Center Theatre Group Artistic Director Michael Ritchie and Managing Director / CEO Meghan Pressman are announcing the upcoming seasons for the Mark Taper Forum and Kirk Douglas Theatre. Presenting a rich variety of work on all three of CTG’s physical venues plus an offering on the Digital Stage, this season draws on a range of playwrights from emerging voices to acclaimed artists.

“This moment has been a long time coming,” said Pressman. “It’s the moment we have planned, worked and hoped for since we closed our theatres in March 2020. But as we prepared for this return to live performances, we also spent time reflecting on what it means to be a Los Angeles theatre company—a company that puts the multitude of communities and stories of L.A. center stage and elevates the stories that we want to tell in this new world.”

“The shows that Michael and our team of Associate Artistic Directors—Luis Alfaro, Lindsay Allbaugh, Tyrone Davis, Neel Keller and Kelley Kirkpatrick—have selected are a result of their deep and thoughtful work. These are seasons that celebrate the artists and diverse voices who have inspired us. On behalf of the Board and staff of Center Theatre Group, we are so proud to share Michael’s final season as artistic leader of Center Theatre Group with L.A. audiences.”

“When we closed the theatres at the start of the pandemic, I didn’t realize that the Taper would be closed for almost two years,” shares Ritchie. “But I did know that this unprecedented intermission would require a big return. Jeremy O. Harris' previously announced 'Slave Play' offers just that—a revelatory new play that truly changes the way we see the world around us. I felt that Los Angeles needed the opportunity to see Jeremy's work then, and it has only become more vital since.

"Across the plaza at the Ahmanson Theatre, 'The Lehman Trilogy' is a stunningly beautiful epic directed by Oscar winner Sam Mendes which tracks nearly two centuries in the lives of an immigrant family and their namesake business that both defined and threatened to destroy the American dream. It's a production that took London by storm and did the same on Broadway. I believe it is an excellent piece for the Taper audience."

"We welcome two of our longtime collaborators back to the Taper for the next two shows. Phylicia Rashad appeared in the world premiere of 'Blues for an Alabama Sky' 25 years ago. Now she revisits Pearl Cleage's beautiful work as a director. This is the fifth show Phylicia has directed for CTG, and the fourth on the Taper stage where she has also stunned audiences as an actress. Rajiv Joseph, who premiered 'Bengal Tiger and the Baghdad Zoo' and 'Archduke' with Center Theatre Group, returns with the world premiere production of 'King James' which explores basketball great LeBron James' impact on Rajiv's hometown of Cleveland and the way sports fandom can shape relationships well off the court."

"Master storyteller Mike Birbiglia, whose hilariously honest 'The New One' played the Ahmanson in 2019, will premiere his newest work at the Taper," said Ritchie. "Titled 'Mike Birbiglia: The Old Man and the Pool,' this latest piece delves into his own life for a disturbingly funny coming-of-middle-age story."

"And one more piece of the Taper season is Jon Robin Baitz's wry and revealing new play 'I'll Be Seein' Ya,' which is set in Los Angeles during the summer of 2020 where Hollywood fantasies collide with modern realities. This is Baitz's eighth production at CTG and fourth world premiere with us. Appropriately, this piece will have its premiere on CTG's Digital Stage, a venue born out of the pandemic and a need to create art and stay connected when our traditional stages were shuttered.

"Across town at the Kirk Douglas Theatre we will premiere another Southern California story from an exciting young writer, L.A.-native Benjamin Benne. His new play, 'Alma,' tells a humorous yet deeply human story of a mother and daughter and the wishes they hold for each other."

"We follow that with another important young writer and a voice that needs to be heard—the previously announced premiere of Dave Harris' 'Tambo & Bones,'" Ritchie continued. "We've been following his work for some time and after seeing a reading of this electric new play, we approached Dave and the director, Taylor Reynolds, to let them both know that we hoped we could be a part of their journey with this piece. It's been a long time coming but absolutely worth the wait.

