

Sunflowers in a wood vase

flower

Sunflower →

Rustic and quirky, this design is reminiscent of a beach boardwalk bathed in sunshine. Simply customize a jar by covering it in sticks of kindling wood and add sunflowers.

how to arrange

you will need

7 sunflowers

materials

Florist's scissors
Green tack
1 bag of kindling wood
1 clean recycled glass jar, just shorter than the lengths of kindling
Garden string, coloured string, or natural or coloured raffia

1 Fix 2 horizontal strips of green tack at equal distances around the jar. Stick the lengths of kindling onto the green tack in straight vertical lines, butting them up against each other.

2 Wind string around the wood and tie in a knot. Half-fill the jar with water. Add the sunflowers, trimming their stems so they sit just above the rim of wood. Top up with more water.

insider tips

- Remove all the leaves and cut and split the stems before arranging the sunflowers in the vase.
- The kindling used here is store-bought and so of a standard length. If you use other kindling, trim it with secateurs or a small hand saw if it is too long.
