new.

In the East, a man paid $10,300 for a 1973 3.0CS that originally cost $12,000.

Exceptional examples? Surprisingly, no. While it is by no means a certainty that you will make money on your BMW 320i when you sell it, it is a certainty that the average BMW retains a considerably above-average percentage of its original price. For a five-year-old BMW, 75%-80% is not at all unusual.

EXTRAORDINARY PERFORMANCE IS THE ONLY THING THAT MAKES AN EXPENSIVE CAR WORTH THE MONEY.

Obviously, the value of a used car depends on the intrinsic value of the car itself.

The BMW 320i is a practical sedan designed by racing engineers. Perfected, unlike most expensive cars, not in the relative vacuum of the test track or laboratory but at places like Le Mans, Monte Carlo and the Nürburgring—where precision is crucial and agility and durability are more than just matters of theoretical speculation.

When you press the accelerator of the 320i, the two-liter, K-Jetronic, fuel-injected engine—the same basic engine that powers a majority of the world's Formula Two race cars—responds without lag.

Its suspension, independent on all four wheels—with McPherson struts and coil springs in front, semi-trailing arms and coil springs in the rear—is quick and clean through the corners.

Its rack and pinion steering is sharp and accurate.

"All told," say the editors of Car & Driver magazine "the 320i stands as eloquent rebuttal to all those who'd have us believe that small economical cars must be dull—and that automotive performance for the late 1970's is best achieved with decals..."

SERVICE AS EFFICIENT AND RELIABLE AS THE CAR ITSELF.

An automobile as thoroughly engineered and meticulously constructed as the BMW 320i deserves competent, reliable servicing.

While it would be inaccurate to claim perfection, it is, nevertheless, a fact that no more complete or innovative a technical training program exists in the automotive business than the one BMW mechanics are required to attend on a regular, yearly basis.

And this human wisdom combined with the inhuman perfection of costly computerized equipment assures rapid routine servicing, accurate engine tuning and diagnosis of any impending problem.

If you'd care to judge the BMW 320i for yourself, simply phone your BMW dealer and he'll arrange a thorough test drive for you at your convenience.

'AH, WILDERNESS!': EUGENE O'NEILL'S LIGHTER SIDE

Kathryn Crosby and Thomas M. Nahrwold

When Eugene O'Neill's sentimental comedy Ah, Wilderness! opened on Broadway in October, 1933, audiences and critics alike were startled by the playwright's apparent change of heart. The man who had emerged as America's foremost dramatist of guilt, failure, and neurotic suffering, seemed to have done an about-face in presenting the American public with a wholesome portrait of American family life at the turn of the century—patriotic, life-affirming, completely devoid of tragic coloration.

It was not the only "first" about the production, which starred George M. Cohan in the role of Nat Miller, the head of O'Neill's semi-autobiographical New England family.

The play marked the first time that Cohan—a legendary figure of the American theatre, with numerous credits as a writer, director, producer, a composer of such songs as Yankee Doodle Dandy and Give My Regards to Broadway—had agreed to appear in a show written by anyone other than himself.

Cohan scored a personal triumph, and critics and audiences alike adored Ah, Wilderness! The show played 289 performances, the longest run an O'Neill script enjoyed during the playwright's lifetime.

Later the same season, Ah, Wilderness! was produced on the West

Will Rogers played Nat Miller in San Francisco and Los Angeles

Coast with the beloved humorist Will Rogers in the Cohan role. The show received rave reviews both in San Francisco, where it opened, and in Los Angeles.

In 1935, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer filmed Ah, Wilderness! with Lionel Barrymore as Nat Miller and Wallace Berry, Spring Byington, Bonita Granville and Mickey Rooney in featured roles. Twelve years later, director Rouben Mamoulian remade the film as a semi-musical under the title Summer Holiday.

The Theatre Guild revived the play in 1941, with movie actor Harry Carey in the lead. Reviewers were even more impressed by the O'Neill comedy in its second presentation, demonstrating its durable popularity for future generations of audiences.