"We conclude the season at the Douglas with Block Party: Celebrating Los Angeles Theatre. We had already selected our partner theatres and were days away from previews when the theatres closed in 2020. One of the plays, IAMA Theatre Company's 'Canyon' by Jonathan Caren, was adapted for (and is currently available on) our Digital Stage. Thankfully, we are able to bring back Sacred Fools' production of 'The Art Couple' by Brendan Hunt, who launched a cultural phenomenon in the interim, co-creating, performing on and winning an Emmy for 'Ted Lasso.' Our other production in Block Party 2022 will be The Los Angeles LGBT Center production of 'To T or Not to T? A Comedic Trans Journey through (T)estosterone and Masculinity' by CTG's 2021 Dorothy and Richard Sherwood Award-winning actor/writer/comic D'Lo. This immensely talented artist tells a very funny, personal and poignant story of self-discovery.

"This is a time like no other. And for me, this season is a season unlike any other. We normally announce the next season when we are in the midst of the last; one rolls into the next. But after a year and a half with our theatres sitting empty, I look at the theatre pieces with a new perspective—I see what I missed when it was gone. There is the electricity of a crowd waiting to be transported. For those of us who work in the theatre, there is always an excitement as we wait to see how the special alchemy of each performance reveals itself as the most vital element, the audience, is added.

"At this moment we have assembled a remarkable group of artists who are exploring the essential questions about who we are, how we got here and what's next. They come at these subjects from different perspectives, at different phases in their careers and lived experiences. Soon they will be joined by actors, directors, designers, producers, stage managers and the countless other artists and artisans that will come together to realize their now shared vision. In that process, we create theatre that will makes us laugh, cry, think and feel—that will spark conversations, expand our understanding of the world around us and challenge things we thought we knew."

"Slave Play"

By Jeremy O. Harris

Directed by Robert O'Hara

West Coast Premiere

February 9 through March 13, 2022

Opens February 16

Jeremy O. Harris' unflinching new work "Slave Play" will launch Center Theatre Group's new season at the Mark Taper Forum February 9 through March 13, 2022. Opening is set for February 16. Two-time NAACP and Obie Award winner and the recipient of Center Theatre Group's inaugural Sherwood Award, Robert O'Hara returns to direct "Slave Play," which earned a record 12 Tony nominations, the most for any play in the history of those awards. The original creative team from the Broadway engagement will bring the acclaimed new work to Los Angeles direct from Broadway, for its first production outside of New York. Casting will be announced at a future date.

Hailed as "the single most daring thing I've seen in a theater in a long time" by Wesley Morris of The New York Times and "a fascinating explosive-device of a play" by Peter Marks of The Washington Post, "Slave Play" takes place at the MacGregor Plantation, where nothing is as it seems, and yet everything is as it seems. It's an antebellum fever-dream as three interracial couples converge to rip open history at the intersection of race, love, sex and sexuality in 21st-century America. Soraya Nadia McDonald of The Undeclared said "wisdom and timeliness ripple through 'Slave Play,'" adding, "this play is lit."

“Slave Play” received the Rosa Parks Playwriting Award, the Lorraine Hansberry Playwriting Award, The Lotos Foundation Prize in the Arts and Sciences, and the 2018 Paula Vogel Award. The play was nominated for the Outer Critics Circle’s John Gassner Playwriting Award and the Lucille Lortel Award for Outstanding Play.

Jeremy O. Harris is a writer and performer living in New York City. Most recently, he co-wrote A24’s critically-acclaimed “Zola” with director Janicza Bravo, which released in theatres in July. In television, he has an overall deal with HBO and has worked on their hit series “Euphoria.” He is currently co-creating and co-showrunning an adaptation of Brit Bennett’s best-selling novel, “The Vanishing Half,” with Aziza Barnes at HBO. As an actor, Jeremy recently appeared on HBO Max’s smash hit “Gossip Girl,” and will next be seen in season two of Netflix’s Emmy-nominated “Emily in Paris.” As a playwright, he is the 11th recipient of the Vineyard Theatre’s Paula Vogel Playwrighting Award, a 2016 MacDowell Colony Fellow, an Orchard Project Greenhouse artist, a resident playwright with Colt Coeur; and is under commission from Lincoln Center Theater and The Public Theater. His full-length plays include: “Daddy”; “Xander Xyst, Dragon: 1”; and “WATER SPORTS; or insignificant white boys.” His work has been presented or developed by Pieter Performance Space, JACK, Ars Nova, The New Group, New York Theatre Workshop, and Performance Space New York. He is a graduate of the Yale MFA Playwriting Program.

