

I just want everybody to know how sorry I am this thing had to happen; any of it. I am sorry I caused the death of another human being. There is nothing I can do to change it. Contrary to what some people believe I spent many years going over it in my head. It's never left me.