Breakfast BREAKFAST BUDDHA BOWL

A super pretty breakfast that tastes as good as it looks. It is bursting with antioxidants and has lots of health benefits, including the fact that it is amazing for helping to promote radiant skin. Naturally, Buddha bowls are sensory and eaten for lunch, but they are a fun way to kick-start a healthy day and having them sweet works just as well. Get creative and try other fruits, and perhaps a little nut butter. The main ingredient here is quinoa. This supergrain is a healthy plant protein with a similar texture to couscous and a deliciously nutty flavour, plus it is simple to prepare. It contains all 9 essential amino acids, making this the perfect protein-power bowl to keep you energised until lunch.

INGREDIENTS
1 cup (150g) quinoa
1 tsp honey
several raspberries
1 kiwi fruit, peeled and sliced
several slices of mango
several almonds, with skins on sprinkling of chia seeds

METHOD
1 First, thoroughly rinse the quinoa, then put it into a saucepan and cover with water. Bring to the boil, then reduce the heat, and allow to simmer for 15 minutes, until soft, or the water is fully absorbed. Fluff it up with a fork and mix in the honey.
2 Put the sweetened quinoa into a breakfast bowl.
3 Now you can get decorative with your toppings! Place the fruit on top with the almonds and finish with the chia seeds.

DKfindout!

What do you want to find out?

An award-winning series covering everything from coding and the solar system to engineering and the Stone Age. DKfindout! books are the ultimate knowledge top-up for schools curriculum subjects.

Fish food
The ocean food chain shows us who eats what in the underwater world. The highest consumers are predators - they make plans and animal food. Large fish and mammals are consumers - they hunt prey to eat.

- Phytoplankton: The smallest organisms in the ocean. They make their own food using sunlight and carbon dioxide.
- Zooplankton: Small animals that eat phytoplankton.
- Small fish: Eat zooplankton.
- Salmonidae: Eat small fish.
- Seals: Eat salmonidae.
- Sharks: Eat seals.
- Rhinos: Eat plants.
- Humans: Eat plants and animals.

Coral reefs
From shallow tropical waters to deep, dark, cold waters, there are more than 20,000 coral reefs in the world. These huge, rocky structures grow gradually from the skeletons of tiny sea creatures. Animals and plants find shelter and safety here, competing with one another for space and sunlight.
