Extract from a Home Office government report on the effectiveness of Morrison shelters

In a raid in York, Mr and Mrs McGregor owe their lives to the Morrison shelter when their house collapsed on them in a direct hit. They were not badly hurt apart from some minor injuries.

The government says in 39 cases the Morrison shelter has stood up to heavy bombing raids and in 24 of these cases the house was completely destroyed.

Out of 119 people, only 4 in Morrison shelters were killed. Most were able to walk out of their shelters without help after a raid.