Ah, Wilderness! has consistently ranked as the most frequently produced of O'Neill's plays in the United States for the last four decades.

Its most recent Broadway revival occurred in 1975, when it opened the 25th anniversary season of the Circle-in-the-Square, a theatre largely responsible for the O'Neill renaissance during the 1950s. Since this anniversary coincided with the United States bicentennial celebration, the production was billed as a "valentine to America."

A Gentleman's Challenge from European Motors

Some of our showroom Mercedes-Benz are previously owned; can you tell which are new and which are used?

After considerable searching and some very careful trading, we now have in stock some 50 previously-owned Mercedes-Benz.

Unlike most dealers who keep their used cars on an outdoor lot, well apart from their new cars, we keep our late Mercedes-Benz indoors. Right alongside the new models.

Hence, the challenge. Drop by our showroom and look critically at all of the cars. Can you really tell which is the Mercedes-Benz fresh from Stuttgart and which is fresh from our exacting service department?

Can you actually determine the difference between the factory's high-gloss paint and the mirror-like finish we obtain when we repaint a car?

Examine the seat leather. Which was installed in Germany? Which was flown direct to us from Germany for a restoration project?

The point is—we do everything humanly possible to offer you the finest previously-owned Mercedes-Benz. So much so, in fact, that our excellent selection of SLs and SLCs comes remarkably close to achieving the perfection of the new models.

We hope you'll see for yourself soon.

The A.C.T. logo also dominates colorful enamel stick pins, key chains, address-dialers and bottle openers. For the serious reader there are paperback editions of the plays in the repertory as well as a selection of striking posters for the art lover—including Russel Redmond's dramatic illustration of The Winter's Tale shown above.

Located in the lobby of the Geary Theatre and open one hour prior to curtain and during the first intermission of all performances, the TransACTION is staffed by Friends of A.C.T. volunteers, with all proceeds from the gift shop benefitting the A.C.T. scholarship fund.

Enjoy the play—and take care of all your holiday shopping in one stop—at A.C.T.!

If you can taste the difference in water, you can appreciate the difference in Finlandia.

Well Water

Distilled Water

Vodka is a combination of neutral spirits and water. The water is added to bring the vodka to its final proof.

Since neutral spirits are pretty much equally neutral, it's the water that makes for subtle, yet appreciable, differences. And the water that goes into Finlandia Vodka is very different from the water in most other vodkas.

Others use distilled or microscopically filtered water. Which is much less lively than natural water.

Finlandia's water is 100% natural. It comes from a deep well that lies under a 10,000 year old glacial moraine formation in Rajamäki, Finland.

This delicious, natural water gives Finlandia a lively freshness all its own.

That's why people who know their vodka are loathe to mix Finlandia with tomato juice, orange juice and such. They enjoy Finlandia to its fullest: in an exceptionally dry martini, on the rocks, or icy-cold straight from the freezer. The way fine vodka is meant to be served.

If you've never experienced vodka this way, try imported Finlandia.

You'll appreciate the difference.

'A MONTH IN THE COUNTRY': TURGENEV'S REAL-LIFE MENAGE À TROIS

Like so many of the great Russian playwrights, Ivan Turgenev forged his literary reputation in realistic fiction rather than on the stage. The naturalism we associate with masterworks of the Russian theatre owes much to their authors' novelistic concerns with subtleties of human character instead of the predictable machinations of plot.

Best known for his novel Fathers and Sons, Turgenev's reputation as a dramatist rests primarily on one play, A Month in the Country, a lyrical comedy written in 1849. A Chekhovian meditation on affairs of the human heart, it was composed six years before Chekhov was born, and prefigures much of Chekhov's work.

A Month in the Country draws much of its emotional impetus from a triangular love affair that dominated Turgenev's real life for over forty years—one of the most remarkable menage a trois arrangements in literary history.

The object of Turgenev's attraction was the French opera singer Mme. Pauline Viardot. In 1840, she had married Louis Viardot, an art historian and writer twenty years her elder. Three years later she met Turgenev. Infatuation followed, and, although she was committed to another, Turgenev followed her travels from country to country. The three became inseparable.

