

Philip H. Gordon

Dr. Philip H. Gordon is the Sydney Stein, Jr. Scholar at the Brookings Institution. He has served in numerous senior positions in the U.S. government, including as Assistant to the President and National Security Adviser to the Vice President (2022-25); Special Assistant to the President and White House Coordinator for the Middle East, North Africa, and the Gulf Region at the National Security Council (2013-15); Assistant Secretary of State for European and Eurasian Affairs (2009-13) and Director for Europe at the National Security Council (1998-99). Dr. Gordon has also been a Senior Fellow in U.S. Foreign Policy at the Council on Foreign Relations.

Gordon is the author of numerous books on international relations and foreign policy including Losing the Long Game: The False Promise of Regime Change in the Middle East, named as a “book of the century” by Foreign Affairs and “book of the year” by the Financial Times and CNN. He has published numerous articles in journals including Foreign Affairs, Foreign Policy, and International Security, as well as newspapers and magazines including The New York Times, The Washington Post, Financial Times, The Atlantic, and Politico.