Your opinion matters to us

Those who know us will be aware that your feedback and needs are very important and valuable to us. Many Bullard employees and partners are active firefighters themselves and are in regular exchange with the firefighting community. As a result Bullard products score above average in customer surveys. In this newsletter issue we summarise the advantages of the H3000 fire helmet.

Perfect fit and ### easy cleaning

Many of you have praised the fact that the H3000 is comfortable to wear during long operations and even while wearing a SCBA mask. The H3000's angled, vertically and horizontally adjustable headband allows you to fine-tune the fit of the H3000 for best comfort. This way you can turn the H3000 into your own personal helmet that adapts perfectly to the shape of your head.

You also complimented on the ease of cleaning. The H3000 can be disassembled in the blink of an eye so that thorough cleaning of the inner shell is easy, too. In addition the Care Kit comes with an affordable second set of pads and neck protectors.

What else is important to you? You obviously think that your helmet should not only be tough, but also be good-looking – a third of you said that the design of the H3000 is just as important as its robustness.

The H3000 has a modular design, so most components can be easily replaced. Good conditions, then, for your H3000 to remain your companion for a very long time. As long as no mechanical, chemical or other damage is detected during regular testing, it is not subject to any prescribed replacement periods.

All this makes your H3000 not just easy to maintain, but also very economical. What should happen if your fire department needs additional helmets? Thanks to final assembly in Germany, you rarely have to wait longer than 5 working days for your new H3000.

Are you in the process of organising helmet tenders or purchases? Would you like to convince yourself of the wearing comfort the H3000 and other Bullard helmets offer? Simply use this online form and enter planned purchase details in the "comments or questions" field. Your
