YEAR IN REVIEW

Blue Mountain Community Foundation's last fiscal year was defined in many respects by the pandemic. The pandemic had, and continues to have, immeasurable impacts on our community, some of which will be felt for generations. We are proud that the Foundation was in place and ready to do its part when the pandemic and its effects took hold.

In particular, the Foundation quickly set up the Walla Walla Valley COVID-19 Response Fund and invited a phenomenal group of nonprofit leaders to form an Advisory Committee for the Fund. This excellent group of people met every Monday morning for over a year to thoughtfully distribute grants and support to nonprofits helping many facets of our community that were suffering.

The Foundation was able to spin the wheel of giving to the tune of raising and distributing over $8 million to help nonprofits and our community cope with the pandemic. In fact, last year the Foundation distributed nearly twice as much money as any prior year in its existence. This shows the deep importance of having a strong community foundation that is ready to step in when needed. It was a true honor for all of our staff and Board to be able to step up and help during this crisis.

The Foundation exists to be a catalyst that transforms the Blue Mountain region by growing generosity and connecting people, charitable causes, and community needs. It takes terrific staff to move this mission forward. Last year, we were sad to say goodbye Kari Isaacson, our long-time ED; we wish her well on her retirement. She continues to be a force for good in our community. Thank you, Kari, for all that you did for the Foundation and our community!

And many thanks to everyone who supports the Foundation or supports our community through the Foundation. You all are the village that makes this place so special!

COVID-19 RESPONSE

December 2020

By year end, donors have contributed $4.3 MILLION to support nonprofit work throughout the pandemic.

“When I attended college my freshman year and had a few scholarships from the Hermiston Community, I felt and received a large amount of support that raised my confidence. A scholarship is not only a financial benefit but a community or organization giving support and letting a student know that they are supported. The support is humbling, to say the least.”
