

To Whomsoever It May Concern,

I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Akshara Jain who completed a three-week internship with us at HS Desiigns, an interior design and architecture firm specializing in both commercial and residential spaces. During this time, Akshara proved to be an exceptionally diligent and enthusiastic learner, with a clear passion for design and a remarkable eagerness to contribute meaningfully, despite the short duration of the program.

At HS Desiigns, our work is defined by a balance of conceptual creativity and functional innovation. Within this context, Akshara was able to quickly absorb the fundamentals of professional design practices and show strong initiative across several areas:

Design & Technical Skills

- AutoCAD Proficiency: Within days, she became proficient with AutoCAD, actively contributing to room layout planning, furniture placement, spatial measurements, and the development of themed design drafts.
- Concept Development: She showed a strong understanding of design ideation, helping create detailed mood boards tailored to client briefs. Her mood boards included both stylistic and functional references and demonstrated aesthetic sensitivity and client-centric thinking.

Soft Skills & Work Ethic

- Curiosity: During multiple site visits at different phases of project execution, she attentively observed how raw spaces are transformed into finished environments. Her questions were insightful and showed an intent to link theoretical design with on-site realities.
- Communication & Teamwork: Though new to the field, Akshara was never hesitant to communicate, clarify, and take feedback positively. She interacted well with our team and demonstrated maturity beyond her age.
- Time Management & Professionalism: She was punctual, focused, and always came prepared. Even under tight timelines and when learning new tools, she remained composed and met expectations efficiently.

What stood out most was Akshara's ability to integrate both technical learning and creative thinking, even in a short span. This combination is rare at such an early stage and makes me confident in her future as a design professional. Her ambition is matched by a remarkable work ethic—she consistently pushes herself to grow, demonstrates an eagerness to take initiative, and handles challenges with determination. Her commitment, humility, and desire to learn will make her an excellent fit for a rigorous and dynamic undergraduate program.

I strongly recommend Akshara for admission to your esteemed institution. I am confident that her presence will not only benefit from but also meaningfully enrich your academic community.

Please feel free to reach out if you require any additional information.
