Cookies

We use data collection techniques like "cookies" or related technologies on various pages of the Platform to track the effectiveness of promotions, examine how our web pages are navigated, and promote trust and safety. To assist us in providing our services, cookies are tiny files saved on your device's hard disc or other storage. Cookies don't include any personal data about you. We offer several facilities that require access to "cookies" or other similar technology. Additionally, we use cookies to reduce the times you need to enter your password when logged in.

To deliver content that is customized to your interests, we also employ cookies or other similar technology. Most cookies are "session cookies," which means that they are automatically deleted from your device's hard drive or storage after a session. You are always free to reject or delete our cookies or other similar technologies if your browser or device permits you to do so. However, doing so may prohibit you from accessing some Platform services and have you enter your password more frequently when signed in. On some Platform sites, third-party "cookies" or other related technologies may also be utilized. The way that third parties use cookies is beyond our control.
