The intersection of substance use and mental health has been a growing concern for many years. It impacts all of us in some way or another. Join us to hear how Lake County leaders are working to effect positive change today and for the future. Topics include:

- The impact of opioids and heroin and the programs we have developed to help Lake County residents combat this epidemic.
- How polices can help shape success, and how Lake County's innovative programs have worked and are working.
- What we are planning to help and improve our services for the community.
