Lord give me strength to get through another weekend. Jeff & I were suppose to go see "Lord of the Rings - 3", but I can't go now. Not not that I know he is just waiting for me to fall in love with him, but I never will. Being around him now is going to make me very uncomfortable. I was already some nervous around him, but he doesn't want to be my loyal brother and protector. He wants to be my man and provider. I WON'T go on a date with him.

I feel like I have been betrayed somehow. He didn't get anything I said any better than Kevin or Donald. I feel so very alone, more alone than ever before. Why does it seem to just keep getting worse - the feelings - that is?