In A Month in the Country Turgenev describes the disruption of a country estate by a similar circumstance. A young tutor is engaged by the head of the household. Both his wife Natalya and her 17-year-old ward Vera fall in love with the young man. To complicate matters, Natalya is also loved by Rakitin. Natalya's husband assumes incorrectly that Rakitin is the object of his wife's current obsession, and Natalya incorrectly assumes that Vera is a serious rival for the tutor's affections.

Within this emotionally-charged framework, Turgenev deftly examines the subtle psychological maneuvering—often humorous—of his characters. He avoids any hint of melodrama; almost the entire "action" takes place in the minds of his protagonists—a theatrical revolution in its time.

In spite of its gentle, even harmless portrayal of an impossible love tangle, A Month in the Country ran into trouble with the Russian censors. It was not published for several years, and then only with the character of Natalya as a widow rather than a wife. The play was not produced until 1872, nearly a quarter century after its composition.

A NOTE ON 'THE WINTER'S TALE'

One of the least-produced works in the Shakespearean canon, The Winter's Tale is perhaps the great undiscovered masterpiece—a sweeping allegory of life, death, and rebirth told with all the charm and simplicity of a classic fairy tale.

The story relates the misfortune of King Leontes, monarch of a mythical Sicily, who is seized by an overpowering jealousy when his wife Hermione persuades their friend Polixenes, King of Bohemia, to extend his visit in their land. Nothing can dissuade Leontes from his obsessive conviction that his wife has been unfaithful.

Hermione is imprisoned, and their infant Perdita is exposed to the elements. When the Oracle is consulted and proclaims Hermione innocent, Leontes still insists on his wife's guilt. But in defying the gods he has gone too far—immediately his son falls dead and word also reaches him of Hermione's death.

Rather than continue his story as a tragedy, Shakespeare instead switches the scene to sunny Bohemia, where time heals old wounds and Perdita is raised in a simpler world of country rogues, sheep-shearing festivals, and natural beauty. When Leontes' time of repentance is done, Shakespeare returns to Sicily for a miraculous reconciliation of the divided family and kingdom.

The Winter's Tale is actually a highly crafted play, despite complaints of some detractors. The three "worlds" of the play are closely linked to Leontes' stages of sin, repentance, and redemption (though the play's trappings are pre-Christian, the story is pervaded by a distinctly modern religious tone). The influence of classical mythology, however, is distinctly evident, particularly the myth of Proserpine and Demeter in which prosperity, decline, and renewal are symbolized by the eternal cycle of the seasons, and the legend of Pygmalion and Galatea, which Shakespeare adapts delightfully for his denouement.

Like a fairy story of old, The Winter's Tale depends on an audience's willing suspension of disbelief. The "logic" of the play exists on a preconscious, metaphysical plane rather than the level of everyday awareness. As such, its rewards are best experienced by the audience that will call forth childhood's forgotten sense of wonder, and let itself be simply entertained by the world's master storyteller.

Next at A.C.T.'s Marines'
 Memorial Theatre:
 'WHY NOT TONITE?'
 With Miss Hermione
 Baddeley

Hermione Baddeley, madcap extraordinaire, will fulfill a lifelong dream to give Americans a firsthand taste of that delicious British theatrical institution—the intimate revue with music—by bringing Why Not Tonite? to the West Coast for a special four-week engagement opening at the Marines' Memorial Theatre December 13.

Best known in this country for her award-winning portrayal of Mrs. Naugatuck on TV's Maude, Miss Baddeley will recreate the catchy songs, sketches and sendups from four decades worth of West End London revues tailored to her versatile talents by the likes of Noel Coward, Herbert Farjeon, Nina Warner-Hooke, Jack Quigley, and Alan Melville.

Long recognized as a reigning monarch of the British musical stage, Miss Baddeley is most familiar here as the feisty housekeeper, Mrs. Naugatuck, which won her a Golden Globe Award. The actress, who received a fan letter from George Bernard Shaw when she was only 12—"Change your name from Baddeley to Goddely," wrote the celebrated playwright and critic—is, in her native England, a superstar, having captured the public's fancy with her enthusiasm and considerable energy as a child actress in the 1920s.