Robert O’Hara has received the NAACP Best Play and Best Director Award, the Helen Hayes Award for Outstanding New Play, two Obies and the Herb Alpert Award. Broadway: “Slave Play” (Tony Nomination). Off Broadway: He directed the world premieres of Jeremy O. Harris’ “Slave Play,” Nikkole Salter and Dania Guiria’s “In the Continuum,” Tarell McCraney’s “The Brother/ Sister Plays (Part 2),” Colman Domingo’s “Wild with Happy,” Kirsten Childs’ “Bella: An American Tall Tale,” Ross Baum and Angelica Cheri’s “Gun and Powder” and his own plays, “Bootycandy,” “Mankind” and “Insurrection: Holding History.” His upcoming projects include directing O’Neill’s “Long Days Journey Into Night,” directing Anthony Davis’ “Opera X: The Life and Times of Malcolm X,” writing and directing a series for Netflix/Ryan Murphy and writing and directing a feature film adaptation of his original play, “Barbecue” for Anonymous Content.

Mark Taper Forum Season Production

Presented at the Ahmanson Theatre

“The Lehman Trilogy”

Written by Stefano Massini

Adapted by Ben Power

Directed by Sam Mendes

March 3 - April 10, 2022

Opens March 6

The story of a family and a company that changed the world, told in three parts on a single evening, the National Theatre and Neal Street Productions’ critically acclaimed “The Lehman Trilogy” will play a special limited engagement at the Ahmanson Theatre March 3 through April 10, 2022 directly following its limited Broadway engagement and after sold-out runs at the National Theatre, in London's West End and at the Park Avenue Armory in New York City. "The Lehman Trilogy" is written by Stefano Massini, adapted by Olivier Award-nominated Ben Power and directed by multiple Olivier Award, Tony Award and Oscar winner Sam Mendes ("The Ferryman," "Skyfall," "1917"). Opening is set for March 6, 2022.

"The Lehman Trilogy" weaves through nearly two centuries of Lehman lineage. On a cold September morning in 1844, a young man from Bavaria stands on a New York dockside dreaming of a new life in the new world. He is joined by his two brothers and an American epic begins. One hundred and sixty-three years later, the firm they establish—Lehman Brothers—spectacularly collapses into bankruptcy and triggers the largest financial crisis in history.

"The Lehman Trilogy" features set designs by Es Devlin, costume design by Katrina Lindsay, video design by Luke Halls and lighting design by Jon Clark. The composer and sound designer is Nick Powell, the co-sound designer is Dominic Bilkey, with music direction by Candida Caldicot and movement by Polly Bennett. The associate director is Zoé Ford Burnett. Casting to be announced.

The world premiere of Stefano Massini's "The Lehman Trilogy" opened at the Piccolo Teatro in Milan in 2015. It turned out to be Artistic Director Luca Ronconi's final production before his death. A long-term admirer of Ronconi's, Sam Mendes was inspired to begin planning an English adaptation for Neal Street Productions.

Ben Power was commissioned by Neal Street Productions to create a new version of this epic play, using a literal English translation by Mirella Cheeseman. This production opened at the National Theatre on July 4, 2018, before its North American premiere at the Park Avenue Armory where it garnered huge critical acclaim. The New York Times called it a "magnificent play... [a] genuinely epic production out of London, directed with surging sweep and fine-tooled precision by Sam Mendes...with a design team that understands the value of simplicity in doing justice to complex matters."

"The Lehman Trilogy" subsequently opened May 11, 2019, for a 16-week sold-out West End run at the Piccadilly Theatre. Following Broadway's 18-month shutdown, "The Lehman Trilogy" has returned to Broadway—where it had previously played four performances in March 2020—and is now playing at the Nederlander Theatre for a limited engagement until January 4, 2022.

