ALDERLEY EDGE

Alderley Edge is a highly affluent village and commuter settlement in Cheshire East, located approximately half a mile south of Wilmslow, 5 miles northwest of Macclesfield and 20 miles south of Manchester City Centre.

Consistently ranked as one of the most expensive and sought-after places to live in the United Kingdom outside of central London, Alderley Edge benefits from a captive, high-spending resident population and a vibrant retail and leisure economy.

The town benefits from excellent transport connectivity, located just under a mile from the A34 which provides connections to Congleton in the south to Manchester in the north. In terms of public transport, Alderley Edge Station is located in the town centre on the Northern Line between Crewe and Manchester, serving nearby residential areas.