Her popularity in revues, elegant comedies and popular theatricals kept her so busy in more than 60 shows on the British stage that she didn't come to America until 1961, when she was asked to star on Broadway in A Taste of Honey.

After being captivated by her performance, in A Taste of Honey, Tennessee Williams insisted that she create the role of Flora Goforth in The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Anymore, calling her one of the four greatest actresses he had ever seen. The others? Laurette Taylor, Anna Magnani and Geraldine Page.

Walt Disney was the movie mogul who finally convinced Baddeley to give Hollywood a try (she had previously turned down entreaties from Louis B. Mayer). He cast her in Mary Poppins, which soon led to an Oscar nomination as Best Supporting Actress in Room at the Top and the popular films The Unsinkable Molly Brown, The Happiest Millionaire, Marriage on the Rocks and Do Not Disturb.

Miss Baddeley's British films include the classic comedies The Belles of St. Trinians and Passport to Pimlico, as well as a collection of W. Somerset Maugham's stories called Quartet.

Among her many London hits are The Likes of Her (which turned the 17-year old Hermione into the toast of the town), A La Carte, At the Lyric (with Dora Bryan and Ian Carmichael), Brighton Rock, Grand National Night, and The Killing of Sister George.

In the '50's, she appeared frequently on British TV in Joe Orten's The Good and the Faithful, The Age of Kings, and Confederacy of Wives, among others. Her American TV career has been just as diverse with Bewitched, Batman, The Good Life, and in the post Maude years, Little House on the Prairie, (in a part written especially for her by Michael Landon), Charlie's Angels, Love Boat, and Flying High.

In what is essentially a tour de force—although Miss Baddeley is given solid support from leading man Christian Grey and songstress Lette Reynolds—the star gets a workout from director Harry Naughton as she moves swiftly from charwoman to acrobat's wife to U.S.O. trooper and, finally, to a contemporary rock 'n' roller whose specialty is "Hydrophobia Plop."

Such evocative ballads as "A Foggy Day in London Town," "White Cliffs of Dover," and "Every English Lady" are mixed with the tongue-in-cheek "Wherefore Art Thou Romany" to give a varied and delightful taste of Miss Baddeley's vocal, as well as comedic, gifts.

Prior to the A.C.T. engagement here, the Celebrity Presentations Ltd. production, in association with the Robert Fitzpatric Corporation, will be seen in brief Palm Springs and Los Angeles runs. Plans are being made for Why Not Tonight? to play London and New York following the San Francisco engagement.

A NOTE ON 'THE CIRCLE'

Since his death at 91 in 1965, W. Somerset Maugham, who has been called "the English de Maupassant," has enjoyed as much popularity as during his long and creative life. His many well-known plays are continuously produced here and abroad and countless biographies seem to appear periodically.

The Circle, one of the prolific author's most famous stage works, rejoins this season's repertory this month after providing one of last year's most popular hits under the direction of Stephen Porter.

Maugham was one of the most successful writers who ever lived even though he had trained to be a doctor before he began his regular output of novels and plays. He wrote, however, for some 10 years before recognition and fame rewarded his toil.

He never stopped writing, in fact, and became the wealthiest writer in the world. At one time, he had four successful plays running concurrently in London, a record held by but two other playwrights, Avery Hopwood and Neil Simon (in New York). Punch published a cartoon depicting Shakespeare biting his nails before a poster advertising one of Maugham's plays.

Among his most famous novels are Of Human Bondage and Cakes and Ale. His plays were thought superficial by some critics who dismissed him as a serious writer but his somewhat light social comedies were immensely popular with the public. The casts included such famous stage personalities as Ethel Barrymore, Ina Claire and John Gielgud, who played the lead in the 1944 revival of The Circle at London's Haymarket where it had been originally produced.

