Use Wi-Fi whenever you can
It’s tempting to use your phone’s LTE data whenever you need to use the Internet. But connecting to a local Wi-Fi network can help you save on your cell phone bill. This is especially true if you’re paying a lot for your plan or you have a high-speed connection at home. When you connect to Wi-Fi, you’re not using data on your plan, so you save money by avoiding data charges. If you have a hard time remembering to turn on Wi-Fi, consider setting up automatic Wi-Fi connection for your phone so you don’t have to think about it every time you connect to a Wi-Fi network.

Resist the urge to upgrade your phone every two years
Most people have new phones every year, but you can probably get by with a phone that’s a year or two older. You can save a lot of money by keeping a phone that’s a year or two old, so consider holding off on upgrades to save money. If you need a new phone, consider getting one from a different carrier or using a phone with a lower price.

Choose a plan that fits your budget — no strings attached
If you’re looking for a plan that offers a lot of data at an affordable price, Tello Mobile is a great option. They offer plans that include unlimited talk and text, and you can choose the amount of data you need, which makes it easy to find a plan that fits your budget.
