Osstell Beacon

L'Osstell Beacon de W&H est un appareil portable et sans fil utilisé pour évaluer la stabilité des implants dentaires et l'ostéointégration. Il utilise l'Analyse de Fréquence de Résonance (RFA) pour fournir un Implant Stability Quotient (ISQ), une valeur numérique comprise entre 1 et 100 qui indique la stabilité de l'implant. Cette technologie aide les dentistes à déterminer le moment optimal pour la mise en charge de l'implant.
