Thomas More University, a private Catholic institution in Crestview Hills, Kentucky, embarked on a mission to revitalize its campus with a new academic facility, creating a space that honors its 100-year legacy while embracing the future. The new center features state-of-the-art classrooms, study spaces, meeting rooms, faculty offices, specialized labs, a coffee shop, and a 400-seat auditorium that serves as the university's primary event space. From casual lounge seating and flexible huddle zones to formal meeting spaces and tiered classroom settings crafted through the ByDesign program, Kimball International's solutions have transformed the facility with multifunctional spaces that support blended learning and prioritize well-being.
