

FOR THE LOVE OF MUSIC

COMPREHENSIVE CAMPAIGN

Dear Fellow Community Members,

When it comes to finances, I don't take risks. That's why I'm confident that my gift to Orchestra Iowa's ambitious campaign, FOR THE LOVE OF MUSIC, will lead to success. Let me explain.

The Orchestra hired professional consultants to conduct a comprehensive analysis of its operations. Spearheading the effort was the local firm, Amperage Marketing and Fundraising, and the distinguished orchestra authority Henry Fogel, Emeritus President of the Chicago Symphony.

Their research identified both strengths and weaknesses and provided action plans to advance the organization. Particular attention was paid to stakeholders' commitment to support the Orchestra for a major fundraising campaign. Overwhelmingly, participants approved of the initiative.

Our community is entrusted with the future of Orchestra Iowa, one of the cultural treasures of the Midwest. Standing together, we can say YES to the next century. I urge you to support FOR THE LOVE OF MUSIC. It's risk free.

Richard Minette
President
Orchestra Iowa Foundation Board

Dear Fellow Patrons of the Arts,

I am incredibly proud of Orchestra Iowa and its achievements! In 2023, we celebrated our 100th season with a sold-out Gala that exceeded fundraising expectations. And now we've hired the exceptionally talented Julia Sakharova as our new concertmaster and the experienced, passionate Eric Marshall to be our new CEO. The Orchestra's future is bright!

As we embark on this exciting journey, we need your support. Please consider joining me in contributing to this comprehensive campaign to secure Orchestra Iowa's future. Together, we can ensure that this treasured institution continues to thrive for another 100 years.

FOR THE LOVE OF MUSIC CASE STATEMENT

Securing the Future of Orchestra Iowa

"Don't you think we ought to have a symphony?" - Joseph Kitchin, 1923

The simple question that started it all over 100 years ago.

In its first century, Orchestra Iowa has grown to one of the Midwest's premier orchestras. For over 100 years, the Orchestra has enriched the community through performance, education, and engagement. As we enter our second century, we invite you to help secure its future.

Our talented musicians, selected through highly competitive auditions, are led by Maestro Tim Hankewich, who inspires excellence in every performance. Behind the scenes, our dedicated staff ensures unforgettable concert experiences for all.

Beyond the concert hall, we proudly offer five unique youth education programs, serving over 14,000 students annually. These programs fill vital educational gaps and make a lasting impact.

We are deeply committed to making these opportunities possible and accessible. The cost of bringing it all to life is high - nearly three times what we earn in ticket sales. This is why we donor generosity is so vital!

Our For the Love of Music campaign will help ensure the present and the future of Orchestra Iowa.

Orchestra Iowa is grateful also to its many individual donors and supporters, like you! Contributing approximately 25% of the annual financial need, individual philanthropic support is vital to Orchestra Iowa's existence.

OUR FIRST CENTURY

Orchestra Iowa has been a part of the fabric of our communities for over a century, creating meaningful and enduring experiences through the power of symphonic music.

AND BEYOND

Much has changed since 1923 when the Cedar Rapids Symphony debuted on April 13. What started as a community orchestra of volunteer musicians has grown into a top tier professional symphony. Orchestra Iowa provides an enriching resource to our diverse communities by contributing to Iowa's cultural vibrancy.

- 1923 The Cedar Rapids Symphony (CRSO) performs its inaugural concert on April 13th, under the baton of Joseph Kitchin.
- 1928 CRSO performs a season of eight concerts at Veteran's Memorial Coliseum. Tickets were just 75¢ or $5 for a season subscription.
- 1939-1945 CRSO continued to play throughout WWII, making it one of the oldest, continuously operating symphonies west of the Mississippi River.
- 1952 Henry Denecke is appointed Music Director. Musicians and the Maestro are now paid for their services.
- 1970 Richard Williams becomes Music Director, ushering in a period of rapid expansion: doubling audience size, establishing a string quartet, and commissioning new music.
- 1976 CRSO holds its first concert at the newly restored Paramount Theatre. The concert features renowned pianist, Van Cliburn.
- 1981 Following a nationwide search, Christian Tiemeyer is appointed Music Director. The CRSO grows to become one of the largest orchestras in the state, performing eight pairs of concerts along with establishing a new two-concert youth series.
- 1990 CRSO establishes an endowment fund, helping to assure the continued growth and financial stability of the organization.
- 2004 CRSO and the Symphony School move into its new operational home at 119 Third Ave, where the organization remains today.
- 2006 Tiemeyer retires and a nationwide search identifies Timothy Hankewich as Music Director. New partnerships are established with IPR, IPTV, expanding the regional exposure of and participation with the organization.
- 2008 In June, a devastating 500-year flood destroys the CRSO's school, administrative offices and performance home, the Paramount Theatre.
- 2008 Maestro Hankewich greets audiences on the front lawn of Brucemore to open the performance season in September. Also unveiled is the organization's new name, Orchestra Iowa, embracing expanding significance of the organization.
- 2012 In November, following an extensive multimillion-dollar restoration, Orchestra Iowa reopens the Paramount Theatre to a sold-out performance featuring Harry Connick, Jr., his band, and the Orchestra Iowa musicians.
- 2018 Acclaimed pianist, Emanuel Ax, gifts Orchestra Iowa a week-long residency, concluding with a gala and sold-out performance with the Orchestra.
- 2020 The COVID pandemic shuttered performing venues, including Orchestra Iowa. Maestro Tim and a series of guests take to social media with a weekly Happy Hour, connecting with and entertaining patrons and music lovers around the world.
- 2020 In August, an inland hurricane (known as a derecho) sweeps through the Cedar Rapids and surrounding communities. The Orchestra's School, library, and Opus Concert Café sustain substantial damage. The community responded through the "Save Our Scores" fundraising campaign to support replacing of important musical scores.
- 2023 Orchestra Iowa marks 100 years! Celebrations include a formal gala, a new historical video documentary, and a permanent community musical installation, The SoundWave.
- 2024 Orchestra Iowa kicks off its second century, welcoming a new concertmaster, Julia Sakharova, in February, and a new CEO, Eric Marshall, in July.
