NEXT TOY WORKSHOP

July 7, 2007 Saturday
8:30 AM – Early Afternoon
Toy Cars and Jewelry Boxes
 Paul and Nola Brockway
 805-371-1295
 e-mail-paulnola@roadrunner.com.

On Saturday, July 7, CVWA will be hosting a toy workshop at Paul Brockway's home, which is located just 3 short blocks from Redwood Middle School.

Morning refreshments and lunch will be served. There will be of drilling, band-sawing, belt sanding and routing going on. As woodworkers we know that making sawdust, while bad for the lungs, is certainly good for the soul. Therefore, bring a pair of safety glasses and a dust mask. There will be some spares available if needed.

During the workshop our second annual wood identification contest takes place. Attendees will get a chance to get up close and personal with toys made out of 40 different types of home grown and exotic woods. Can you identify the three woods in the picture?

Hints: The first wood hates lions, the second one can really hold it's whisky, and the third one was once a prince.

More details about the workshop can be obtained at Thursday's meeting or by contacting Paul and Nola.

MARSHALL'S HEART BOX & MAGIC WAND TOY WORKSHOP

During Saturday's June workshop a total of 105 heart boxes and 105 magic wands were built. The heart boxes are natural redwood and without a finish. They will be sent to a group of tole painters to be decorated with flowers and other designs. Felix Masci's wife Barbara coordinates this effort through a group of co-workers.

June Router Talk

Arlen Handberg, Tim Albers and Brady Andresen and shared their router expertise with members at the June meeting. All stressed the safety aspects of using routers and how to design router tables to accommodate storage of bits, wrenches and related tools. Also presented was an explanation and demonstration of how router lift mechanisms are mounted to tables.

Router Table Workshop

A hands-on workshop was held Saturday, June 7th at Brady Andresen's shop. Attendees made customized router tables and mounted their routers—all on the same day! Tim, Brady and Arlen were all very helpful and gracious as teachers, host, and encouragers. Thank you very much for your continued support of club members.

June Challenge: The June challenge brought out the creativity in our members. As you can see in the photos below, the challenge was met by numerous members who brought their wooden drinking vessels to the meeting. Dan Gallo won the challenge's super-sized lathe and three Huskey wrenches were won by Jerry Wolf. Congratulations to Dan and Jerry and all the members who shared their projects.

June Show and Tell

Visit to Sam Maloof's Museum, Workshop and Wood Storage: About 20 members car pooled to Loma Alta on Flag Day, June 14th for a docent led tour of Sam Maloof's little piece of woodworking heaven. Visitors were treated to a tour of his former home, now a museum. It contained numerous examples of his tables, chairs and, of course, his famous rocker. His workshop was open and he was working. Members had the opportunity to meet with him and ask questions. In addition, all scanned his vast collection of wonderful wood—over 500,000 board feet! Following are a few pictures from the eventful day.

L&A Woodworks has been dedicated to supplying the needlepoint community with wooden products for 19 years.

My wife is the salesperson and goes to seminars, merchandise nights and other craft gatherings. I stay home and make sawdust and noise. In addition, many shops buy our products at wholesale.

L and A Woodworks is for sale and includes wood, product blanks, tools, files on shops and customers and the good will built up over the 19 years. Also, I will provide complete instructions on how to make and market all of the products.
