Strings and Such Things— A Note from Inspector Pulse

Did you know that there are 230 strings inside a grand piano? I never realized there were any strings at all inside a piano until one day I opened the lid to look in there for a cheese sandwich I had misplaced. It wasn't there. But wow, there were a lot of strings in there! I counted them, and it took me so long that I was even hungrier than when I opened the lid. I found the sandwich later in my banjo case.

Of course, those piano strings are not like the strings you use to tie up a package.

Nor are they like string beans or shoestrings. They are like the strings on a violin, viola, cello, bass, guitar, banjo, mandolin, or saxophone. Wait! Forget saxophone, because I don't think there are any strings on a saxophone. No. Definitely no strings there.

But these piano "strings" are really wires, and so a piano is not a wireless device like a cell phone. Piano wires are made from tempered high-carbon steel. You can use them to cut cheese, but it is more interesting to listen to a Beethoven sonata. On second thought, you can't eat a Beethoven sonata. However, a Beethoven sonata is better for you than sliced cheese.

I am interested in all sorts of strings, and so I am going to study some other string instruments, like the violin, viola, and cello. The violin, viola, and cello have only four strings each, and my piano has 230 strings, so I should be able to play a four-stringed instrument very easily. Well, I recently started taking violin and cello lessons, and I soon discovered that I would need to practice a lot to play the violin or cello! But practicing is the most fun thing in the world, after slicing cheese with piano wire.

I will practice! But first, my cheese sandwich calls. Or maybe I will have some string cheese.

About the Artists

LUZ HORN

Bruce Adolphe

When he was a child Bruce Adolphe watched both Victor Borge and Leonard Bernstein on TV, and after seeing them, he began “playing piano” on the breakfast table and cracking jokes with a Danish accent. Having no choice, his parents bought him a toy piano, at which Bruce pretended to be Schroeder of the Peanuts cartoons. Soon after the toy piano was pecked apart by the family parakeet, Bruce’s parents purchased a real piano and a larger bird. By age ten, Bruce was composing music, and no one has been able to stop him since. As a “tween,” Bruce studied piano, clarinet, guitar, bass, and—as a teen—the bassoon. All this time, he wrote music and improvised accompaniments to everything that happened around him, as if life were a movie in need of a score. His favorite summers were spent at the Kinhaven Music School and he loved his Saturdays at the Juilliard School’s Pre-College Division. Today, Bruce spends his time composing chamber music, playing the piano, and performing in concerts for people like you. He lives right around the corner on the Upper West Side with his wife, pianist Marija, his daughter Katja, and his opera-and-jazz-singing parrot PollyRhythm, the same bird he has had since he was 10 years old. Bruce performs weekly on public radio’s Performance Today, playing his Piano Puzzlers (familiar tunes in the styles of the great masters) and you can catch that show on WQXR or on iTunes, or as a podcast from American Public Media. Many great musicians have performed Bruce’s music, including Yo-Yo Ma, Itzhak Perlman, Joshua Bell, the Brentano Quartet, and over 60 symphony orchestras around the world, and of course lots of amazing players right here at the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center, where Bruce has been making music since 1992. Bruce writes books, too! You can find his book on his website (bruceadolphe.net). Bruce has loved playing piano since he was 6 years old, and today he is a Steinway Artist, which means the piano is either a Steinway or no way will he play it!

KEVIN CONNOR

Viano Quartet

The Viano Quartet is a group of four musicians who play two violins, a viola, and a cello. Together they form a string quartet, which is a small musical team where each instrument has its own voice.

Although the four musicians grew up in different places—Aiden in Maryland, Hao in South California, Lucy and Tate in Vancouver, Canada—music brought them together. The quartet was formed in Los Angeles in 2015, and the four of them quickly discovered how much they loved making music together. In 2019, they won First Prize at the Banff International String Quartet Competition, one of the world’s biggest competitions for string quartets. Today, they are Bowers Program Artists with the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center, where they get to share music with the New York community. They have also traveled around the world performing concerts in many different cities, from London to San Francisco to Hong Kong, sharing their music with audiences of all ages.

The name “Viano” comes from the instruments in a string quartet. Violin and viola both begin with the letter “v” and the cello’s full name is “violoncello,” which also begins with “v.”

When the four instruments play together, their sounds blend into one big musical voice, almost like a piano made out of strings. The quartet liked this idea so much, they combined the letter “v” with the word “piano” to create the name “Viano.”

When they're not playing music together, you might find Aiden hiking, Tate playing golf, Hao getting faster at solving his Rubik's Cube, and Lucy searching for a new boba shop to try!

The Chamber Music Society wishes to express its deepest gratitude for The Daniel and Joanna S. Rose Studio, which was made possible by a generous gift from the donors for whom the studio is named.

CMS extends a special thanks to the lawyers associated with Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom for their great generosity and expertise in acting as pro bono Counsels.

This season is supported by public funds from the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs, in partnership with the City Council, and the New York State Council on the Arts, with the support of the Office of the Governor and the New York State Legislature.
