

Tableau 1

This tableau is used to quickly capture a scene that involves an exchange of utterances. Here we have Aziz, Rita and Anne making still images with their bodies to explain differing points of view. As you read through, please note the informal exchange of viewpoints culminating in the construction of a plan for action.

© Adapted from Jabri, M. (2016) Managing Organizational Change: Process, Social Construction and Dialogue, Palgrave Macmillan.

Aziz: This time, we don't know how this multi-skilling will work out.

Rita: But didn't we try this a couple of years ago?

Aziz: Yes, but they never provided training ... besides, we have always been short on trainers.

Rita: I think they are doing nothing but reinventing the wheel.

Aziz: Well, maybe, but then again, maybe not.

Aziz: The onus is on us to find out more about the issue and see whether we could come up with some useful plan.

Anne: Perhaps we should ask for other departments to chip in, or maybe for an increased budget for next year?

Note how relational exchange is being built as Anne comes up with her own suggestion.

Rita: I think we should also ask for a meeting with the director to show him the need for some training to be planned for as multi-skilling is rolled out.

Note how the conversation culminates in Anne's suggestion for a meeting.