Recent Broadway productions from the National Theatre include "Network" (Tony Award for Best Actor in a Play for Bryan Cranston); "Angels in America," the most nominated play in Tony Award history (three Tony Awards including Best Revival of a Play; Drama Desk Award; Drama League Award; Outer Critics Circle Award); "The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time" (five Tony Awards including Best Play; Drama Desk Award; Drama League Award; Outer Critics Circle Award); and "Hadestown," (eight Tony Awards including Best Musical). Off-Broadway, "People, Places & Things," a co-production with Headlong Theatre, and "The Jungle," a Good Chance Theatre co-production with the National Theatre and the Young Vic, transferred to St. Ann's Warehouse.

Neal Street Productions' recent Broadway hits include "The Ferryman" (four Tony Awards, including Best Play and Best Director of a Play) and film includes "1917," which recently won two Golden Globes for Best Motion Picture and Best Director (Sam Mendes).

Stefano Massini's work has been translated into 22 languages and performed around the world. His plays have been directed by Luca Ronconi, Lluís Pasqual, Arnaud Meunier, Irina Brook, Anton Kouznetsov, Declan Donnellan, Marius von Mayenburg, Stephan Bachmann and Sam Mendes. In 2015 he became the artistic consultant at Piccolo Teatro di Milano/Teatro d'Europa. Stefano Massini is the author of many novels and essays and contributes regularly to Italian newspaper La Repubblica. In film, he has collaborated with production companies such as Fandango and Cattleya. He appears weekly on Italian talk show "Piazzapulita" on La7.

Ben Power is a writer for theatre and film and an Associate of the National Theatre where his work includes "Husbands & Sons," "Medea" and "Emperor and Galilean." He has worked as a dramaturg on over 60 productions at the National and ran the temporary theatre, The Shed, during its three years on the South Bank. He was the associate director of Headlong, where his adaptations included "Six Characters in Search of an Author," "Faustus" and "Paradise Lost." Other work for theatre includes "A Tender Thing" for the RSC and dramaturgy on "A Disappearing Number" (Olivier, Evening Standard and Critics' Circle awards for Best Play). Screenplays include five episodes of "The Hollow Crown" (Royal Television Society and Broadcasting Press Guild Award for Best Single Drama; BAFTA nomination for Best Single Drama and Best Mini-Series).

Sam Mendes founded and ran the Donmar Warehouse in London for 10 years. He was the founding director of Neal Street Productions and The Bridge Project. His work has been seen at the National Theatre, RSC, Royal Court, Old Vic, Young Vic, BAM, the West End and on Broadway. Films include "American Beauty," "Road to Perdition," "Jarhead," "Revolutionary Road," "Away We Go," "Skyfall," "Spectre" and "1917." Awards include the Academy Award for Best Director and Best Picture and three other Academy Award nominations, five BAFTA Awards, three Golden Globe Awards, two Tony Awards, five Olivier Awards, the Olivier Special Award, three Evening Standard Awards, the PGA award, two Directors Guild of America Awards and the Shakespeare Prize. He has also won the Director's Guild Award for lifetime achievement. He was made a CBE in 2000 and knighted in 2020 for services to drama.

The National Theatre and Neal Street Productions' "The Lehman Trilogy" is presented in Los Angeles at the Ahmanson Theatre by Center Theatre Group.

Opens June 8

Center Theatre Group’s season at the Mark Taper Forum continues with the world premiere production of “King James” by Rajiv Joseph June 1 through July 3, 2022. Co-produced with Steppenwolf Theatre Company, “King James” was co-commissioned by Center Theatre Group and Steppenwolf Theatre Company. Opening is set for June 8. “King James” will have its world premiere at Steppenwolf March 3 through April 10, 2022. For more Information on the Chicago production, visit steppenwolf.org.

“King” LeBron James’s reign in Cleveland brings promise, prosperity and renewal to a city in desperate need of all three. It also brings together two friends who communicate best when they are talking and arguing about sports. “King James” is an intimate exploration of the place that sports and athletes occupy in our emotional lives and relationships. It explores the star player’s impact on Cleveland, from his rookie season to the city’s historic championship, and the lives of these two unlikely friends whose turbulent relationship is best navigated through their shared love of the sport in a verbal game of one on one. Though he is never seen in the show, LeBron James serves as a symbol for the hopes, desires and fears that they have bottled up since childhood.

