Opioid and Heroin Addiction: A Call To Action

Programming will contain panels that will include federal, state and county officials who are at the frontlines of developing policy to address the opioid and heroin crisis we are facing. The panelists will be working on the issue from a local, statewide and national perspective. In addition, we will give you an overview of the latest programs that are offered here in the region to combat the crisis. You will also learn about what's going on in the region with up to date numbers on opioids and heroin. There will be three breakout sessions on individual drugs that contribute to the crisis, Tobacco, Alcohol and Prescription Drugs. We will also have a speaker to addresses the link between these substances and mental health. Lastly, we will tell you how you can help us through the many coalitions fighting this effort locally.
