

Ottilia Anna Maunganidze

Ottilia Anna Maunganidze is the Head of Special Projects in the Office of the Executive Director of the Institute for Security Studies (ISS). She is an international law and human rights advocate working towards promoting human security on the African continent by advancing peace and justice. Ottilia Anna explores new areas of work for the ISS and helps to inform institutional strategy. Ottilia Anna's areas of interest are emerging security threats, international criminal justice, international human rights law, and migration trends and policy. She comments in the media, speaks at global events, and serves as an expert resource for various organisations. She has previously worked as a researcher, analyst, legal advisor and human rights education coordinator.

Among other advisory roles, she serves as a member of the World Economic Forum (WEF) Global Future Council on the Future of Good Governance and of the International Law Association (ILA) Committee on Alternative Dispute Resolution in International Law. She served on the Munich Security Conference High-Level Food Security Task Force (2024-2026) and was a member of the Positive Complementarity Committee of the ILA (term 2011-2022).

She has a Master of Laws (LLM) degree in fundamental rights litigation and international human rights law; a Post-Graduate Certificate in International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights; a Post-Graduate Diploma in International Studies; and a Bachelor of Laws (LLB).