Maugham tosses out pleasant, frolicsome banter—laced with social satire of trivial, wealthy, upper-class life—while cynically commenting on people who make sacrifices for love, only to find that love doesn't last. "For an English audience," he wrote in his notebook, "the extremity of love is always somewhat ridiculous. To love more than moderately is to find oneself in a farcical situation."

WHO'S WHO AT A.C.T.

WILLIAM BALL (General Director)

founded the American Conservatory Theatre in 1965. Beginning in the theatre as a designer, he soon turned to acting and appeared with regional companies and Shakespearean festivals across the country. Ball made his New York directorial debut with Chekhov's little-known Ivanov in an off-Broadway production that won the Obie and Vernon Rice Drama Desk Awards for 1958. The next few years found him directing at Houston's Alley Theatre, San Francisco's Actor's Workshop, Washington D.C.'s Arena Stage, San Diego's American Shakespeare Theatre, as well as staging several operas for the New York City Opera. His 1959 off-Broadway production of Under Milkwood won the Lola D'Annunzio and Outer Circle Critics' Awards. In 1962, his production of Six Characters in Search of an Author proved another multiple award-winner and enjoyed an extended run in New York. When Lorenzo Petroni and Chef Bruno Orsi started the North Beach Restaurant on Stockton Street, they vowed to serve the finest Cucina Toscana possible.

They still do.

Each morning they make their own pasta; they buy only the finest meats, vegetables, fish and cheese. They hang and cure their own prosciutto hams; cut and prepare the fresh veal in their kitchen and they taste and serve the finest of California and imported wines.

And now they have applied these same principles to a new restaurant located just around the corner on Grant Ave.

As the name implies, Basta Pasta specializes in fresh pasta and light entrees served in an atmosphere of casual elegance and old San Francisco charm, presided over by one of the most famous chefs in San Francisco.

SHAW ON SHAW AND 'HEARTBREAK HOUSE'

Little introduction is needed to Bernard Shaw the dramatist. With such works as Man and Superman, The Devil's Disciple, St. Joan, Caesar and Cleopatra (previous A.C.T. productions), Heartbreak House (entering the repertory January 16), Candida and Pygmalion, Shaw established himself as one of the giants of 20th century theatre.

Indeed, to see a play by him is not only to see an entirely entertaining and laughter-filled evening of theatre, it is to become acquainted (or reacquainted) with one of the great intellects of this century.

Shaw wrote more than 50 plays in his lifetime (1856-1950) and just about every one of them is a dramatic cry for the need to reform society, in one way or another, before it is too late. Heartbreak House is no exception, for in it, he deplores man's callousness and cowardice and glorifies the human will. It is a superlative example of Shaw's timeless and disarming ability to combine serious ideas with sparkling dialogue.

"I am not an ordinary playwright in general practice," Shaw once stated, "I am a specialist in immoral and heretical plays. My reputation has been gained by my persistent struggle to force the public to reconsider its morals. . . I write plays with the deliberate object of converting the nation to my opinions."

Shaw's didactic aim was always to the fore. Heartbreak House will make you laugh while it offers ample opportunity for emotional empathy and thoughtful reflection.

Bernard Shaw at eighty-seven

Shaw once wrote in his own defense, "Now it is quite true that my plays are all talk, just as Raphael's pictures are all paint, Michael Angelo's statues all marble, Beethoven's symphonies all noise. . . Without a stock of ideas, the mind cannot operate and plays cannot exist. The quality of a play is the quality of its ideas."

"Effectiveness of assertion is the alpha and omega of style," he once said, "He who has nothing to assert has no style and can have none." Although Shaw was referring specifically to style, the consequence of his conviction in a larger, dramatic context are readily apparent. "Effectiveness of assertion" becomes of paramount importance in Heartbreak House where there is need of assertion par excellence.

Heartbreak House is certainly man's testing ground—and all the characters, unfortunately, are found wanting.

Into the aging sea captain Shotover's house, there gathers an odd assortment of good and foolish people, from titled ladies to "modern" women and burglars, all bent on finding salvation through love, greed or power. The Armageddon is starting outside, but inside they fiddle away their lives as the world burns. They witness the violent end of civilization without batting an eyelash.

