

Long Contents

Features	x
About the Authors	xiii
Preface	xvi
Author Acknowledgements	xix
Publisher Acknowledgements	xxi
Guide to Learning Features	xxii
Guide to Online Learning and Teaching Resources	xxiv
1 Introduction to the social psychology of everyday life	1
Introduction	2
Conceptualizing social psychology	3
Conceptualizing everyday life	7
Socialization, the human self and everyday life	11
Social psychological and everyday knowledge	15
Overview of the book	18
2 Histories of social psychology	23
Introduction	24
Long pasts and short histories of social psychology	26
Growing prominence of experimentalism	30
Early collectivist work focused on social life and change	35
How historical events shaped the development of social psychology in the US	39
Re-pluralizing social psychology from crisis to liberation and indigenization	46
Chapter discussion	52

3	Indigenous psychologies	53
	Introduction	54
	Indigenous peoples and the consequences of colonization	54
	Key concepts: Cosmologies, acculturation and enculturation	61
	Indigenous voices in psychology	63
	Indigenous psychologies and the global discipline	66
	Decolonizing global psychology	69
	Interconnected selves	73
	Chapter discussion	79
4	Pro-social practices and critical humanism	81
	Introduction	82
	Pro-social behaviour: Altruism	82
	Pro-social behaviour: Volunteering	89
	Humanistic psychology	91
	Positive psychology	96
	Critical humanism	100
	Resilience in the face of adversity	103
	Chapter discussion	107
5	Making sense of everyday knowledge	109
	Introduction	110
	What is knowledge?	111
	Knowledge as social cognition: How does Manuel think?	114
	Stereotyping Manuel: Racism, prejudice and discrimination	118
	Attitudes and attributions of blame towards Manuel	121
	Social representations theory: Manuel does not think alone	125
	Narrative and discursive approaches to investigating collective knowledge	129
	Researching collective knowledge and social practices in everyday life	131
	Chapter discussion	133
6	Social psychology and place	137
	Introduction	138
	Increasing engagements with place in psychology	139
	Place-based identities, affiliation and sense of place	143

social psychology and everyday life

Constructing a sense of home	146
Place-based exclusions across physical and representational spaces	150
Place-based initiatives to promote affiliations and wellness	154
Chapter discussion	159
7 Immigration, acculturation and settlement	161
Introduction	162
Types of movement	163
Culture shock and models of adjustment	165
Displacement, acculturation and [re]settlement	170
Social identity theory and acculturation	174
Culture, contact zones and hybridization	178
Chapter discussion	182
8 Work and livelihoods	185
Introduction	186
The development of the social psychology of work	186
Precarious jobs and the need for decent work conditions	192
Work, unemployment and health	194
The United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)	199
Work justice and equality	205
Chapter discussion	208
9 Health and illness	211
Introduction	212
Health and illness	212
Health psychology and the biopsychosocial model	216
Health-related knowledge and individual behaviour change	219
Individual behaviour change and importance of a structural focus	223
Social determinants of health	225
Promoting health by focusing on people and contexts	228
Chapter discussion	233

10	Social justice	235
	Introduction	236
	What is social justice?	237
	Who deserves social justice?	239
	Social justice from the perspective of social cognition	241
	A turn towards procedural justice	247
	Social justice in action	251
	Chapter discussion	255
11	Media and daily practice	257
	Introduction	258
	The ubiquitous and interdependent nature of media	258
	Psychologists in the media: Monitoring and shaping content	262
	Media effects: What media do to people	265
	Cultivation theory	271
	Media uses: What people do with media	275
	Interactions between online and offline domains	279
	Chapter discussion	283
12	Towards social psychologies of everyday life	287
	Introduction	287
	Putting the pieces of the puzzle together	289
	Painting a rich, pluralistic picture	298
	References	301
	Author index	349
	Subject index	359

Features

Key Concepts

1.1	Disruption and change across minority [dominant] and majority [non-dominant] worlds	9
1.2	Subject–object relations	14
1.3	Habitus: Socially ingrained habits	15
2.1	The psychology of urban crowds	29
2.2	Individualism	35
3.1	Fourth-world	56
3.2	Ancestor worship	62
3.3	Culture and psychology	67
3.4	Minority group influence	70
3.5	Individuals and groups	75
3.6	The dialogical self	77
4.1	The selfish hypothesis	86
4.2	Structuration theory	89
4.3	Dignity	92
4.4	Self-actualization and Maslow’s hierarchy of needs	95
4.5	Humanistic and positive psychologies	99
4.6	Inverse care law	100
5.1	Epistemology	112
5.2	Social constructionism	113
5.3	Encoding information	116
5.4	Prejudice and discrimination	118
6.1	Activity settings	141
6.2	Place associations and sense of place	145
6.3	Social capital	155

8.1	Working poverty	193
8.2	Social stratification	197
8.3	Prevention levels in the workplace	198
8.4	Sustainable livelihoods	203
8.5	Universal Basic Income (UBI)	204
9.1	Indigenous model of health: Te Whare Tapa Wha	215
9.2	Health inequalities	216
9.3	Social support	218
10.1	The veil of ignorance	247
10.2	Criteria for procedural justice	249
11.1	Media convergence and cross-fertilization	262
11.2	Two-step flow model of communication	270

Key Theorists

1.1	Gordon Allport	4
1.2	Marie Jahoda	10
2.1	Wilhelm Wundt	30
2.2	Frederic Charles Bartlett	31
2.3	Francis Cecil Sumner	38
2.4	Kenneth Clark	45
2.5	Ignacio Martín-Baró	49
7.1	Henri Tajfel	175

Research Examples

1.1	Victor: The case of a feral child	11
2.1	Hull House: A key site for social action	36
2.2	Milgram's obedience experiments	41
2.3	Studying group pressure and conformity in the 1950s	42
2.4	Project Camelot	43
2.5	Liberating and indigenizing social psychology in the Philippines	51
3.1	An indigenous Hawaiian scholar's account of colonization	59
3.2	Culture-free, culture-fair and culture-specific tests	72

social psychology and everyday life

4.1	What motivates altruistic behaviour?	85
4.2	Resilience in children	104
4.3	Competent communities	106
5.1	Bartlett and the influence of one's own culture	117
5.2	Promoting racial inequality through the house-buying process	120
5.3	The transmission of racial attitudes within the family	122
5.4	Social representations of mental illness	126
5.5	Direct observation of the heavy metal community	132
6.1	Consequences of a sense of home for mental health	147
6.2	Neighbourhood renewal and place-making	156
6.3	Art-iculating place meanings	157
7.1	Experiences of transition	165
7.2	[Re]settlement experience	169
7.3	Categorizing people moving	171
7.4	Immigration, social identities and home-making	177
7.5	Cricket matches as contact zones	179
8.1	McDonaldization	191
8.2	Using psychometric testing on unemployed people	196
8.3	A living wage in action	201
8.4	The Global Living Organisational Wage (GLOW) project	202
9.1	Examples of simple health promotion interventions	229
9.2	Health promotion by the University of South Africa (UNISA)	230
9.3	A community-based intervention in Cambodia	232
10.1	Thibaut on distributive fairness	246
10.2	Perceptions of the fairness of the system	250
10.3	The Apartheid Archive Project	252
11.1	Historical periods in the development of media technologies	261
11.2	Australian Indigenous Health/ InfoNet	263
11.3	Bobo doll studies	268
11.4	Cultural indicators project	272
11.5	Human agency and media use	276