“King James” is the new play from Cleveland native Rajiv Joseph who burst onto the American theatre scene with Pulitzer finalist “Bengal Tiger at the Baghdad Zoo,” which had its world premiere at the Kirk Douglas Theatre in 2009 before being produced at the Taper and then on Broadway. Joseph’s play “Archduke” had its world premiere at the Mark Taper Forum in 2017 as part of the Taper’s 50th season. He has won the Obie Award for Best New American Play twice, in 2016 for “Guards at the Taj” (also a 2016 Lortel Winner for Best Play) and then in 2018 for “Describe the Night.” Joseph wrote the libretto for the opera “Shalimar the Clown,” based on the novel by Salman Rushdie. He was also the co-writer of the feature film “Draft Day” and wrote for two seasons on the Showtime series “Nurse Jackie.” His other plays include “The North Pool,” “Gruesome Playground Injuries,” “Animals Out of Paper” and “The Lake Effect.” Joseph is a Steppenwolf ensemble member. Currently, Joseph’s “Letters of Suresh” is being performed at Second Stage in New York. His plays have been translated and produced worldwide.

Steppenwolf Theatre Company is America’s premier ensemble theatre. Formed in 1976 by Gary Sinise, Jeff Perry and Terry Kinney, the ensemble has expanded to 50 celebrated artists. Productions launched at the theater, from “August: Osage County” to “Pass Over,” and accolades including the National Medal of Arts and 12 Tony Awards made the Chicago theatre legendary. 2021 marks the opening of Steppenwolf’s landmark Arts & Education Center—deepening the company’s commitment to Chicagoland teens. steppenwolf.org.

Co-commissioned by Center Theatre Group and Second Stage Theatre, “I’ll Be Seein’ Ya” is directed by Robert Egan. The run dates for this presentation will be announced at a later date.

Allie Murchow dreams of a better yesterday, and bearable tomorrow in a rapidly changing urban America. It’s the summer of 2020 in Los Angeles, and this anxious, aging recluse is holed up in her meager apartment with little more than a million stories of her life in Hollywood’s yesteryear. But even the best makeup can’t cover up what’s really going on outside. Her neighbor is worried. Her brother needs peace and quiet. And her fantasies quickly crash into reality in this deeply human exploration of empathy, guilt, the kindness of strangers, and the impossibility of hiding from our ever-changing world.

"I'll Be Seein' Ya" is the eighth play by Jon Robin Baitz to be presented by Center Theatre Group and the fourth to receive its world premiere with CTG. Past productions at the Taper include "Dutch Landscape" (world premiere), "The Substance of Fire," "Three Hotels," "Ten Unknowns" and "Other Desert Cities." "The Paris Letter" and "Vicuña" received their world premieres at Kirk Douglas Theatre.

Alma and her daughter, Angel, have built a lifetime of wishes, one for each of Angel’s 17 years—health, love, carne asada every day and a spot at UC Davis. Now, on the eve of the SAT test, Alma comes home to discover her daughter is out drinking rather than studying her flashcards. As Alma goes into her parenting toolbox, drawing on guilt, nostalgia and an expertly wielded chancla (sandal), we learn that there is more than one person’s future at stake and the mother and daughter’s hopes and goals for each other may not be in as close alignment as they once were.

Opens May 8

The world premiere production of Dave Harris’ “Tambo & Bones” is the second production in Center Theatre Group’s season at the Kirk Douglas Theatre. Tambo and Bones are two characters trapped in a minstrel show. It’s mad hard to feel like a real person when you’re trapped in a minstrel show. Their escape plan: get out, get bank, get even. A rags-to-riches hip-hop odyssey, “Tambo & Bones” roasts America’s racist past, wrestles America’s racist present, and explodes America’s post-racial future—where what’s at stake, for those deemed less-than-human, is the fate of humanity itself.

