Kithara™

Designed by
Brad Ascalon

“I’ve always been drawn to music because of its ability to create an emotional connection and evoke a certain atmosphere. It’s a similar approach I take in design – using form, materials, and composition to create an experience that resonates with people.”

The word “Kithara” is a term from Ancient Greek culture that refers to a type of lyre, a stringed musical instrument. The term holds cultural significance, representing music, creativity, and artistry.

Brad Ascalon’s design vision, coupled with his profound musical connection converge to create the latest lounge collection from David Edward. Kithara is an iconic series infused with opulent essence. Through a collaborative endeavor between Ascalon’s studio and Kimball International’s development team, the collection materialized as an embodiment of creativity, artistry, and an intimate understanding of how design elements evoke emotions and resonate with individuals. The result is a collection that transcends the ordinary, seamlessly intertwining the subtlety of form and function to create an exceptional experience for all who engage with it.
