Product Features

Identify what's on your wired or wireless network

Security starts with understanding what's on the network. What devices are being used, how many, and which operating systems are supported. ClearPass has a built-in profiling engine that collects real-time data including device categories, vendors, and OS versions.

Enforce smart policies

Organizations must adapt to evolving devices and their use - whether the device is a smartphone, a printer, or a surveillance camera. Once you know what's on your network, it's time to enforce policies that provide proper user and device access, regardless of user, device type or location.
