Care at home when it is needed most

Right now, social distancing and staying at home are critical to protecting seniors

For seniors that need help at home, Comfort Keepers® can provide essential in-home care services to help keep seniors safe, healthy, and active so they are able to stay in their own homes.

For decades, we've helped seniors live independently at home with one-on-one care and companionship that elevates quality of life by infusing hope and purpose into simple everyday moments.

We believe that delivering daily doses of joy, no matter how small, is more important than ever in helping seniors thrive.

What is "aging in place"?

The term aging in place refers to seniors that choose to remain in their home as they get older instead of moving to an independent or assisted living community. According to the AARP, a majority of seniors would prefer to remain in their homes for as long as possible. And aging in place has a number of benefits.

- Seniors who remain in their own homes as they age enjoy the consistency of belonging to communities where they may have lived for many years surrounded by friends and families.
- Being surrounded by beloved objects and memory cues can foster a sense of connection and peace, and for seniors with Alzheimer's disease or other forms of dementia, a familiar environment can reduce confusion and improve mental engagement.
- Remaining in the home also avoids the stress of relocation and acclimating to new environments.
- Aging in place can be more cost-effective than facility care.

Our professional caregivers are highly skilled, trained in infection control, and ready to provide your loved one with a clean home environment, fresh-cooked meals, personal assistance, and to handle errands and shopping.

We practice Interactive Caregiving™ to keep them connected and engaged while they stay at home, so they don't experience social isolation.

Comfort Keepers® develops custom care plans that include physical safety and wellbeing, emotional health, and socialization. Our goal is to help our clients have the best quality of life while maintaining their independence at home.