"Heartbreak House," Shaw began his preface, "is not merely the name of the play. It is cultured, leisured Europe before the war. . ." The rest of the preface is a description of the rapid disintegration of the Western World.

The mad (or madly sane) Shotover, something of a self-portrayal, echoes Shaw's prophetic warnings about the need for intellect and daring if the world is to survive: "Learn [navigation] and live; or leave it and be damned."

We may ask, at the play's end, are the inmates of Heartbreak House any nearer than before to an awareness that life must be lived with risks, that danger must be faced and responsibility taken? Shaw's point seems to be that disillusionment with the past is a necessary step toward finding truth and building a new world.

One can almost hear Shaw himself echo Captain Shotover's lines, "I was ten times happier on the bridge. . . I looked for hardship, danger, horror, and death, that I might feel the life in me more intensely. I did not let the fear of death govern my life; and my reward was, I had my life." Shaw certainly had his. He lived a full 94 years and we are all the richer for it.

A.C.T.'S EVENING EXTENSION PROGRAM

Starting in February, A.C.T.'s Geary Street studios will be just as busy with nightly activity as they are daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. A special program for students and members of the community who want to broaden their skills in one or more subjects, the annual 10-week Evening Extension Program has a Jan. 15 application deadline.

Classes are offered on a selective basis—each meeting for two hours a week—in much the same way colleges and universities operate their adult education sessions. No audition is required but individual class size is limited so applications are processed on a first-come, first-served basis. All classes are conducted by A.C.T. actors and trainers.

A complete listing of courses will be available in December. Past curriculums have included movement, musical theatre, beginning, intermediate and advanced acting, voice, yoga, dance, Shakespeare, mime, singing, children's theatre for teachers and youth leaders, theatre organization and management, and theatre publicity and public relations.

There is no age limit for applicants to the Evening Extension Program; students have ranged in age from 17 to 60. People of all professions and occupations have attended for a number of reasons, and not all those who enroll intend to make the theatre a career. Students have included educators, retirees, disc jockeys, a beauty consultant, landscaper, civil engineer and a TV anchorperson in addition to actors learning to sing and singers learning to act.

Additional information may be obtained by writing to: Evening Extension Program, A.C.T., 450 Geary St., San Francisco 94102.

A.C.T.'S YOUNG CONSERVATORY
FILLS MANY NEEDS

Students prepare for Young Conservatory touring productions which are presented throughout the Bay Area.

Needed: 14 children for A Christmas Carol, 15 for The Visit, four for Hotel Paradiso, and one each for The Winter's Tale, A Month in the Country, Ah, Wilderness! and The 5th of July, ages approximately 8 to 18.

When such a casting call comes from the directors of productions for the American Conservatory Theatre, they now have a place to turn to: A.C.T.'s Young Conservatory, the only comprehensive training school for young actors and actresses affiliated with a professional theatre company in the country.

At the Young Conservatory, the young actor can be "a part of it," explains its director Candace Barrett. "They get a whole sense of the profession by just being around it."

The curriculum offers four options: two five-week summer programs (ages 8-18); a first, second and third level year-long program (ages 10-18), performing opportunities in the Young Conservatory's own theatre company and at A.C.T.'s Geary Theatre.

The first year program exposes the new acting students to a full cross-section of skills the professional actor needs to know: acting, mime, movement, improvisation, directing, theatre history and technical theatre. Outstanding students are then selected to continue their studies in speech, dance, singing, fencing, improvisation and scene studies in the second- and third-year programs. They may also audition for the Young Conservatory's Touring Company and Mime Troupe, made up of the most advanced students, which presents nine productions yearly throughout the Bay Area.

All classes are taught by professionals in the teaching field, and many actors, directors, and designers in the American Conservatory Theatre plan special projects for the Young Conservatory.

The emphasis is on "creative drama," in fact the title of one of the classes where the primary focus is on freeing the young actor's imagination through such skills as story-telling, mime, improvisation, voice and dance.

"All our work is based on creative problem solving. In the theatre there is no right and wrong; there is only creative discovery," Barrett emphasizes. "We spend a lot of time supporting whatever the creative spirit is."

