

Multiple Choice Questions

Chapter 3: Software for Simulation

1. Which of the following is not a benefit of simulation software with visual and interactive features?
  - a. More accurate results
  - b. Greater understanding of the model
  - c. Improved communication of the model and its findings
  - d. Using the simulation in group problem solving
2. A modeller wishes to develop a reasonably, but not overly, complex model. Which type of software is he/she most likely to use?
  - a. A spreadsheet
  - b. Specialist simulation software
  - c. A programming language
  - d. None of the above
3. Which of the following statements is true?
  - a. Simulation packages can only model a limited set of applications
  - b. Simulation packages are rarely used and programming languages are preferred
  - c. Simulation packages can model most applications within a particular domain
  - d. Simulation packages can model every application