Christian-Muslim Relations

CHRISTIAN-MUSLIM RELATIONS provides scholars, students and researchers with the most comprehensive resource in the field. At its heart is the new, digitally exclusive, three-volume major reference work, Christian-Muslim Relations: Primary Sources 600-1914, which brings together over 400 extracts from major writings by Christians and Muslims—many appearing in English for the first time through specially prepared translations. Complementing these primary sources is a rich library of scholarly eBooks covering key topics such as violence and conciliation, scripture, pilgrimage, social dynamics, and ethics, offering indispensable insights into the relationship between Christianity and Islam from the Medieval to Modern period.
