

Carl Bildt has served as both prime minister (1991–94) and foreign minister (2006–14) of Sweden.

Subsequently, he served in international functions with the EU and UN, primarily related to the conflicts in the Balkans. He was co-chairman of the Dayton peace talks on Bosnia and became the first high representative in the country. Later, he was the special envoy of UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan to the region.

Currently he is co-chair of the European Council on Foreign Relations, a contributing columnist to the Washington Post, as well as a monthly columnist for Project Syndicate. He recently chaired the Global Commission on Internet Governance.

He serves as one of the senior advisors to the Wallenberg Investments in Sweden and is on the board of trustees of the RAND Corporation in the United States.