The program is geared to cover both the curious beginner and the seasoned youngster already wanting to do career work. "By the time they reach the third year, most of the kids are already interested in careers," Barrett estimates. "By the time they leave, they've gotten a solid background in theatre. If they leave the program, however, and go onto something else, they've still been given something very valuable: a strong exposure to the performing arts and a feeling for their own creative worth. That means they don't always have to repeat what others have done before and can better trust their intuition. We're building a more intelligent, supportive audience as well."

The summer program has a dual purpose: to offer the broadest introductory classes possible and to provide the more intensive training to students wanting to put their attentions in one direction. Musical comedy seems to be particularly popular, as is video production. As Barrett comments, "They all think visually, now that there's so much television and film in their heads. All we need to do is show them how to use the equipment."

Needed: 14 young actors and actresses for A Christmas Carol, 15 for The Visit... A.C.T. just calls the Young Conservatory and their dedicated staff. Problem solved.

The Miracle of Perrier®

Today, Man artificially carbonates his drinks and mixers. But not Perrier.

The miracle of Perrier is natural carbonation.

HOW PERRIER IS NATURALLY CARBONATED.

Deep below the plains and vineyards of Southern France, delicate gasses trapped in the volcanic eruptions of the Cretaceous Era are released by Nature.

Slowly they rise towards icy, crystalline mineral waters of exceptional purity and clarity.

As they surface at Source Perrier, these gasses and waters meet and mingle in a moment of natural carbonation. And thus they are bottled, pure, naturally sparkling.

HOW NATURE PROTECTS THE PURITY OF PERRIER.

For centuries, since they were discovered by Man, the waters of Perrier have remained clear, clean and uncluttered.

First, a hard non-porous clay barrier prevents surface waters from seeping down to contaminate the pure, sparkling waters of Perrier.

Second, a deep layer of sand and gravel acts as a natural filtration system.

Finally, and for the spring's protection, the French Government has made it law that no wells of any type may be dug within 5 kilometers of Source Perrier.

FIRST BOTTLED IN 1863 BY DECREE OF NAPOLEON III "FOR THE GOOD OF FRANCE."

Man's legendary acquaintance with the sparkling waters of Source Perrier dates back to 218 B.C., when the spring is believed to have been a resting place for Hannibal.

Through the centuries, the spring became known as Les Bouillens, or "The Bubbling Waters." And in 1863, Napoleon III decreed that these naturally sparkling waters, then owned by Dr. Perrier, be bottled "for the good of France."

Today, Perrier is enjoyed in over 100 countries throughout the world.

PERRIER IS ENJOYED FOR MANY HEALTHFUL REASONS.

Perrier is 100% Perrier.

Bottled naturally sparkling at only one place on earth: Source Perrier.

It contains no chemical additives. No preservatives. No artificially manufactured gasses, no sweeteners or flavorings. And no calories.

Many people, after engaging in strenuous athletic activity, find a chilled bottle of Perrier to be instantly refreshing and thirst-quenching.

It is the refreshing alternative to sugared and artificially sweetened soft drinks. And, the accepted drink when you're "not drinking."

WHY PERRIER TASTES SO CLEAN AND REFRESHING.

A unique combination of minerals and natural carbonation gives Perrier a taste quite unlike most other mineral waters. Not strong, brackish or medicinal. But crisp, clean and purely refreshing.

PERRIER MINERAL CONTENT PARTS PER MILLION
Ca	≈ 140	Na	≈ 14
Mg	≈ 4	K	≈ 1
		SO ₄	≈ 55
		Cl	≈ 30
		HCO ₃	≈ 345

Approximate values (≈); minimal variations may occur in natural products.

THE NATURAL VERSATILITY OF PERRIER.

Perrier. Pure refreshment, served chilled with a slice of fresh lemon or a wedge of lime.

So versatile, Perrier adds extra zip to your favorite fruit juices, "the sparkle of champagne" to fine wine and is the mixer par excellence.

Enjoy it in good health.
