

Please note that there is no audio in this video other than background music. All text displays on the screen alongside decorative images illustrating Bauhaus design.

[Bloomsbury Digital Resources logo displays]

Bauhaus: An Annotated Bibliography

Scholar Spotlight: Clive Edwards

[The Bloomsbury Visual Arts homepage is shown. The user types the text “Bauhaus Bibliography” into the search box then clicks on the first search result: Bauhaus: An Annotated Bibliography.]

Bauhaus

The Bauhaus was a design school established in Germany from 1919 to 1933.

Founded by the architect Walter Gropius, Bauhaus was based on the idea of architecture as the link between arts and crafts.

Bauhaus' Publications

The Bauhaus publications demonstrated many of the ideas and concepts of the school.

These were in relation to artistic creation and contemporary theories of art in the form of completed monographs.

(Authors: Bayer, Gropius and Hoffman)

Staff Publications

Publications by staff members are accessible texts that explore the teaching and productions of the Bauhaus.

(Authors: Neumann, Whitford and Albers)

Workshops

Workshops were key to Bauhaus and usually received attention in varying degrees in all survey books.

Specific works on particular workshops and practices have also been published.

(Authors: Wortmann, Smith and Gropius)

Gender and Pedagogy

In a movement that tried to establish itself as an institution that promoted gender equality, many publications were written by women writers.

(Authors: Baumhoff, Müller, Wick & Graw)

Bauhaus in America and Elsewhere

Following the closure of the Bauhaus in 1933, many staff moved abroad.

The Bauhaus and its role and influence in America have spawned a number of useful texts.

(Authors: Wingler, Barron, Hahn and Schulze)

Exhibitions

Exhibition catalogues were often a method of publication used to explore Bauhaus essays and other written works.

Further Reading: FREE Bibliographic Guide: "Bauhaus: An Annotated Bibliography" Clive Edwards

[The Bloomsbury Visual Arts homepage is shown. The user clicks the Content Types dropdown menu and then selects the 'Teaching & Learning Resources' menu option.]

[The Teaching & Learning Resources page is shown, the user clicks the Bibliographic Guides link and on the resulting page clicks on 'Bauhaus: An Annotated Bibliography'.]

[Bloomsbury Digital Resources logo displays]

A link to the "Bauhaus: An Annotated Bibliography" bibliographic guide appears after this video.