Dave Harris is a poet and playwright from West Philly. He is the Tow Playwright-in-Residence at Roundabout Theatre Company. Written and performed by acclaimed queer/transgender Tamil-Sri Lankan-American actor/writer/comedian D'Lo, "To T or Not to T" is an unapologetically bold and hilarious personal autobiographical one person play. Featuring direction and dramaturgy by Adelina Anthony, "To T or Not to T" follows D'Lo's transformational journey of taking "T" starting from his childhood in Lancaster, California, towards the embodiment of a beautiful masculinity. Along the way, "To T or Not To T" explores the ways his relationship with his immigrant father, his love for hip hop and feminism, and his chosen family shape his decisions as both an artist and a human.

D'Lo's work ranges from stand-up comedy, solo theatre, plays, films, short stories and poetry. His solo shows "Ramble-Ations," "D'FunQT," "D'FaQTo Life" and "To T, or not To T" have toured theatres and festivals nationally, and he is a regular performer/speaker on the college/university circuit. Production Two Sacred Fools Theater Company production of "The Art Couple"
Written by Brendan Hunt
Directed by Lauren Van Kurin
July 23 – August 7, 2022
Opens July 27

Originally announced as part of the 2020 Block Party, "The Art Couple" from Sacred Fools Theater Company will take the second slot in the 2022 Block Party: Celebrating Los Angeles Theatre and will begin previews July 23, open July 27 and continue through August 7, 2022.

Written by five-time Emmy-nominated writer/actor/producer Brendan Hunt (winner for “Ted Lasso” – Outstanding Comedy Series) and directed by Lauren Van Kurin, “The Art Couple” is a dramedy about Neil Simon’s struggle to break a terrible case of writer’s block he is suffering after accepting a huge commission for his completely unwritten third play: “The Odd Couple.” Encouraged by a mysterious busboy with a western twang (who also happens to be an aspiring playwright), Simon decides the play should be more than schtick, it should be about art. When he learns that Vincent van Gogh and Paul Gauguin shared an ill-fated cohabitation, he endeavors to write about that real-life (but very odd) couple. Neil and the busboy battle for control of the play in parallel scenes and the odd couples begin to resemble something closer to “True West,” building irrevocably to a suitably ridiculous conclusion.

Originally from Chicago, Brendan Hunt is an actor-writer who has come to call Los Angeles home. His first professional gig was in Amsterdam with the notorious sketch/improv theatre Boom Chicago. That life-changing experience was depicted in his successful solo show “Five Years In Amsterdam.” He wrote and starred in the play “Absolutely Filthy” at Sacred Fools Theater Company, which went on to win both the LA and NY Fringe Festivals. On-screen appearances include “Key & Peele,” “Community,” and “Parks and Recreation.” He is a co-creator and co-star of the Emmy-winning “Ted Lasso” on Apple TV+.

Lauren Van Kurin is an actor, director, improviser, writer and associate member of Sacred Fools Theater. Directing credits: “Still Got It” (Best Solo Show Hollywood Fringe), “Pockets” (SoHo Playhouse Fringe Encore). Favorite acting credits: “King of Kong: A Musical Parody” (co-writer with Amber Ruffin, Best Musical Hollywood & NYC Fringe), “Rio Hondo” (Theatre of NOTE), “League of Fools” (Sacred Fools), “Jane Austen’s Emma Frankenstein” (Hollywood Fringe) “Earth To Karen” (Hollywood Fringe, Robby Award Best Supporting Actress in a Musical) and performing all over the world with The Second City cruising the high seas.

The Artistic Directors of Sacred Fools are Scott Golden, Marc Antonio Pritchett and Vanessa Stewart.

Sacred Fools Theater Company, the resident theatre company of The Broadwater on Hollywood Theatre Row, is a non-profit, artist-run theatre company founded in 1997, committed to the development of new plays and new ways of upending traditional expectations of the theatrical experience. Fools has presented nearly 100 mainstage productions garnering 100’s of awards and nominations. It’s also been home to a variety of ongoing workshops, labs, late-night and off-night productions, creating countless opportunities for theater artists at every stage of their careers. Sacred Fools plays that have been presented at larger venues or are produced by theatres around the country include: “Louis & Keely: Live at the Sahara,” “Stoneface: The Rise and Fall and Rise of Buster Keaton,” “Absolutely Filthy,” “Watson: The Last Great Tale of Sherlock Holmes. “The Behavior of Broadus” (Burglars of Hamm) was a co-production with CTG in 2015.
