A copy of the Group's policy on Anti-Slavery and Human Trafficking can be found on our website.

Due Diligence Processes for Combatting Slavery

We recognise that we cannot unilaterally solve the problem of Modern Slavery. However, to aid our efforts, we have processes in place to assess risk, undertake due diligence and effect remediation. Our due diligence processes are supported by our whistle-blower protection policy which encourages 'speaking out' against illegal and unsafe practices.

We are part of a group that is continuously evolving and improving. As part of this journey, practices and procedures will be adapted over time as their effectiveness is periodically reviewed. Our current due diligence practices consist of getting to know our suppliers through our supplier on boarding procedures, identifying suppliers where there is a known heightened risk of Modern Slavery and considering appropriate measures to mitigate the risk and take remedial action as deemed appropriate (including termination of suppliers).

Further Steps to Prevent Modern Slavery

We are committed to continuous improvement to address the challenging and complex issue that is Modern Slavery.

Following our review of the effectiveness of the steps we have taken during FY23-24 to combat Modern Slavery in our business or supply chains, we intend to:

- establish a central repository of resources and guidelines for our employees to enhance their knowledge on the topic of modern slavery and adopt best practices;
- launch an internal awareness campaign by to further educate employees on this critical issue; and
- continue to build upon our existing policies and procedures to strengthen and reinforce our commitment to addressing these risks within our business.
